HEDLEY DEFIANT AT I.R.T. STRIKE THREAT; CITY MOBILIZES TO MEET POSSIBLE TIE-UP; ARBITRATION OFFERED BY TRANSIT BOARD

WALKOUT SET FOR TUESDAY

The "Outlaws" Will Be Discharged if They Persist, Says Hedley.

EMERGENCY LINES PLANNED

Street Railways, Ferries and Buses to Give Added Service if Subways Are Crippled.

ALL OFFICIALS PLEDGE AID

Full Power of City Will Be Used to Help Traffic—Walker Sees Grave Situation, Cancels Trip.

A strike of the motormen and switchmen of the subway division of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company one minute after midnight next Tuesday morning, which, its promoters declared, would extend to that company's elevated lines, was threatened yesterday by the Consolidated Railroad Workers of Greater New York, formed Thursday night at a meeting in Moose Hall in Harlem.

Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Company, whom a committee of the prospective strikers were unable to see, hit back by declaring that these men by leaving the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Company Employes and forming a new union had forfeited their employment with the Interborough, in accordance with the company's agreement with the Brotherhood. He added that he believed most of the subway motormen and switchmen had been misled by ambitious leaders, but that he would have to discharge them if they continued in what he characterized an outlaw organization. Mr. Hedley met the threat of a strike by declaring that the Interborough Company had taken adequate measures to fill the place of every subway motorman and switchman who failed to report for work at the regular time.

A committee of the subway motormen and switchmen, Edward P. Lavin, Harry Bark and Joseph G. Phelan, tried to see Mr. Hedley early in the day. Failing to get a hearing, they left an ultimatum in the form of a letter to Mr. Hedley, announcing that the subway motormen and switchmen would quit work at one minute past midnight Tuesday morning unless their demands for a flat $1 an hour rate for motormen and 75 cents an hour for switchmen were granted.

Slight Hope to Avert Strike.

Although the officials of the Interborough were preparing to keep their subway and elevated lines running in the event of a strike, some slight hope of averting it came from an offer by the members of the Transit Commission to arbitrate the wage demand. The committee of prospective strikers told the Commissioners they would refer the offer to a general meeting of Interborough employes which will begin this morning at 10 o'clock in Moose Hall, Lenox Avenue and 127th Street, and will last all day. They promised to report the result of this meeting at another conference with the Transit Commissioners at the latters's office, 233 Madison Avenue, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

In addition to offering their services as arbitrators, the Transit Commissioners took the initiative in calling a conference of the operating heads of other transit lines and Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, to arrange for emergency service for north and south transportation in Manhattan and the Bronx and for additional service in Brooklyn and Queens in the event of an Interborough strike. Every transit company in the city offered to help, and crosstown cars will be transferred to the longitudinal lines to help carry the increased traffic.

Emergency Bus Service.

Commissioner Goldman, after consultation with Mayor Walker, announced he would establish an emergency bus service in the event of a strike and was ready to run a fleet of ferryboats north and south on the Hudson River during rush hours. These ferryboats will stop at 129th, Forty-second and Cortlandt Streets and will give what will amount to an express service.

The full power of the City Administration will be used to furnish transportation if a strike comes. The Fifth Avenue Coach Company will run sixty additional buses and will transfer buses on crosstown service to its longitudinal lines. Commissioner Goldman has arranged for regular service by some of the sight-seeing buses, which will be withdrawn if necessary from runs to the baseball parks and Coney Island, to carry passengers on regular runs on routes paralleling the Interborough subways. He also has arranged with owners of large fleets of motor trucks to press these into service under the supervision of the Department of Plant and Structures, in case it becomes necessary. In fact, the city Administratoion is prepared to use every possible form of transportation to get the public to and from work,

Government Cuts Out $75-a-Month Ticker; Told Customs Men When Ships Arrived

Two announcements came out simultaneously yesterday at the Custom House. One was from the Collector of the Port reporting that the customs receipts for the fiscal year just ended were the largest in New York's history. The other was an order from Controller General John R. McCarl in Washington discontinuing the Western Union ticker service concerning the movements of shipping in New York Harbor because the service cost $75 monthly.

The Controller General's action was reported not to have been taken for purposes of economy, but because he could find no legal ground for paying the $75 a month from the customs revenues here. He was not quoted as expressing any opinion regarding payment made since 1891 to the Western Union for this service, which is regarded by inspectors and appraisers here as highly valuable. Customs men indeed went so far as to say that if the service was not restored it would cost the Government far more than $900 a year to pay extra men to watch the movements of vessels and to telephone to the Custom House and Barge Office. The ruling applies to all ports in this country where a similar service is maintained.

Customs receipts in New York for the fiscal year ended June 30 were $319,921,164. This is $15,731,814 more than the receipts for the previous year.

MRS. J. H. FLAGLER TO WED THIRD TIME

Will Be Bride of A. M. Sullivian, a Physical Instructor, at Stroudsburg, Pa., Tuesday.

BOTH FIGURED IN DIVORCES

Plans Kept Secret at Request of Steel Man's Widow—License Obtained June 25.

Special to The New York Times.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., July 2.—Mrs. Beatrice Wenneker Flagler, widow of John H. Flagler, multimillionaire steel and iron man, whose first husband was an employe in Mr. Flagler's office, is about to be married for the third time to a physical culture instructor.

This was disclosed here today when it was learned that Mrs. Flagler and her fiancé, Armand M. Sullivan, also known as Professor A. M. Sullivian and Armand M. Goldreich, had obtained a marriage license on June 25, at the office of Prothonotary Jacob H. Hill, and had made arrangements with Justice of the Peace Pierre M. Nillis to marry them at his office, 21 North Seventh Street, here, next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Flagler was named recently in a suit for divorce brought against Goldreich by Mrs. Marie J. Goldreich of New Zittau, Germany. An interlocutory decree filed in the County Clerk's office in New York on April 17 last found Goldreich guilty of misconduct with Ella Dumke at 62 East Ninety-sixth Street, between 1920 and 1924.

While the case was pending, affidavits were filed asserting that Mrs. Flegled and Goldreich had gone to Europe together on the steamship Deutschland in the Summer of 1924 and that they had returned together on the same vessel.

It also was alleged that Goldreich had been an occupant of the apartment leased by Mrs. Flagler at 1,160 Fifth Avenue, but when the case was referred to Robert Lee Morrell, as referee, no testimony was offered by counsel for Mrs. Goldreich involving Mrs. Flagler.

Had Physical Culture School.

Goldreich, who is said to have been at various times a professional strong man and athletic instructor to the German royal family, was directed in the decree to pay only $50 a month allimony because of testimony that his earnings had decreased of late, although he is said at one time to have earned $5,000 a year. Up to two years ago he conducted a physical culture school at 667 Madison Avenue.

News of the approaching marriage became known following differences of Mrs. Flagler and Goldreich with the management of the Elvin House at Mount Pocono, where they had been stopping since April. When they arrived there Mrs. Flagler registered under her own name, and Goldreich registered as "Professor A. M. Sullivan." The manager, Alvin J. Fluter, and his wife were told that their new guests did not wish to be introduced to any one under any circumstances.

When at a number of social functions at the hotel after that time introductions were found necessary, Mr. Fluter said that both Mrs. Flagler and the professor upbraided him roundly. On another occasion, Fluter said, when his wife and the professor got into an argument over the placing of a chair, the latter threatened to knock Mrs. Fluter down. In view of much unpleasantness, Fluter said, he finally asked Mrs. Flagler and Sullivian to leave.

Once during their stay at his hotel, Fluter said, Mrs. Fluter drove Sullivan and Mrs. Flagler to Stroudsburg. On the way home they ran into a violent electrical storm, and Mrs. Flagler became so ill from fright that they had to turn back to Stroudsburg, where she was put under the care of a physician in a hotel. She was confined to her bed for two days as a result of her experience, Fluter said.

His Mother in Budapest.

At the office of the Prothonotary, Goldreich gave his name as Armand M. Sullivian, his age as 52, and his birthplace Budapest. His father's name, he said, was E. Philip Sullivian Goldreich, and his mother's Rose Goldreich. He said his mother is still living in Budapest and gave her occupation as a domestic. He also told of his previous marriage, and both he and Mrs. Flagler gave their home address as Mount Pocono, although at the hotel both had registered as from Stamford, Conn., where Mrs. Flagler lived for several years.

Mrs. Flagler said she was 38 years

SMITH SENDS LICENSE TO COOLIDGE TO FISH

Says the State's Latchstring Is on the Outside, in Warm Welcome to President.

TO VISIT CAMP JULY 16

Governor Will Provide Autos and Lead Officials' Pilgrimage to Adirondack Resort.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 2.—Governor Smith, in a letter sent to President Coolidge yesterday, enclosed a fishing license and informed the President that the latchstring was on the outside, and that the people of New York State extended to him a warm welcome when he comes to the Adirondacks to pass his vacation.

The Governor also said that as soon as possible after the President's arrival at White Pine Camp on Osgood Lake he would motor up and extend the welcome in person. The Governor's letter follows:

> State of New York,
> Executive Chamber,
> Albany, July 1, 1926.
>
> Hon. Calvin Coolidge,
> The White House,
> Washington, D. C.:
>
> Dear President Coolidge: I desire to express the pleasure felt by our people upon your coming into our State for your Summer vacation. We all earnestly hope that you and Mrs. Coolidge will be benefited by the cooling breezes of the Adirondack Mountains. We are happy to have the proud privilege of preparing you for your Winter's labors at the national capital.
>
> It is customary to give distinguished visitors a key to the city. We have no keys in this State. The latchstring is on the outside, and we are all tickled to death that you pulled it. A warm welcome is extended to you, and I enclose herewith a fishing license issued by the Conservation Commission. Bearing in mind that the largest fish are those that get away, we all hope you will not miss any.
>
> At the first opportunity after your arrival I will be glad to motor up and extend the welcome in person on behalf of all the people of our State.
>
> Sincerely yours,
> ALFRED E. SMITH.

After his arrival in this city early last night Governor Smith announced he would pay a formal visit to President Coolidge at the latter's Summer camp on Osgood Lake in the upper Adirondacks on July 16.

"I expect to extend to him the hearty welcome of the State of New York," the Governor said. "It is a courtesy due the President of the United States when he comes to this State to spend his Summer."

The Governor will take quite a party for the visit. He said he had invited Republican State officials, including President Pro Tem. of the Senate John Knight and Speaker McGinnies of the Assembly, to accompany him. The trip will be made in automobiles which the Governor will provide.

Won't Go to Governors' Meeting.

Governor Smith has decided not to attend the Governors' conference at Cheyenne, Wyo., on July 29. It is a long trip and the Governor dislikes railroad travel in hot weather. Aside from the discomfort, the trip would involve considerable expense. The Republican Legislature in the general appropriation bill this year provided that the money allowed the Governor and other State officials for traveling expenses must all be spent within the State. Until recently no limitation had been put on the Governor's traveling allowance.

The Governor said that as far as possible he would put the lid on official business and political conferences during his stay in this city. He expects to remain until July 13. One exception will be on Tuesday forenoon when the Governor will give an extradition hearing in his suite at the Biltmore. George B. Graves, secretary to the Governor, is expected from Albany tomorrow.

"I have come down here to get a little swimming and as much time to myself as possible," the Governor said. "For that reason I have sent word to a number of people who have written and asked for appointments that it will not be possible for me to see them at this time. There is nothing new in the political situation and there is no prospect of any decisions of a political character being reached for some time to come. The conventions are far off."

On Monday Governor Smith will appear with Mayor Walker at the Tammany Society's Fourth of July cele-

Coolidge Names F. T. Davison Army Air Head; Senate Confirms Him and Warner for Navy

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—F. Trubee Davison of New York was nominated today by President Coolidge to be Assistant Secretary of War in charge of aviation.

Less than two hours after it had been transmitted to the Senate the nomination of Mr. Davison was confirmed.

The Senate also confirmed the nomination of Edward P. Warner, Professor of Aeronautics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to be Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of aviation.

Messrs. Davison and Warner will hold posts created under legislation just enacted by Congress with a view to making the army and navy air services stronger. An Assistant Secretary of Commerce to have charge of the new Bureau of Civil Aeronautics is also provided for, but no one has been designated.

F. Trubee Davison has represented the Second District of Nassau County in the New York State Assembly since 1921. He is a son of the late Henry P. Davison, who was a partner in the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mr. Davison, who is 30 years old, drove an ambulance in France before this country entered the war, and when the United States joined in the hostilities he enlisted in the Naval Air Service and became a Lieutenant, junior grade. He received the Navy Cross for meritorious service.

Mr. Davison married in 1920 Dorothy Peabody of Groton, Mass. They have three sons.

JUDGES CRITICIZED BY M'LAUGHLIN AT CRIME BOARD INQUIRY

Some Could Not Qualify as Patrolmen, He Says—For Curb on Arms and "Fences."

LAWES DENIES "CODDLING"

Can't Have Human Filing Cabinet, He Declares—Inequality of Sentences Condemned.

The Crime Commission of New York State, at its first open session in this city, held yesterday in the Bar Association Building at 42 West Forty-fourth Street, received information and suggestions for crime prevention from District Attorneys, Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin, prison wardens, State police officers, heads of civic and anti-crime bodies and from even a reformed ex-convict who had served three terms aggregating fifteen years in prison.

Commissioner McLaughlin vigorously defended the police, deplored the lack of cooperation they received from prison officials, declared that some Judges on the bench could not qualify as policemen on account of their past records, pleaded for more respect for the patrolmen, urged a restriction on the manufacture, sale and importation of firearms and a consolidation of magistrates' courts and told the commission to spend less time on statistics and go after practical means to prevent crime.

Denies "Coddling" at Sing Sing.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison said that reports of "coddling" prisoners there were "bunk." Pistols, he said, were the greatest cause of crime, and he added that if drug addiction caused the crime wave, the police were not getting the addicts as he had only 6 addicts to each 100 prisoners. District Attorney Joab H. Banton of New York County and District Attorney Elvin M. Edwards of Nassau County offered cooperation. Some of the witnesses, none of whom was sworn, did not favor more severe punishment.

State Senator Caleb H. Baumes, Chairman of the Crime Commission, said:

"It is most important that we do something now to stop crimes of violence entailing loss of life and danger to property. A lawless condition prevails, as witness the daring hold-up at the Roosevelt Hospital, and I think this commission would be justified in recommending very severe measures for criminals convicted of crimes of that nature."

"What we want," said Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond of the commission, "is to get on the statute books a set of laws that will mean that hold-up men will be sent to prison for longer terms than they ever dreamed of, and with no parole."

Commissioner McLaughlin was the fourth speaker. He began by saying that nothing the preceding speakers had said was of any aid to him in conducting the Police Department.

Wants Firearms Controlled.

"All hold-ups are attributable to the criminals who are armed with revolvers," he said. "I have met only one criminal who was a real man with courage enough to tackle another man without having a revolver. With all due respect to the National Crime Commission, why didn't it tackle that question before it did? As for arming everybody—what use is a pistol to a citizen in a hold-up? Six policemen have been shot this year. Look at the disadvantage they are under with their pistols. The question of the control of firearms must be met, no matter whom you may run up against, and I understand there is a powerful lobby in Washington to protect firearms.

"The Police Department is not perfect. You could tell me to mind my own business and I would have a lot to do. We need 4,300 men to cover posts in this city. Today crime is organized and the criminal is intelligent in crime.

"Second to firearms in importance are the 'fences,' receivers of stolen goods. Today you can steal anything and dispose of it. Severe sentences for criminals are very important. Your commission should not spend too much time on statistics. Go into the practical side of crime. Spend a week with us at Headquarters. See the line-up every day and you will get more information that will be of practical benefit in one day there than you will in six months of studying statistics.

Slayers of Police Dodge Trial.

"When six men can enter a big hospital in daylight and get away with $10,000 there is no question that apprehension is not quick enough. On the other hand, the policeman is at a disadvantage. Not a single man who killed a policeman this year has yet been tried. This is demoralizing to the Police Department. But it is easy to convict a policeman.

"The policeman here does not receive proper respect. Even some District

COOLIDGE SPEEDS UP BILLS AS CONGRESS PLANS TO END TODAY

Farm Marketing, Army Aviation and War Veterans' Measures Receive His Approval.

RECORD PLEASES PRESIDENT

He Believes the Electorate Will Stand by the Administration in Fall Elections.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—President Coolidge signed today three important measures—the Cooperative Marketing, Army Aviation and War Veterans' bills—and tomorrow he will go to his office in the Capitol to act on bills sent to him on the final day of the session.

Everything is set for adjournment of Congress at 3 o'clock Standard Time tomorrow afternoon. A resolution fixing the hour and date was passed by the House today and promptly transmitted to the Senate, where, in accordance with practice, it was referred to the Rules Committee. It will be reported to the Senate tomorrow and passed without opposition, as things now stand.

Both houses worked under pressure today and tonight, considering for the most part bills on the calendar to which there was no objection. A good deal of business of this character was transacted, and when Senate and House meet tomorrow it will be to put the finishing touches on a session which was called to order on Dec. 7 last and continued just a little short of seven months.

Only a few more than a quorum of the House is still in Washington. The same is true of the Senate. Many members from nearby States have been slipping out of town the past week and have ignored telegraphic instructions to hurry back to prevent possible complications over adjournment as scheduled. There will be no trouble on this score, however, according to the leaders, who declare that all rough spots have been ironed out and that there is no disposition in any quarter to hold Congress here beyond 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The heat of the past week undoubtedly aided the plans of the leaders to adjourn. Washington is now in the midst of dog-day weather, and the legislative chambers and galleries at the Capitol are stuffy and uncomfortable.

No roll call was demanded when the adjournment resolution was called up in the House today. It went through by a viva voce vote, as members on both sides applauded and cheered.

Farm Record a Problem.

The President approaches his vacation, which will begin next Wednesday, with his most important recommendations enacted into laws, but with a record on farm legislation that may cause a political upheaval in the West, upset party control in the next Congress, and provide an issue that will work against him should he seek renomination in 1928.

While there has been a political reaction that those opposed to the Administration declare reflects sentiment against his policies, Mr. Coolidge was reported today as entirely satisfied with the situation in the country and the record of Congress. Prosperous trade conditions, with indications of continuance, have convinced the President and his advisers, it is said, that the electorate will stand behind the Administration in the Fall elections.

The President has noted the unfavorable surface developments, but does not intend to do anything that might seem to show that he is concerned. He will not take part in the coming campaign.

Believes Voters Impressed.

Mr. Coolidge is represented as believing that the action of Congress in carrying out his policies on taxation and the course of the Administration, in keeping down governmental expenses will impress the voters as things of lasting benefit to all the people. The Administration believes that farm conditions will not be charged up to the President, but to economic conditions that cannot be remedied by legislative action.

As this first session of the most important Congress in his Administration adjourns, the President recalls that he has received affirmative action on two proposals recommended in his message that stand as important achievements and tend to wipe out some of the disappointments encountered. The ratification by the Senate of the World Court Protocol and the enactment of the Tax Revision bill along the lines recommended by the President are the outstanding measures that the Administration believes will be accepted by all the people as worth while.

Mr. Coolidge in interested chiefly in

23 STATE DRY LEAGUES SPENT $7,644,968 IN SIX YEARS; BIG SUMS PAID SPEAKERS; INQUIRY TURNS TO HUGE PARTY FUNDS

PARTY CHIEFS ON STAND

Butler Denies Purpose to Raise $1,500,000, but Admits $450,000.

DEMOCRATS STILL IN DEBT

Shaver Declares the National Committee Will Have No Funds This Year.

GERRY SPRINGS A SURPRISE

Says the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee Has Collected $25,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—That a Republican campaign fund of one and a half million dollars has been planned for this year's election was suggested tonight by Senator Reed of Missouri, Chairman of the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee, which ventured forth into a new field by undertaking to ascertain what the National Republican and Democratic parties are planning in the way of budgets.

The figure was named while Senator William M. Butler of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, was on the stand. He denied all knowledge of money plans for the election, until he was reminded by Senator Reed of a meeting of prominent Republican Senators a few weeks ago at the Capitol and later with President Coolidge at the White House.

The Senator parried a number of good-natured thrusts from Senator Reed, and while he never admitted the sum mentioned, did admit that there had been discussed the need of $200,000 to help Republican Senators and from $200,000 to $250,000 to help Republican members of the House, or a total of about $450,000.

Besides Senator Butler the committee tonight heard Clem Shaver, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Senator Peter Goelet Gerry of Rhode Island, Chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Senator McMaster of South Dakota, a member of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee. All four were examined in less than one hour about their parties' financial plans.

Gerry Admits Collecting $25,000.

A surprise was furnished by Senator Gerry, who was the only one who really admitted having money or the semblance of a budget. He declared the Democratic Senatorial Committee has collected $25,000 and made plans for spending it. This brought from Senator Reed an expression of astonishment. He said he did not know there was so much money in the Democratic Party.

Mr. Shaver had just told him that the National Democratic Committee is still behind on nearly one-half of its $300,000 indebtedness due to the 1924 campaign, and has no prospects of raising anything for this year's Congressional election.

Democrats in Debt, Says Shaver.

Mr. Shaver was called first tonight and was asked about the moneys of the Democratic National Committee. When Senator Reed inquired if he had any money he stated that he could give no figures, but that whatever they might be they were "mostly debt." This, he added, was left over from November, 1924.

"Has that debt been lifted?"

"Not all," said Mr. Shaver.

"You are still in debt?"

"Some."

"How much?"

"Nearly half of it."

Senator Reed observed that it was hardly necessary to ask if the Democrats had any money for the next campaign.

To this Mr. Shaver replied that the committee had about $2,000. The committee has taken no part in the primaries.

"Have you made any arrangements for receiving moneys in the coming campaign?" Senator Reed asked.

"We have not," Mr. Shaver said.

"You have prepared no budget of any kind?"

"None whatever," was the reply.

"You have made no pledges or promises?"

"None whatever."

"Well," said Mr. Reed, "we are much obliged to you Mr. Shaver, but we are sorry the Democratic Party is nearly bankrupt."

Butler Disclaims a Specific Sum.

Senator Butler followed Mr. Shaver, and declared at the outset that no plans as to finances had been made. He was asked to tell who was in charge of the Republican Headquarters, and said:

"I presume that I have the management of headquarters here."

"Has there been a budget prepared, tentatively or otherwise? Senator Reed inquired, "for use in the oncoming campaign?"

"No," Mr. Butler said.

He said no literature was being sent out except where it went in response to inquiries of people.

The Senator stated that he might

ANDREWS THREATENS TO QUIT NEXT FALL

Dry Chief Is Discouraged at Failure of Congress to Grant Powers He Sought.

FEELS HIS HANDS ARE TIED

Foster Resigns as Chief of New York Alcohol Squad—Hale Named to Succeed Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—General Lincoln Andrews, head of the Federal prohibition forces, is considering handing in his resignation, with a request to be relieved from duty some time next Fall. He refused today to confirm or deny that such were his intentions, but intimated that he seriously was contemplating such a course. He has not been altogether happy in the job, and the refusal of Congress at the present session to adopt legislation for the reorganization of his forces or the tightening up of the enforcement laws has, he feels, left him without the authority necessary to accomplish effective work.

"Congress has given me money and men," said General Andrews, "but it has not given me the legislation which is vital if we are going to get at the real sources of supply. If it fails to act on these bills before adjournment it will seriously handicap the campaign we have outlined this year."

General Andrews told newspaper men in New York last November that he would resign within a year if it was then established to his satisfaction that he would not be able effectively to enforce the prohibition laws. When pressed today to tell whether he now contemplated quitting in November, at the end of the year period, he would make no definite statement, indicating that this was a question which required careful thought.

Sails for Europe on July 7.

In any event, it was intimated that he would not go out of office until he had completed his trip to Europe, on which he sails from New York on the Aquitania on July 7. He will be accompanied by representatives of the State Department and the Department of Justice and will go first to England and possibly later to Germany and France. Their hope is to work out agreements with these countries which will bring about closer cooperation in the enforcement of anti-smuggling treaties. The British Government has signified its intention to do what it can to end the operations of rum fleets.

Whether General Andrews will clear up the doubt about his reported intention of resigning before he sails is not known. He said he might have an important statement to make next Tuesday, but he would not discuss the nature of it.

It had been his intention, if Congress passed the reorganization bill, to call a meeting of all the district administrators upon his return from Europe, in August or September, to work out a new campaign for tighter enforcement, but whether he will carry out that program under present conditions is a matter of doubt.

In the midst of his uncertainties General Andrews was called upon today to name a new chief for the alcohol squad, John A. Foster resigning from that office. General Andrews appointed Frank Hale, now connected with the New York prohibition forces, as acting supervisor, with headquarters in Washington.

The intimation that General Andrews might soon resign did not come as a great surprise to many who had closely followed his efforts to tighten up enforcement work. Not long after he took his present job, the General found that Senator Reed Agrees to Hear Arguments, but Indicates They Will Be Futile.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Additional figures on the high cost of prohibition agitation in the separate States, filed with the Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee today, show that in twenty-three States there was collected by the local organizations $7,658,166, while the expenditures were $7,644,968.

This sum is for the period 1920 to 1925, and, in a few cases, also includes collections made in the first five months of the present year. It does not include political campaign expenses and is exclusive of the moneys collected in the same period by the national organization of the league. With the funds of the national office added the total for all is $11,102,789 in collections, while the disbursements were $11,075,253. The national total is also exclusive of moneys spent in political campaigns.

The total Anti-Saloon League receipts revealed today for States not previously covered aggregated $4,195,296 and the expenditures in these same States were $4,041,040, according to the table submitted to the investigating committee. The States covered by today's revelations were Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Connecticut, Kentucky, Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Rhode Island, Iowa, Vermont, West Virginia, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Alabama, Missouri, Nebraska and Maryland.

There are still twenty-five States to be heard from, and when these reports, together with the campaign totals, are reported it is believed that the collections and expenditures for the six-year period will mount up to somewhere between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the league, expects to file the rest of the State accounts early next week.

Mr. Wheeler was on the stand during the entire morning and afternoon sessions today, and but for his earnest plea for time in which to argue for the suppression of the names of the persons who finance the Anti-Saloon League, the name of every man and woman who in any one year has given as much or more than $500 to the league since 1917 would have been made public by the committee.

Secrecy on Names Unlikely.

The committee agreed to give Mr. Wheeler a chance to make his plea behind closed doors, but Senator Reed made it clear that the chance was remote that his request would be granted.

"This money is used for political purposes," said Senator Reed, "and there is no reason why they should not be published."

Mr. Wheeler also asked that the names of those who are friendly to the cause but who do not contribute be suppressed. It was shown by documentary evidence that in the famous anti-Ku Klux and Ku Klux campaign in Texas in 1924 the Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League for that State wrote for a list of the Texas "friends" to be used in the primary. In that year it was openly charged that the Texas branch was in alliance with the Klan.

"If you use these lists in political campaigns how can you ask us to keep them private?" Senator Reed asked Mr. Wheeler.

The high cost of "oratory" also figured in today's developments and a mild sensation followed the reading of letters written by Representative W. D. Upshaw of Georgia, a leading "dry," in which the Georgian asked for remuneration in one letter, saying he did not have enough money to buy a ticket to Atlanta. In another letter he said that in fixing the amount of his pay the League Treasurer was asked to "let his conscience guide" when the time came to make out the check. Another document indicated that the league decided $25 was enough for Mr. Upshaw on that occasion. The same official wrote that he took Mr. Upshaw's poverty plea with a "grain of salt."

Hobson Received $171,249.

The biggest item for speeches, however, was credited to ex-Representative Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama, who, in the period 1914 to 1922, received from the League $171,249. In 1919 the late William J. Bryan was also on the payroll and that year his remuneration amounted to $11,000. In the same year Frank B. Willis, now Senator from Ohio, was listed for $1,200, while payments to the Rev. Sam Small, evangelist, for a period of years amounted to $32,674. Mr. Hobson's big year was 1919, when his checks totaled $32,800.

Mr. Wheeler said that at present the

Wheeler Tells of the Dry League's Use of Millions

League, that is, the national organization, is asking for a fifty-thousand-dollar campaign fund, but that to date it has collected only $8,678. E. I. Lalter of Detroit is the principal contributor up to this time, his gift being $8,500, while Rufus Bates of Weymouth, Mass., and C. O. Blood of Lynnfield Center, Mass., each were listed for $1,000. No other contributions amounted to more than $500. Mr. Wheeler said this fund was to offset a fund which he declared the anti-prohibitionists are raising and which is to be, he said, at least $300,000, all of it to be used in the 1926 campaign.

Even Mr. Wheeler laughed when the Upshaw letters were read. He remarked that they sounded "just like Bill." Once Mr. Wheeler remarked that Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland, a wet leader in the House, was also paid for his speeches. In the course of the afternoon, Mr. Hill in a statement declared he had never received a cent for any speech he ever made on the question. He had, he said, accepted railway expenses but that was all.

Upshaw Joyful Over Collection.

The Upshaw letter which caused the audience to titter loud and long was dated Dec. 24, 1924 and was addressed to the late Milo G. Kelser, who was manager of the Speakers' Bureau of the Anti-Saloon League.

"Sing the doxology and turn a few somersaults," Mr. Upshaw wrote, "if you want to join in celebration of our very fine League rally at Immanuel Baptist Church last Sunday night. I turned over to Wheeler's office the cards amounting to a little over $1,100 in subscriptions, and about $50 cash and checks, and now here comes another check for $3 on a $60 five-year pledge, running up the amount to $1,168, if I calculated rightly.

"I was amazed at the large number of five-year subscriptions in the face of the pastor's request that I grant them special privilege of reducing the number of years from five to one or two, if they preferred. I think you will have to shell down the corn and admit that your Georgia friend made a pretty good speech on America's greatest battle."

At this point there is an interlineation written in ink which reads:

"Remember this $1,168 collection cost you no advertising and only $1 taxi. In sending check let your conscience be your guide."

The letter then continues:

"I am sure the cash would have been decidedly larger if it had not been so near Christmas. I reminded them of that fact, telling them that I did not want to press them unduly under the circumstances. They are a fine, solid set of people—no better in Washington—and I am sure your collection will be above the average."

Upshaw Wanted $75 a Sunday.

A letter from Mr. Kelser to H. H. Bowers, another league official, concerning Upshaw under date of Dec. 24, 1924, read as follows:

"Here are the facts in regard to the Upshaw matter. Wheeler came to me soon after I arrived in Washington and in the presence of George W. Crabbe, reported that Upshaw would like to date himself for two big Baptist Churches Sunday, Dec. 14, in Washington.

"I at once asked what he would want for his services, saying that the speakers who were helping in the field day were without exception doing so without expectation of remuneration. Crabbe spoke up and said: 'He will not speak for me for less than $75 for a Sunday of two services.' I said: 'That is too much.'

"Wheeler remarked he though Upshaw would not ask so much, as that speaking was right there in Washington. I replied I did not feel we ought to pay him more than a nominal fee, if anything. However, on Wheeler's insistence, I took the matter up with Upshaw and told him very frankly that all of the men who were speaking in the December 14 field day in Washington were doing so without remuneration, and that we felt since he lives right there in Washington, he ought to be willing to speak for the league without charge.

"I told him that his political success was due 95 per cent. to the league. He granted everything I said but pleaded poverty; he said he did not have enough money to get home from Washington (in Atlanta, Ga.) to spend Christmas with his family, &c.

"He said it was necessary for him to depend upon every possible resource in order to get by. Of course, I took all he said with a 'grain of salt.' His final statement was that he would go ahead and arrange the appointments if he possibly could, and he would leave it entirely to my judgment as to what remuneration he should receive. He succeeded in arranging only one appointment, and that was in the evening. The letters herewith explain everything. Doty and I have talked about it, and it seems to us we will be doing the fair thing if we send him a check for $25. He says there was no expense connected with filling the appointment except $1 for tax. I wonder if that has come in as an expense charge from Upshaw.

"Maybe he intended the mere statement in the letter herewith to be sufficient. If so, our check should be for $26—$25 honorarium, and $1 expense for his service. If you will send the check along with this correspondence, I will write him."

Wheeler Resumes the Stand.

Despite the intense heat, one of the largest crowds to attend any session of the committee was on hand this morning when Mr. Wheeler resumed the witness chair. He and Senator Reed smiled at each other before the battle began. Only once or twice did Senator Reed flare up today. Once was when Mr. Wheeler said the wets were mixing up in politics just as much as the drys, whereupon Senator Reed admonished him to not hide under the "vicious coat tails of the wets."

"Is it true," asked Senator Reed, "that the States, outside of a few that are weak, contribute 10 per cent., or approximately 10 per cent. of the moneys they collected, to the Anti-Saloon League of America?"

"They have an assessment plan. Superintendent McBride, when he is on the stand, can give you that better than I can," Mr. Wheeler replied.

"But, in a general way, that is approximately true, is it not; about 10 per cent.?" asked Mr. Reed.

"There is a suggested assessment made, and the States pay it—all of them that can," said Mr. Wheeler. "It varies with their income and the conditions in the State. They do not follow an absolute per cent. basis, as I recall it."

Q.—Would it run along about 10 per cent? A.—In several of the States, yes, I should say it would.

Q.—Would you say that would be a fair average? A.—No, because a number of the smaller States, even those that are self-supporting, do not give that amount.

Q.—Do some of them give more than that amount? A.—I do not think they do. They give less.

Lists Salaries to League Men.

Senator Reed put into the record an expense sheet showing the salaries paid Anti-Saloon League officials, payments to various speakers, and the cost of publishing The American Issue, the national organ of the league. The total of salaries for officers and other persons employed in the national headquarters, with traveling and other expenses added in, was placed at $83,893.66, while the salary list of The American Issue amounted, in 1923, no other years being given, to $39,361.20.

"Part of your duties," continued Senator Reed, "are those of legislative agent. Did you have anything to do whatever with the drafting or the securing of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment?"

"I did," Mr. Wheeler answered.

"To get this thing briefly and in a word," said Mr. Reed, "you were here in Washington before that amendment was seriously agitated, and you remained here until it was passed? I do not mean that you were here every minute, but this was your headquarters, and here you spent most of your time?"

"From the date mentioned in the record I came here and spent all of my time," replied Mr. Wheeler. "I was interested in it even before I came from Ohio, and helped in every way that I could to draft and promote the passage of the amendment; and then when I came here I worked on it to try to get it in the best possible form. You will remember it was introduced in various forms?"

Senator Reed—Yes, I remember all about that.

Mr. Wheeler—And the conclusion of that was to put a second section of the concurrent power section in it, so that the States of the nation would be equally concerned.

Q.—I do not want to cut you off from any explanation, but I do want to get along. During the time that this campaign was pending you had frequent conferences with Congressmen and Senators in relation to it, did you not? A.—I did.

Q.—And you did everything you could, by seeing the members of Congress, by talking with them, and possibly by writing to them, to induce them to support this amendment? A.—I used every means available to present the facts to them; why that resolution should be submitted to the States for ratification.

Q.—And we can say the same thing, now, with reference to the passage of the Volstead act, can we not? A.—Yes; I helped in every way that I could to get it in the best possible form and to get it adopted.

Q.—You helped draft it, did you not? A.—I aided in it.

Q.—You aided in it. Well, as a matter of fact, you had a very great deal to do with it, did you not? A.—I submitted to the committees the provisions of the State laws covering this subject matter.

Q.—You mean different State laws? A.—Yes; and you will find it in different documents of the Senate.

Q.—I am trying to get it in here. I am not saying there was anything wrong about it. A.—Yes. I am just giving you the idea as to what I did; and there I took each one of those acts that were to be prohibited—manufacture, sale and transportation—and showed what the average State had done on that same question, and then the provision that was proposed for the Federal law, showing that it was in harmony with what had already been done in the States.

Q.—In a word, you may almost be said, as much as any other one person can be said, to be the author of the Volstead act? A.—No, I should say that Mr. Volstead did more work on it in getting it in shape so that the Judiciary Committee would report it than anybody else. He sat up nights with it to get it in shape.

Tells of Propaganda Work.

"I remember reading," said Senator Reed, "your articles, in which you stated that you had done this vast amount of work upon it and that you finally had picked out Volstead—that is, you and your associates had picked out Volstead—as the proper man to put the bill through; that you had a compilation of the various prohibition laws of the States made, and that you had worked out this bill. Now, that, in a broad way, is true, is it not?"

"We did appeal to Mr. Volstead because he was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the House, had been a prosecuting attorney and engaged in enforcing the prohibitory law," Mr. Wheeler replied.

Senator Reed—I did not ask you your reasons; but in a broad way, whether you did this work. Mr. Wheeler—Yes.

Q.—That is what I want to get at. Now, you had some assistants among the prohibition forces working along the same general times, did you not? A.—Oh, yes; there were the W. C. T. U. and the various groups that were interested in American prohibition.

Q.—I am asking whether you did not have a number of people here in Washington who spent a considerable amount of time in visiting Congressmen and visiting Senators in order to promote this legislation; by which I mean the Constitutional amendment and I mean the Volstead act, or similar acts. A.—There were a number who came here; but most of it was done through correspondence and through our headquarters, telling the people what was proposed and what we were trying to do.

Q.—I asked you if there were a number here, and that could have been answered yes or no. Now, please tell me who was here representing the Anti-Saloon League during the time that this long-drawn battle went on. Tell me some of them. A.—I would state, generally, that the State Superintendents of most of the States came in during that time, and the men who were here at the hearings, they naturally, while they were here, talked to any members of Congress whom they knew.

Q.—And those men, when they came here, or those women, went around to see their Congressmn and their Senators? A.—Certainly, we did not make it a mass demonstration, as the wets did.

Q.—Nearly all of these people who came here to Washington and who spent any considerable time seeing members of Congress were salaried officers, were they not, of the Anti-Saloon League of America or of the various States? A.—I do not think that the majority of them were.

Q.—Let us see, now, about that. All of your State Superintendents are salaried, are they not? A.—Yes.

Q.—They were all here? A.—Not all of them.

Q.—Nearly all? A.—I said a majority of them were not.

Q.—At different times while this Constitutional Amendment and the Volstead act were up before Congress for consideration you were consulting with the dry leaders in both Houses with reference to changes that might be offered or amendments that might be proposed? A.—We consulted with them.

Q.—And sometimes you told them that a certain amendment would not do, and then they turned around and went back on the floor and opposed the amendment; and sometimes you told them it would do, and they went back on the floor and supported that amendment? A.—And very often they would say to us that a certain proposed amendment——

Q.—What I said is true? A.—Only in part.

Q.—It is partly true, then? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then tell me the part that is not true. A.—Very often there would be a provision in the bill and they would say, "There is objection to that from the members of the House or the Senate, and we think that ought to be changed," and we conceded to that and said, "All right, if that is the best that can be done."

Q.—You conceded to it? A.—No; they conceded that it could not be done and we had to concede to it.

Q.—All right, you got almost everything you wanted in the long run, did you not? A.—Not by any means.

Denies "Directing" Congress.

"Did you want something more than you got?" Senator Reed asked.

"We sure did; and that was very clear; that within two years we had to present the supplemental Volstead act," Mr. Wheeler replied with emphasis.

"And you still are maintaining here in Washington a paid force to look after the matter of directing Congress as to the kind of legislation it ought to enact?"

"Not directing Congress, but appealing to Congress in the legal and orderly way for the legislation that is needed to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment," said Mr. Wheeler.

"Yes," said Senator Reed, "but it is true, is it not, that you make personal appeals, personally buttonhole them, if you please—not only you but other members of your organization who are here working for salaries—and of course, for the glory of God and the good of the Commonwealth, incidentally? That is done right along, is it not?"

"Sure, we are here to fight for legislation that we think is needed to enforce this amendment; and if we did not, the opposition would have it destroyed in short time," said Mr. Wheeler.

"If you did not look after Congress and take care of it and act as its general guardan ad litem and in perpetuity, it would go plumb to the devil and the country would be wrecked?"

"By no means; just the opposite; if the liquor interests will withdraw from the fight, we will, and we will leave it to Congress to say."

"The liquor interests were not saying anything until you got into the field," said Senator Reed.

Mr. Wheeler was asked if the league has anything to do with the appointment of enforcement and other officers of the prohibition unit. He replied that when the league had information an applicant was not suited for the service the information was communicated to the proper officials. Sometimes, he said, the league requests of the Treasury Department names of applicants for prohibition jobs and, "sometimes," he added, "we get them."

"The places where we made requests oftenest," Mr. Wheeler added, "were in the places where the political patronage was controlling to put in men who were not competent."

"How did you know political patronage controlled?" asked Senator Reed.

"We could very well tell by the forces that had control of it in the States; and the Senators had a lot to do in many of the States, and there were some Senators who were so hostile to this that they would recommend men who were not effective in this kind of work," said Mr. Wheeler.

Names Senator Wadsworth.

"Give us the names of those Senators."

"Well, those from New Jersey, Maryland and in New York State Senator Wadsworth most of the time, I think, refused to make any indorsement at all; but when he did not there was an organization up there that did. It was true in Connecticut."

Q.—Is it not a fact that the Anti-Saloon League officers not only in the nation but in the State have recommended time and again men for positions in the prohibition department? A.—They have sent to these officers the records of these men who had made good in the States.

Q.—Yes; but have they not sent direct recommendations? A.—Well, I suppose you would call that a recommendation, Senator; it did not go quite that far.

Q.—Then it is not true, as testified to in another hearing here by General Andrews, that the large portion of the prohibition forces that held their various positions when he came into office had been selected by the churches and the Anti-Saloon League? A.—Had not been selected by them, no, because we had no power to select them.

Q.—You know what I mean by "selected"; they have been recommended, and, of course, then afterward appointed by the man who had the power of appointment? A.—There was a large number of men that were put through over the protest of the churches and moral forces.

"When you spend money under the new Corrupt Practices act to elect a Congressman or to elect a Senator you have to report it, do you not?" Senator Reed inquired.

"Under the new law, yes," Mr. Wheeler replied.

"And under the old one?" asked Senator Reed.

"No, not if you are in a State organization; but national, yes; it is when it comes to the election, but not the primary."

"Have you not undertaken to control the action or direct the energies of prohibition enforcement officers?"

"No; we have cooperated in every way to help them get the law enforced, if you call it that, giving them support and information; if that is called giving them directions, why it would be that, but we don't consider it such."

Quotes Complaint on Dry Officer.

"I do not mean that," said Senator Reed. "I want to read you a copy of a letter taken from the files of F. Scott McBride. It is dated April 5, 1926, addressed to Dr. Wayne B. Wheeler."

Senator Reed read from it as follows:

"'Dear Wheeler:

"'I am enclosing copy of a letter I have just received from Dr. O. L. Jones with a clipping which is self-explanatory.

"'It does seem that the prohibition enforcement officer should do his work as far as that district is concerned largely through the Anti-Saloon League.'

"What is the rest of the letter? I do not recall the whole of the letter," Mr. Wheeler asked.

"What do you say about that statement now, Doctor," asked Senator Reed.

"Well, if you mean that it was to function through our office, I do not think that was intended," said Mr. Wheeler.

"All right," said Senator Reed. "I read on:

"'And should not make it hard for Jones to carry on the league work by recognizing Turner as the representative of our State work there rather than Jones. If there is anything you could do along that line I think it would be well worth while. I can talk this matter over with you next week.'

"You got that letter, did you not?"

"Evidently, if it was directed to me," replied Mr. Wheeler. "I think that had to do with the situation down there where there is an organization started that is really opposing the league and somebody sent in the information that the officer down there was taking matters up through them. I think that is all it could mean."

Q.—Now, where is that place? A.—A man by the name of Turner would be superintendent down there, in Louisiana, and he started an organization separate from the league.

Q.—He has got a temperance organization, too, has he? A.—Well, he has got a committe; I do not think he has an organization.

Q.—He is working in the cause of temperance? A.—Yes.

Q.—The complaint seems to be that the prohibition enforcement officer in Louisiana, instead of doing work through your organization has gone over and is doing his work through this other man who has organized a rival organization, and Mr. Scott McBride did not like that and he is referring it to you. That is the explanation is it? A.—No, I would not say that it was necessary for this Commissioner to work—it does not mean the actual work of enforcement, but information which the local organization gives to the officers and cooperation with them.

Q.—McBride is the general superintendent of the league? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he is really over you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Very well; now, the General Superintendent of the league writes to the general counsel of the league and its legislative agent: "It does seem that the prohibition enforcement officer should do his work so far as that district is concerned largely through the Anti-Saloon League." Now, the enforcement officer is put there for the purpose of enforcing the prohibition law? A.—Yes.

Q.—He was put there through the Federal Government; but when he did not do his work through your league but went over to some rival league Mr. McBride came to you to talk about it? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he asked you if there is anything you can do along that line? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you do anything? A.—I do not think that that matter has been adjusted at all. They still have the two organizations there; and they are fighting each other; and it is very helpful to the cause.

Spent Nothing in Pennsylvania.

Senator Reed asked if there was a special fund in Mr. Wheeler's hands.

"We have a campaign fund that is designated in the Corrupt Practices act. Andrew Wilson is the Treasurer of that campaign fund. That is entirely separate from any amounts that were reported at Westerville. Any amounts that we get that have to do with the primaries that is not included in other funds—we know the amounts that we get for that and how they are spent, but it is not connected with the other fund.

Q.—Can you tell us the amount that you spent in the last primary in Pennsylvania? A.—The National League did not spend anything. We tried to get them to.

Q.—The National League furnished some money that went into a separate fund, did it not? And the special fund was expended in Pennsylvania? A.—No. We could not get into that fight at all over there because our league could not unite on either of those two candidates, and it was hopeless right from the beginning.

Q.—You say that you spent no money in the primary in Pennsylvania, because you could not agree there upon which of the two dry candidates to support? Have you spent money in the primaries in other states? A.—We have.

Q.—Is that shown upon you books as a separate item? A.—Yes; I have that in my report as to the States where we have spent any moneys. There was Oregon, and Minnesota. The only places where a national league spent any money in a primary was $200 in Wisconsin. That was sent to them about four or five weeks ago. We spent $200 in Oregon and $150 in Minnesota.

Lists Larger Contributors.

Mr. Reed read the following letter:

"April 6, 1926.

"Dr. Howard H. Ruster,
"Westerville, Ohio.

"Dear Dr.:

"I enclose the following checks to be deposited to the credit of the Library Fund. Please return a check for an equal amount to us to be used in the primary campaign here."

"When these came in they were sent to Westerville," Mr. Wheeler interrupted.

"Let me go on, you do not need to explain it until I get through," Senator Reed replied.

"The balance," continued Senator Reed, "of the letter is as follows: 'Elizabeth Tilton, $50; Rufus Bates, Treasurer for Congregational Church, Weymouth, Mass., $1,000; H. S. Dulaney, $50; H. C. Stockman, $100; S. H. Thompson, $50; Robert Treat Paine, $100; W. C. Scott, $100; P. H. Koblegard, $50; H. T. Wilbur, $10; G. Dew Brewer, $10; S. A. Courson, $10; Lamson Bros. Co., $200; M. H. Masland, $50; F. C. Beckwith, $25; William Albert Harbinson, $250; L. O. Burroughs, $5; Arthur G. Carlson, $10. Total—$2,070. Yours, cordially,

"'W. B. WHEELER'."

A second letter read as follows:

"Washington, D. C., March 26, 1926.

"Enclosed are the following checks: Mary S. Bates, $5; Edward H. Foot, $20; J. B. Morrell, $25; Daniel Baker Jr., $50; W. M. Snsiger, $10; S. S. Kresge, by North Woodward M. E., $2,500; J. H. Baker, $500. Total, $3,110.

"According to your request, I am sending these to you, so you may return us a league check for $3,110 to deposit to our local account for our work in Washington in sending out information in the primaries, &c.

Yours, cordially,
W. B. WHEELER.

"P. S. I am adding a check for $500 which has just been received from Charles M. Cox."

"How much have you gotten here and expended in primary campaigns," asked Mr. Reed.

"The total amount received for the campaign fund to date is $84,678.48," said Mr. Wheeler.

"How much has been pledged?"

"There is very little pledged that has not been paid in. We sent out an appeal for $50,000 for the two purposes, the primary campaign and the election."

William R. Nicholson Jr. of Germantown, who is a merchant of lumber and millwork, was next called. He is secretary of the Law Enforcement League of Philadelphia, which organization, he said, has a membership of 50,000 in that city. Mr. Nicholson said the activities for law enforcement dated from the time a telegram was sent to President Coolidge soon after he became President, seeking the services of General Smedley Butler of the marines to clean up Philadelphia.

Senator Reed announced at the close of the afternoon session that the committee had decided to take up the various documents submitted by Mr. Wheeler and would do so tomorrow morning, and that where leads are developed Mr. Wheeler will be given ample opportunity to present additional evidence.

Decision on Lists Awaits Goff.

Captain W. H. Stayton of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is to be recalled, he said.

"We are going to try as impartially as we can to get at the bottom of this matter from both sides," Senator Reed told Mr. Wheeler. He added that the Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League is also to be called. A decision will be made as to the private lists when Senator Goff returns. The committee will determine then also when it will go to Illinois, Senator Reed stating that this would be as soon as it could reconvene after adjourning its sessions here.

Senator Reed thereupon took up the examination of Mr. Nicholson. The latter said that the Philadelphia Law Enforcement League was working "along the lines of common sense, such as the President wants."

This was the recommendation sent down through the ranks inasmuch as that, according to Mr. Nicholson, was "a mandate of the President."

"Has the President power to issue a mandate?" Senator Reed inquired. "I think he has," was the answer.

"Well, you had better get a legal adviser," Senator Reed suggested.

The Philadelphia League, during its existence, has raised $43,800, it was stated, but none was spent in the primary. Mr. Nicholson said the organization was strictly non-partisan. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was called to the witness stand, but did not conclude.

Dr. Cherrington, he said, had most of the data for which Senator Reed was asking. Dr. McBryde said that money is raised from churches and individuals. Apportionments are made for the State Leagues to raise but they did not always raise their quota.

"It is optional with them," said Dr. McBryde, adding in reply to a question that they are not put out when they fail to raise the full amount.

He was asked to give the names of Congressmen who lectured for the league, but again could not answer the question. The matter was handled by the speakers' bureau and Dr. Cherrington, he said, would be the person to ask.

Dr. Cherrington was sworn but not examined, being held over until tomorrow.

PARTY CHIEFS HEARD AT SENATE INQUIRY

have talked with Mr. Hodges, his assistant, about a budget.

"And I might have talked," he added, "with the Chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee—Senator Phipps. We talked about it but came to no understanding. It was just a matter of expenditures on account of the Senatorial Committee."

He added that no one had given him any idea of how much money it might take this year.

"You discussed the need with some one for $1,500,000, didn't you?" Senator Reed asked.

"No sir," replied Senator Butler.

"Have there not been letters going out stating that it was necessary to raise $1,500,000?"

"Well, I didn't know it if there had been," Mr. Butler said. "I have seen no such letters or authorized any."

Butler Recalls Discussions.

"Was there not a conference?" continued Senator Reed, "with Senators Curtis, Phipps, Fess, Deneen, Edge, Gillett and McMaster regarding money?"

"Well, I don't remember the group," Senator Butler declared.

"Now you have discussed it with them," Senator Reed said, beginning to laugh.

"Oh, yes," Senator Butler admitted. "Now that you remind me, I recall discussing it with several of those men."

He was asked how much was mentioned for the Senatorial campaign, but could not recall.

"Did you gentlemen ever have breakfast at the White House?" Senator Reed asked.

"Yes, one morning," said Senator Butler.

"Did you discuss money there?" continued the Missouri Senator.

"No, nothing was said about it," Senator Butler stated.

"But the budget has actually been made up," Senator Reed continued, "and you say you don't know what it is going to be?"

The Massachusetts Senator finally admitted that he thought the matter had been discussed.

"Senator Phipps," he said, "thought he could spend in twenty-five States about $200,000. That was my recollection."

Then he had talked with members of the House Republican Campaign Committee "in a very general way." The cost of their campaign in 1924 had been about $200,000 and they thought that much would be necessary this year.

Senator Butler estimated that both the Senatorial and House campaigns would cost from $400,000 to $450,000. The National Committee, it was stated, intended to run along on about the same expenditure as now.

Senator McMaster of South Dakota followed. He admitted attending several meetings of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, but said that money was not discursed.

Budget Waits, Says Gerry.

Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, startled the committee when he took the stand and confessed to having raised $25,000.

"I did not know there was that much money in the Democratic Party," exclaimed Senator Reed. "Has the committee made any budget plans?"

Senator Gerry stated that none had been made, that the Democrats were waiting to see what was going to happen.

He had talked with Representative Oldfield, Chairman of the National Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, but no agreement was reached except as to the speaker's bureau.

The money collected is to be expended in looking up the records of Senators and the necessary work of sending out speakers.

Senator Gerry told Senator La Follette that the Democratic campaign committee never has much money.

HILL DENIES GETTING PAY.

Representative Says Wheeler's Statement Is "Absolutely False."

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Taking issue with Wayne B. Wheeler, Representative Hill of Maryland branded today as "absolutely false" a statement made by the Anti-Saloon League counsel before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee that he had received money for making anti-prohibition speeches.

Mr. Hill had a clerk read a letter addressed to Chairman Reed of the committee, in which he offered to appear "to show that this is an utter and probably deliberate misstatement."

"I have never received a penny in my life for making any speeches against prohibition," Mr. Hill told his colleagues. "I have never received, either politically or personally, a penny from the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, but, on the contrary, have been an annual contributor to its treasury for the past five years."

SPEEDS BILLS TO AID END OF CONGRESS

the economic and foreign policies, and he has succeeded with this Congress to the extent of getting all the war debt settlements, except that of France, ratified. He feels that in this respect the record of Congress will aid the party in power.

In contrast with the last Congress, when the President met defeat in his tax bill and was overridden on the soldiers' bonus, the Administration's vital proposals met with more favorable and positive action in the Congress about to end.

The President's recommendations increasing the benefit under the bonus legislation and extending the time for vocational training and treatment of disabled soldiers were accepted by Congress, as were his suggestions that additional Assistant Secretaries be authorized to look after aviation in the War, Navy and Commerce Departments.

Some Recommendations Ignored.

Recommendations made by the President that were ignored by Congress include:

Restoration of the German seized property and the issuance of bonds by this Government to pay American claimants against Germany.

Shipping legislation which would place the Emergency Fleet Corporation under the direct control of a single executive head and separate from the United States Shipping Board.

Legislation to increase the efficiency of prohibition enforcement.

Waterway legislation, including the purchase by the Government of the Cape Cod Canal.

Conferring of authority on the Departments of Labor and Commerce to deal with an emergency in the coal industry.

Farm legislation was embodied in the Fess bill which provided a fund of $100,000 to be loaned to cooperative marketing associations.

Farm Situation Uncertain.

Judged by the primary elections in States where the farm situation was an issue, the Administration's economic program has failed to satisfy the electors who were denied farm relief legislation. Some politicians feel that the Administration is going to be judged by this alone in States which heretofore have been Republican. Nevertheless the Republican Party must go to the country with its important achievements consisting of taxation reduction and the decision to enter the World Court.

President Coolidge shows plainly the need of a rest. He is weary and worn, and somewhat below his usual weight. He intends to leave with Mrs. Coolidge and his staff for his vacation at White Pine Camp, near Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks, next Wednesday afternoon. He is scheduled to reach his Summer home early Thursday.

The President has an engagement to speak at the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia next Monday. He will leave here early Monday morning, deliver a speech on the exposition grounds, visit Independence Hall and Christ Church and cross the new bridge joining Camden with Philadelphia and plant a tree on New Jersey soil.

MOVE TO BAR VARE MADE BY SENATORS

Rules Committee to Present Resolution Which Would Prevent Seating Him.

MAY BE PASSED TODAY

Senators-Elect for Whom $25,000 Is Spent Would Not Be Accepted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Rules Committee of the Senate, of which Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader, is Chairman, at a meeting tonight adopted a resolution for presentation to the Senate tomorrow setting forth that any United States Senator-elect shall be deemed not to be entitled to hold a seat in the Senate if there has been expended in support of his candidacy, with his knowledge or consent, more than $25,000.

The text of the resolution follows:

"Whereas, Enormous sums of money have been expended in behalf of certain candidates for election to the Senate in primary elections recently held in various States; therefore, be it

"Resolved (1). That the expenditures of excessive sums of money in any primary election or nominating convention in behalf of a candidate for election to the Senate, either with or without his knowledge or consent, being harmful to the independence, the honor and the dignity of the Senate, is hereby severely disapproved and condemned.

"(2). That any United States Senator-elect shall be deemed not to be entitled to hold a seat in the Senate if there shall hereafter have been expended by such Senator-elect, or by any person or persons for him, with his knowledge or consent, in aid or support of his candidacy in either the primary election or nominating convention by which such Senator-elect was nominated as a candidate for the Senate, an amount in excess of (a) the amount permitted to be expended by the law of the State in which such Senator-elect was nominated for the Senate, if such State law provides for a maximum expenditure which is less than that which is hereinafter provided; (b) the sum of $10,000; or (c) an amount equal to that obtained by multiplying 3 cents by the total number of votes cast in the State of residence of such Senator-elect at the last general election for all the candidates for the office of United States Senator, but in no event exceeding the sum of $25,000, except that money expended by a candidate to satisfy any assessment, fee, or charge made or levied upon candidates by the laws of the State in which such Senator-elect resides, or expended for his necessary personal, traveling or subsistence expenses, or for stationery, postage, writing or printing when other than for use on billboards or in newspapers, for distributing letters, circulars, or posters, or for telegraph or telephone service, shall not be included in determining whether his expenditures have exceeded the sum fixed by the resolution as the limit of campaign expenses of a candidate.

Resolution Without Authority.

Such a resolution carries no authority. Each case of a Senator accused of having spent large sums to obtain election would be tried in the Senate on its merits. In other words, the resolution agreed to by the Committee on Rules does not specifically bar such a Senator-elect but states that he shall be deemed not entitled to hold a seat.

An effort will be made to get the resolution adopted by the Senate tomorrow, probably the last day of the current session, when there will be a hectic rush to pass important eleventh-hour legislation.

It is likely, however, that even under these conditions the resolution will go through successfully in short order, as the revelations concerning huge expenditures in behalf of candidates for Senatorial and Gubernatorial nominations in Pennsylvania have had a marked effect on the Senators, and if any among them should find the resolution objectionable, he will not be inclined, for reasons of caution, to make a fight against it.

The obvious implication of the resolution approved by the Committee on Rules is that if Representative Vare of Pennsylvania is elected in November to succeed Senator Pepper, from whom he wrested the Republican nomination, the Senate should refuse to permit him to take his seat when he presents his credentials at the assembling of the Seventieth Congress, whose term will begin on March 4, 1927.

On their account the resolution is of extreme importance. Should Mr. Vare be chosen a Senator, resistance on his part to a move to keep him out of the Senate probably would lead to a reopening of the current Pennsylvania primary inquiry with a view to determining whether it had been proved that it was distasteful to "the sense of the Senate" to have Mr. Vare as a member.

Mr. Vare testified that his personal expenses in the primary campaign were $71,000 and that alone, under a strict interpretation of the proposed resolution, would be sufficient to put it into effect.

Would Mean Long Contest.

But the Senate usually is liberal in considering the seating of any person who holds a certificate of election from the constituted authority of his State, and the possibility exists of a long contest after the Seventieth Congress assembles, even in the face of the immense mass of testimony taken by the Senate committee in regard to heavy expenditures in the Pennsylvania primary campaign should an effort be made to bar Mr. Vare.

The meeting of the Committee on Rules was called to consider a report of a subcommittee, consisting of Senators Watson of Indiana and Hale of Maine, Republicans, and Harrison of Mississippi, Democrat, on the resolutions of Senators Neely and La Follette.

After agreeing to the principle of both resolutions, that $25,000 was all that should be spent to further the nomination or election of a Senator, Senator Neely, a member of the committee, was entrusted with the task of drafting the resolution which it will present to the Senate for adoption.

REGISTRARS GET 18 MONTHS

Philadelphia Officials Convicted of Padding Voters' List.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Four registrars convicted of padding a voters' list with 206 names were today sentenced to eighteen months each in the county prison.

They were Clarence W. Arthur, Clarence Flood, Charles Harvey and Dominick Candio. They had been in jail since their conviction, June 11, unable to obtain $2,000 bail pending the outcome of a motion for a new trial, which was denied today. The alleged fraudulent registration occurred prior to the election last November.

GIRLS GET DRUNK AT CAMP.

Their Condition Is Charged to Soldiers at Sesquicentennial.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Seventeen soldiers of the 3d Cavalry, part of the contingent in Camp Anthony Wayne at the Sesquicentennial Exposition here, today were held in $500 each on a charge of having given liquor to girls who visited the camp.

The cavalrymen were arrested last night by mounted policemen, who investigated complaints received from several mothers of girls who were said to have returned home intoxicated after visits to the camp.

Several of the girls present when the troopers were arrested were taken to the house of detention.

The soldiers were scored by the police magistrate before whom they appeared as "a disgrace to the United States uniform, your country, this city and the Sesquicentennial."

A thorough investigation and clean-up was promised today by the police.

ANDREWS THREAT TO QUIT NEXT FALL

it was no easy task to divorce enforcement work from politics and win authority to select administrators and other agents without regard to the wishes of political leaders in the various States. His first clash came with Senator Edge of New Jersey over the rigid instructions issued to the Coast Guard to stop all craft, large and small, suspected of transporting liquor.

Failure of His Plans.

A plan that the General had to induce important business executives to help him enforce the liquor laws did not work out very successfully and was dropped. Then he appealed to Congress, apparently with the full backing of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon, for legislation to reorganize his department and amend the Volstead act. Congress committees took most of the teeth out of his proposals, and then the leaders decided not to take formal action this session.

The adoption of the bills would have given General Andrews much added power and weakened the control of Senators and Congressmen. One of his requests was for authority to hire retired army officers as administrators and permit the officers to receive their retired pay. General Andrews described it as a logical proposition to obtain highly efficient executives, but Congress did not heed his arguments. The effect of the legislation would have been to permit General Andrews to put former army officers in important posts which many of the legislators had looked upon as legitimate political plums.

Although President Coolidge made a personal appeal to Congress for adoption of farm legislation he did not go to that extent in connection with the legislation which General Andrews demanded as vital to effective enforcement of the prohibition laws. This may have nettled the General. In any event the General has been left without the power which he has repeatedly said was essential to enforcement.

There is a distinct impression in political circles tonight that General Andrews will step out of office some time in the Fall, after having accomplished as much as he can under the present powers to bring his department to a high state of efficiency and thus remove as many thorns as possible from the pathway of his successor.

Mr. Mellon Disappointed.

Secretary Mellon shares the disappointment expressed by General Andrews over the failure of the legislative dry program. Mr. Mellon paid a visit to the Capitol this week and sought conferences with Senate leaders. He urged them to use their best endeavors to put through at least the reorganization bill. His mission was not fruitful of results.

A week or so ago General Andrews talked about the dry bills with Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee. He expressed the hope that the House would be asked to pass what is known as the Goff bill, which, among other things, supplements the rum treaties negotiated with Great Britain and other countries.

Nothing substantiative followed the visit of General Andrews to the Capitol. While Chairman Graham is a wet, it is known that he made an attempt to perfect arrangements for the passage of the Goff bill, but without success.

Friends of General Andrews assert that he cannot successfully enforce prohibition with the present organization at his command. They point out that under existing law there is divided responsibility and authority in the dry law administration between the office of General Andrews and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The latter official still has a large say in naming and handling personnel.

All of this is corrected in the reorganization bill, which was prepared by Treasury officials and which was passed by the House several weeks ago but failed in the Senate. The bill sets up the prohibition unit, now a part of the Internal Revenue Bureau, as a separate entity, and centralizes all authority in General Andrews's office. It also gives General Andrews power to coordinate activities of the Coast Guard and customs service with the prohibition unit, without restraint from any quarter except the Secretary of the Treasury.

It was explained today that General Andrews's plan to strike hard at the sources of supply of hard liquor and high-power beer in the region lying north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi was contingent in part upon the passage of the reorganization bill, and that the mobile squad necessary in this particular field cannot be used with the effect expected unless General Andrews has the authority conveyed by the Goff bill and the reorganization measure.

There was a report today that Chairman Graham might call up the Goff bill in the House, probably tomorrow, but if such a step was in contemplation it had to be abandoned because of the situation in the Senate, which precludes consideration of any of the dry bills at this time if adjournment is to be had tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, as now seems assured.

Foster's Resignation Regretted.

Prohibition authorities in New York City were advised from Washington yesterday of the resignation of John A. Foster, former Prohibition Administrator of New York, as Supervisor of Alcohol Control for the district of New York and Philadelphia. They were informed later that Frank Hale, who was first assistant to Mr. Foster, had been assigned to fill the vacancy as Acting Supervisor. Mr. Hale has been connected with the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau for several years. He is a young man and is married.

In commenting on the resignation of Supervisor Foster, Chester C. Mills, Prohibition Administrator of New York, said he represented a "great loss."

"He was an excellent executive and a fine man," said Major Mills. "We all regret his resignation."

COOLIDGE VETOES OIL LEASING BILL

Returns to Senate a Measure Affecting Indian Lands to Which Borah Objected.

TO VALIDATE 20 PERMITS

President Points Out That Its Terms Would Be Unfair to 400 Other Holders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—President Coolidge vetoed today a bill to validate leases in unallotted lands in Indian reservations in Southern Arizona. His attention was called to the bill by Senator Borah, who charged that the approval of the bill would validate the permits of twenty large oil companies and exclude others from leases.

The President's veto read:

To the Senate:

Herewith returned, without approval, is Senate 4152, a bill entitled "An act to authorize oil and gas mining leases upon unallotted lands within executive order Indian reservations, and for other purposes."

On June 9, 1922, the Department of Interior construed the general leasing act of Feb. 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), as applicable to lands included in executive order Indian reservations. Under this construction twenty permits were issued, dating from June 17, 1922, to Oct. 14, 1923.

On May 27, 1924, the Attorney General of the United States rendered an opinion that the leasing act did not apply to executive order Indian reservations. At that time more than 400 applications on such reservations were pending. The Attorney General took action to secure the cancellation of the twenty permits previously issued in a suit entitled United States vs. Harrison et al., brough in the District Court of Utah and now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States on certificate from the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit. This case was decided in favor of the defendants in the District Court.

While these conditions existed the present bill was introduced by which the title to the twenty permits would virtually be validated and the 400 applications would virtually be refused. It is true that the holders of twenty permits are possessed of certain equities by reason of expenditures made, which do not apply to the other 400, but it is also true that the other 400 would be obliged to drill wells, build roads and make surveys, while the twenty permits are validated because they may have done but one of these three things. The application of a different rule as between these two classes is somewhat difficult to justify.

The fact also that this bill undertakes to decide by legislation a question which is pending in court brings the bill into a position of doubtful propriety. If the interested parties have rights under the law, they will be protected in their enjoyment by the decision of the court. If they have no such rights a great deal of the reason for the legislation fails so far as they are concerned. Aside from a possible delay in securing a decision by which opportunity will be given for the development of these lands more quickly, it would not appear that any legal or equitable injury can accrue to the holders of these permits or to the section of the country interested.

Various rumors are being circulated relative to statements alleged to have been made by parties interested in this legislation which do not seriously affect the merits of the bill, and as they come from persons seeming to have adverse interests, perhaps they are susceptible of explanation. I am confident the bill has been passed in entire good faith, but it is claimed that the twenty permits would secure a disproportionate advantage, under its provisions, over the others who are interested in applications which they have made.

Provision has been made in the bill for the payment of certain moneys to Indians, with which I am in hearty approval and can see no reason for refusing to approve such a measure had it stood alone. If it is desired to make such provision for the Indians, a bill to that effect can be enacted without attaching to it the question of ratifying the titles of some and adversely affecting the applications of others.

BILLS RUSHED THROUGH.

Congress Acts on Radio, Pensions and Deficiency Measures.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—The Dill bill to set up an independent commission to regulate the radio broadcasting industry was passed today by the Senate. It goes to conference between House and Senate conferees.

The measure is a substitute for the White bill, passed by the House, and was attacked mainly on the ground that it would set up an additional independent commission in Washington. The White bill would have invested the regulatory powers in the Department of Commerce.

On motion of Senator Robinson of Arkansas the Senate voted to make the commission of five members regional, one to be selected from each of five zones into which the nation would be divided. The Commissioners would receive $10,000 each a year.

The Senate completed Congressional action today on the General Pension bill, raising the minimum monthly payments to all veterans of the Civil and Mexican wars to $65 by agreeing to the House amendments. The measure also raises to $90 the monthly pensions to helpless or blind veterans of those wars, and grants $50 monthly to widows of veterans and all army nurses of the Civil War.

The Senate also passed the only House omnibus pension bill remaining on the calendar, thus completing Civil and Mexican War pension legislation for the session.

Final approval was given by Congress to the deficiency appropriation bill today when Senate and House conferees agreed on the measure and the two houses approved the agreement. An item of $300,000 for the navy, $150,000 of which was to have been used for the construction of a rigid airship, was eliminated. A $200,000 appropriation for repairs to the submarine S-48 also was eliminated. The bill carries funds for the new Federal public building program.

By unanimous consent the Senate agreed to take up the Lausanne treaty with Turkey on the first day of the new session next December.

Coolidge's Camp Ready.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Arrangements for the coming of President Coolidge to the Adirondacks are virtually complete. White Pine Camp on Osgood Lake, which the President will use as his Summer home, will be guarded by a detachment of marines, who arrived today under command of Lieutenant B. S. Roberts. Another detachment will arrive tomorrow. Quarters for the military guard are almost ready.

JONES, GOLFING ACE, WELCOMED ROYALLY

New York and Atlanta Join in Greeting Surpassing Any in History of Sports.

THREE-HOUR CELEBRATION

New British Open Champion Taken to City Hall for Mayor's Official Reception.

REBEL YELL GIVEN OFTEN

"Just Happened to Win" Is Young Player's Explanation of Capture of Second Championship.

BOBBY JONES, WINNER OF THE BRITISH OPEN GOLF TITLE, WELCOMED HERE.

New York City acclaimed Bobby Jones, American amateur golf champion, who returned yesterday from England with the British open championship cup, in a manner unparalleled in the annals of sport.

Jones, the golfer, was a conquering hero, to do homage to whom New York, or a large portion of New York, stood still an hour or more. He was met down the bay, taken off the Aquitania at Quarantine, escorted to the Battery with sirens screaming and firetugs spouting, marched up Broadway between cheering lines that waved hats and showered confetti, and was met at the City Hall by Mayor Walker, who shook his hand, bade him welcome on behalf of the people of New York, and felicitated him warmly on his victory. No prince that has visited New York received a more royal greeting.

The welcome started at noon when the Aquitania hove into sight and lasted until 3 o'clock when Jones, completely done up from posing for pictures, shaking hands and replying to speeches, was deposited in his suite in the Hotel Vanderbilt—a very tired but very happy young man.

Nothing like yesterday's demonstration ever took place in the realm of sport. Other winners of foreign golf championships have returned bearing laurels—Hutchison, Hagen, Barnes, Travis, Sweetser—but never for them was there such a reception as that given to Bobby Jones.

Family Party on Hand.

At 10:45 o'clock yesterday morning the Macom, a municipal boat, her streamers flying, put out from Pier A at the Battery and headed down Quarantineward. On board were fifty or more Atlantans who had made the journey to New York for the sole purpose of welcoming the Georgia metropolis's first citizen. Most expectant of all in the party were Bobby's grandfather, Robert T. Jones, after whom young Bobby was named, and his grandmother; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Jones, and his wife. The only member of the family who was absent was Bobby's daughter, less than two years old and hence unable to appreciate the honors being heaped upon her "daddy." Another expectant passenger was Judge Will Gunn of Atlanta, father of Watts Gunn, Bobby's protégé, who fought him in the final round of last year's championship and who was a member of the American Walker Cup team.

Other prominent Atlantans on board were Major John S. Cohen, President and editor of The Atlanta Journal and personal representative of Mayor Simms; Thomas B. Paine, member of the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association; United States Senator George, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Hurt; Scott Hudson, President of the Atlanta Athletic Club of which Bobby has been a life-long member, Chick Ridley, former Georgia State golf champion; Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nunnally, Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, F. P. Calhoun Jr., and Lawson Calhoun, John A. Brice, Bayne Gibson, Presley Yates, Bobert Rambeau, J. C. Beam, J. E. Miller, George Martin, L. W. Roberts, Guy Harper, "Buck" Flowers, former Georgia "Tech" football star, and Colonels Sample and Bailey of the United States Army.

Others were George W. Whiteside, President of the Siwanoy Golf Club, Sweetser's home club; Walton H. Marshall, W. T. McIntire, L. C. Wallick, Henry Beers, Innis Brown, Keats Speed, William Reekie, metropolitan amateur golf champion, and Mrs. Reekie, and Joseph Johnson, Commissioner of Public Works, appointed by Mayor Walker to head the city's welcoming committee.

Sharing honors with the American flag and the flag of the City of New York were the red, white and blue ensign of Georgia and the orange-centred blue flag of Atlanta.

Escorting the Aquitania.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the four-funneled liner hove into sight, steaming through the Narrows on its way to Quarantine. The sighting of it was the signal for "Dixie" from a band, the rebel yell from the joyous Georgians, and sharp, ear-splitting blasts from the Macom's siren. As the Aquitania approached, the Macom veered into a parallel course, her decks lined with frenzied Atlantans carrying life-size portraits of Jones.

"Where's Bobby?" Major Cohen megaphoned across the water. No answer—the query was lost in the din. Finally, when the vessels drew closer to one another, the returning Americans were distinguished—Freddie McLeod, Bill Mehlhorn, Tommy Armour, Long Jim Barnes, Albert Mackenzie and his son, Roland; Walter Hagen and Mrs. Hagen, George Von Elm and Mrs. Von Elm, Donald Woodward, Cy Newton, Al Watrous, Emmet French and Mrs. French. All of them got a cheer, but the two for whom cheers had been saved were not to be seen.

"Bobby Jones!" "Watts Gunn!" "Bobby Jones!" "Watts Gunn!"

Finally Gunn was spotted on one of the Aquitania's decks high up.

Again the rebel yell went forth, accompanied by the siren's blast.

Then, when the Aquitania anchored, the Macom put alongside, and there in one of the hatches stood the much-sought hero of the hour and the day. It was then that the noise was deafening and there was a mad scramble over the deck of the health service tug and up into the liner. First to greet Jones was his wife, the greeting taking the form of a kiss and a hug. Closely after her followed Bobby's father and mother and then the more agile and daring of the Atlantans.

After a short time the members of the attacking party returned to the Macom, accompanied by Bobby, young Gunn, Hagen and Mrs. Hagen, Watrous, O. B. Keeler, Jones's Boswell, who has followed him through thick and thin in championship fights, and President W. C. Fownes of the United States Golf Association, who went to England with the Walker Cup team to confer with British golf authorities.

Recalled for Examination.

So befuddled was Jones by the enthusiasm of his greeters that after boarding the Macom it was discovered that he had neglected to satisfy the health service physicians as to the color of his eyes. He was hustled back to the liner, but reappeared a moment or so later, and the Macom put off on its way to the Battery.

On the way up the bay Jones and his family and his fellow-golfers were photographed and rephotographed, and he was besieged to recount again and again what happened in the championship at St. Anne's. Getting words out of this naturally modest and retiring young champion was like extracting teeth from a mastodon, however.

"I just happened to win the championship," Bobby declared with his Southern drawl. "I haven't anything more to say. I was just lucky, and Al Watrous here was unlucky. We had a great time, and the British certainly treated us all royally. I'm glad I went, and I don't think I'll go back again until 1930, if then my golf is good enough to give me a place on the American Walker Cup team."

He explained that he was planning to plunge into the law, his father's business, and that henceforth golf would be his pastime and the law his forte. He said that he was going to Columbus for the American open championship next week.

"I'm just going to play and have a good time," he said. "A golfer wins, as I have done, about once in every six or seven years, if then, so I'm going to Columbus, I guess, just to have a good time."

It developed on the way up to the Battery, however, that after the amateur championship Jones had no idea of playing in the open, which he won. It appeared that he had passage booked to return soon after the amateur, in which he was beaten in the semi-final round, and was only persuaded to stay over and play in the British open by the pleading of his friends, who told him that returning to America without competing in the British open would be misconstrued and interpreted as sulking over his failure at Muirfield.

Wiping Out Old Score.

He made the point that his decision to return was not due to disgust with his failure at Muirfield, but to the fact that he did not think he ought to take so much time away from business.

"But on the other hand," he continued, "I was a bit keen to show the British that I could play golf occasionally, and I wanted to wipe out all traces of my 'childishness' when I was there in 1921. (Bobby tore up his card in the open that year.) So that's the story."

As the Macom neared the Battery fire tugs were spouting huge streams of water in honor of the golfer, the band was playing, the Atlantans still were cheering hoarsely and the dock and waterfront were thronged with hat-waving golfers and non-golfers, all eager for a glimpse of the man who was being honored so signally.

Then the triumphal march started up Broadway to the City Hall. All along the way the marchers, led by the band and escorted by a squad of motorcycle police, and with Major Cohen, Commissioner Johnson, Jones, Hagen, Gunn and Watrous in the van, were acclaimed wildly. The thoroughfare was lined with humanity, and out of windows came streamers of ticker-tape, confetti and leaves out of old and new telephone books.

Arriving at the City Hall, the park surrounding which was densely massed, Jones and his associates were taken into the Mayor's private office and introduced to the city's chief executive. Then the party, led by the Mayor himself, went into the Aldermanic Chamber, where the Atlanta delegation was waiting. The band, stationed in the gallery, struck up "Hail to the Chief," and the room vibrated with the rebel yell of the marchers from Georgia.

Introduced to Mayor.

In formally introducing Bobby to the Mayor Commissioner Johnson said he was proud to present one who came from what was once his own home town.

Jones then stepped to the WNYC microphone, through which the reception was being broadcast, and started to speak. Some one reminded him that it was the Mayor's turn.

Mayor Walker turned to the champion and said:

"Your very first gesture here, Bobby, explains why you won the championship. You let nothing precede you, not even the Mayor of New York. I want to tell you how proud all America and all New York are of what you, as a young American, have accomplished. You have won another triumph of American sportsmanship and American sporting skill.

"The fact that you come from Atlanta almost impels me to wish that I came from there. You are a splendid example to the young men of America, for you have played the game well and cleanly until you reached the very top."

Born on March 17.

The Mayor then intimated to those who crowded the Aldermanic Chamber that it was a good thing that a fact which he had learned in his talk with Jones in his private office had not been known to the public in general.

"I learned, Bobby," the Mayor continued, "that you were born on the 17th of March. If that fact had been made public before you arrived, the safety of the City Hall would have been imperiled because the crowd that would have flocked to this building would have carried it away."

Jones's wife and his mother, standing close to Mayor Walker as he extended the city's welcome to the champion, beamed with pleasure, and the Mayor's talk was punctuated frequently with old-fashioned rebel yells from the Atlanta contingent.

Bashful as a schoolboy and speaking in a voice which was almost inaudible, Jones replied to the Mayor's welcome. His opening remarks reflected the Mayor's own sense of humor.

"Perhaps, Mr. Mayor," he said. "The fact that I was born on the 17th of March explains my trying to speak ahead of you."

"This is the most remarkable reception I have ever experienced." Jones continued. "I can't tell you how much I appreciate it. It isn't necessary for me to tell you how I feel about it. You can tell by just looking at me."

Major Cohen then proposed three cheers for Mayor Walker. They were given with enthusiasm. Mayor Walker then called for three cheers for the City of Atlanta, and once more the chamber echoed with the sound.

Major Cohen then presented Hagen, Watrous and Watts Gunn to the Mayor. The golfers, the Mayor and the reception committee then left the chamber and were photographed on the City Hall steps, after which the Atlanta delegation, with its victorious players, boarded buses and started for the Vanderbilt Hotel.

Evening of Entertainment.

Jones was acclaimed again last night at a reception, dinner and dance given for him in the Della Robbia room of the Hotel Vanderbilt. The entertainment was arranged by Commissioner Johnson and attended by the entire Atlanta delegation, prominent residents of New York and fellow-golfers.

In a modest after-dinner speech the conquering golfer declared the day's demonstration of welcome had been the greatest event of his life; that he had never had such a thrill before and never expected to have another like it.

He paid a tribute to Jess Sweetser, winner of the British amateur championship. "I don't think the people over here," he said, "realize what Sweetser's victory really meant. He entered the championship against the handicap of ill health, and with indomitable courage came through victorious."

United States Senator Walter F. George of Georgia acted as toastmaster.

HOME TOWN HONORS JONES.

Atlanta City Council Votes $500 for Loving Cup for Him.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 2 (AP).—An appropriation of $500 to buy a loving cup to be presented to Bobby Jones was approved today by the Finance Committee of the Atlanta City Council.

During the next few months Atlanta will have three of the most famous golf trophies in the world in its possession. It will have the British open championship trophy, won by Bobby Jones, and the American amateur championship trophy as well. In addition, Thomas B. Paine, member of the U. S. G. A. Executive Committee, yesterday received permission from President Fownes to take the Walker Cup trophy, in the winning of which Jones and Watts Gunn played prominent parts, to Atlanta. The trophies will be housed in the new town house of the Atlanta Athletic Club, a $1,500,000 structure just completed. The amateur trophy is a new one, the old Havemeyer trophy having been destroyed in a fire which burned the Atlanta Athletic Club house to the ground last year. The new trophy was donated by Edward S. Moore, former treasurer of the U. S. G. A.. It will be finished within a week or so and will have engraved on it all the names of the previous winners.

CHURCHILL DEFENDS COAL STRIKE POLICY

He Praises Baldwin and Scores Censure of the Government.

LABOR APPEAL FOR AID

Manifesto Urges All Trades Union Members to Help the Striking Miners.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—The main developments in the coal crisis today were the eloquent defense of the Government's attitude before and during the coal strike by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, and an uncompromising manifesto from the Trade Unions' Council calling upon all members of the trade unions to help the striking coal miners "with the same enthusiasm as during the general strike."

This is the first time since the collapse of the general strike that anything like such belligerent language has been used by the Trade Unions' Council, which, it will be remembered, led the strikers during the general strike and has been rather silent and shamefaced since the collapse of that epoch-making movement.

While Mr. Churchill was speaking in headquarters there were some interruptions, but nothing like the scenes of rowdyism which have been so conspicuous during the last few days. The extreme Socialists, instead of starting a disturbance, listened sulkily and for the most part silently to Mr. Churchill's defense of Premier Baldwin and the rest of his governmental colleagues. Mr. Churchill said the Government was being censured ostensibly for miserable muddling, but really for its gallant failure to secure peace in the coal war. Obviously, he said, the Government must be unqualifiedly for peace, since self-mutilation of British industry was gashing anew the basic national industries just when the wounds of depression had begun to heal.

Clarifies Government Stand.

It was felt here tonight that Mr. Churchill's speech made clearer than ever before certain points about the Government's attitude in the coal crisis. However, no signs of imminent reconciliation are to be seen.

Meanwhile the manifesto of the Trade Unions' Council, if taken literally, would seem to imply that the labor union leaders want the coal miners to fight to the finish. The manifesto, which was signed by Arthur Pugh, the Chairman, and Walter M. Citrine, Secretary of the Trades Union Congress, declares that the most recent Government coal proposals belie Premier Baldwin's earlier statement that the Government is not fighting to lower the standards of living of the miners or any other class of workers.

The labor movement, continues the report, must offer the most determined resistance to the Government's coal policy. "The reactionary forces behind the Government believe that the trade union movement has had a setback," and it says further, "and this is a favorable moment for their attack. The renewal of the attack upon Russia is definite evidence of the growth of reaction in the Government.

"The General Council warns the Government and the country that a policy is now being pursued that is calculated to provoke a conflict, the end of which cannot be foreseen. The trade union movement is not broken, nor is its capacity for resistance diminished.

Pressure on Parliament Urged.

"Complete unity and the use of all our resources are necessary to deal with the present situation. The fullest efforts must be made for sustained financial aid for the miners and all workers victimized or imprisoned in the struggle. Pressure must also be exerted upon the members of Parliament to oppose the Government's anti-trade union policy and create public support for a constructive solution of the mining problem, embodied in proposals of the labor movement.

"The council calls upon every trade unionist and every worker to assist in this movement. It calls upon the trades councils to work in their districts with the same care and the same enthusiasm as when they organized during the national strike."

Laborite Censure Fails.

LONDON, July 2 (AP).—The Laborites presented a motion in the House of Commons today designed as a mark of censure against the Government of Stanley Baldwin for the manner in which it has handled the coal strike, but the motion was voted down by a vote of 256 to 95.

The motion, by John R. Clynes, one of the prominent Labor leaders, was in the form of an amendment to a Government motion providing for an address of thanks to King George for continuing the emergency powers of the Government. The Labor motion regretted "the policy pursued by his Majesty's advisers, which has been an impediment in maintaining and restoring peace in the coal industry, and consequently a menace to the public order."

The Government motion was adopted 244 to 84.

Serious Floods in Rumania.

BUCHAREST, July 2 (AP).—Continued rain for the last two days has inundated large areas of lowlands along the Danube River. Galatz and neighboring towns have been flooded. Serious floods also are reported in Banat and Transylvania. Railway and telegraph service has been badly disorganized. The crop situation is considered critical.

Ticker Tape Waste at Parades Protested by Exchange Heads

Officials of the New York Stock Exchange are wracking their brains for a plan to prevent members and their employes from throwing miles and miles of ticker tape to the four winds every time some personage lands at the Battery and marches through the financial district with his honorary escort. Many officials looked on with a pained expression yesterday as several miles of the tape were unfurled in honor of Bobby Jones. This exhibition of flying tape which will never chatter through a ticker brought it freshly to their minds.

Exchange officials have warned members against this use of the tape. It has done no good. The cost of the tape is an item of the Exchange overhead bill which keeps swelling month by month. It has been suggested that the Exchange buy confetti and distribute it to members. The suggestion was frowned on and no means has been found to discourage the practice.

BRITISH-SOVIET TRADE REPORTED FLOURISHING

Correspondent Says Birkenhead and Churchill Speeches Failed to Affect Business Relations.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 2.—The recent hostile speeches of Winston Churchill and Lord Birkenhead had little effect on business relations of Soviet Russia with British firms, according to the London correspondent of The Economic Life. Only three cases of restriction of credit or evidence of mistrust occurred.

A concern selling rubber wrote, congratulating the Russian Trade Department on the accuracy of its payments, but asked for a renewal of the 10 per cent. cap margin which it had agreed to abandon this year.

Two Sheffield concerns decided to cancel credit arrangements because "the bank (Midland) refuses to finance our Russian business, therefore we must request cash terms."

On the other hand, a number of British houses expressly disavowed Mr. Churchill.

"If we had been guided by Mr. Churchill we would have missed a profitable business in the last three years," said one.

"The anti-Soviet hullabaloo is not worthy of serious consideration," wrote another.

In regard to a deal covering a million dollars' worth of goods on a three-year credit the Soviet representatives were informed no change in terms was necessary. Similar statements were made concerning a $500,000 consignment on a twelve-month credit and a proposal to build an electric power station in Russia on a long-term credit.

Bigger firms, says the correspondent, paid no attention to the die-hard attacks.

The Chairman of the Supreme Economic Council, F. E. Dzerzhinsky, issued a statement deprecating the attempts to hinder commercial relations steadily growing more valuable to both countries. He refuses to accept the theory that trade can develop properly without diplomatic relations, arguing that the lack of relations with the United States hinders Russo-American trade, as is already being realized by a section of the American business world.

M. Dzerzhinsky suggests that the large sales of oil recently made to Britain by the Russian Oil Department, menacing the monopoly of the British oil companies, may partly be responsible for the hostile campaign. He concludes:

"In recent times politics frequently smell of oil and oil of politics."

TORTURE INQUIRY ASKED.

International Police Accused of Cruelty to Moorish Prisoners.

TANGIER, July 2 (AP).—The British Consul General is demanding an immediate official inquiry into charges of flogging and otherwise torturing native prisoners by the international police. The allegations involve the Mendohb, the Sultan's representative, and a French official. It is declared they authorized the international police to arrest and examine Moorish suspects. It is asserted that those arrested have been subjected to barbarous cruelties to extort confessions before they were sent to court for trial.

Reports of similar illegalities caused a scandal some time ago. The international police are composed of Europeans and natives. They are under European officers.

J. W. DEKAY FREE IN BANK FAILURE

Government Drops Charges in Providence After 14 Years of Litigation.

IMPORTANT BOOKS LOST

Death of Receiver and Other Witnesses Brings Decision to Forego Prosecution.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 2.—The loss of important ledgers of the Atlantic National Bank, which failed here fourteen years ago, was one of the chief reasons why the charges against John Wesley DeKay, New York banker and sportsman, in connection with the failure have been dropped, according to disclosures before Federal Judge Arthur L. Brown this morning.

The death of the principal witness for the Government was another reason, and the Government felt that it would be useless to endeavor to try the case against DeKay without that witness. John S. Murdock, United States Attorney, told Judge Brown today that he had authority from the Attorney General to nol prosse the charges against DeKay. The decision came from Washington upon the recommendation of two special agents who have been investigating the case.

The ledgers, they learned, either had been destroyed by the bank receiver or had been sold to a junk dealer. Mr. DeKay, for twelve years a fugitive from justice, involved in international litigation that ranged from Switzerland to London and to the United States, during which he charged this country with persecuting him and wanting to punish him for his pacifist ideas, is now free.

When the exposure of the bank's condition was made in 1913 DeKay fled and from that time until the Summer of 1925 he spent his time slipping through the hands of the police of various European countries, until at last he was arrested by Scotland Yard operatives.

While he was a fugitive DeKay's daughter, Jeanne Anne DeKay, disappeared. A countrywide search followed, with Judge Thomas Z. Lee of this city directing the investigators, and after innumerable clues had been run down and found to be without basis her body was taken from the waters of Lake Michigan.

After his arrest in London long-drawn-out litigation followed, during which DeKay disclosed his close touch with the highest figures of Great Britain, one of his assertions being that he had advised Ramsay MacDonald, then Premier, of the treatment of "Reds" in England.

SUMATRA AGAIN SHAKEN.

Many More Houses Near Collapse—Error on Egypt's Deaths.

PADANG, Sumatra, July 2 (AP).—New earthshocks have occurred in Central Sumatra, where at least 200 persons are reported to have been killed in Tuesday's earthquake, and many more houses are about to collapse.

The damage to property will be enormous, dispatches indicate, running into millions of guilders.

LONDON, July 2 (AP).—A report from Cairo yesterday that 110 persons had been killed and 66 injured in last Saturday's earthquake in Egypt was erroneous, it developed today. The figures given were statistics for an earthquake some years ago, issued for the purpose of comparison, but through a translation error were accepted as the latest reports on Saturday's quake.

old, and married twice before. She said her father's name was William Wenneker and that he was a native of Holland, and her mother was Elizabeth Feil Wenneker of New Jersey.

After leaving the Elvin House Mrs. Flagler and Mr. Sullivan moved to the Tannersville Inn, at Tannersville, Pa. Interviewed there last night Mr. Sullivan said that the marriage would take place on Tuesday morning. He said the witnesses would be his attorney, Max Levy of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Madigan of Stamford, Conn.

His reason for wanting to keep the matter secret, he explained, was because Mrs. Flagler was very nervous over the publicity which she had received during the divorce case. He said that the interlocutory decree did not go into effect until July 5, and that being a holiday they decided to wait until Tuesday for the wedding.

Mrs. Flagler's first husband was James Divische Jr., from whom she was divorced in Cuyahoga County, Ohio, in 1920. She was the third wife of Mr. Flagler, to whom she was married in Copake Falls, N. Y., April 17, 1921. Mr. Flagler was then 69 years old. The marriage was kept secret for more than a week.

At Mr. Flagler's death in September, 1922, he left the bulk of an estate appraised at $1,604,048 net, to a foundation in memory of his deceased wife, Alice Mandelick Flagler. There also were several large bequests to hospitals and charitable institutions, and he created a $200,000 trust fund for the benefit of his widow. The trust fund was to revert to the foundation on the death of Mrs. Flagler.

Records of the Supreme Court show that in October, 1924, Mrs. Flagler sued Ella Dumke, named as corespondent in the Goldreich divorce suit, to recover personal effects valued at $7,500 alleged to have been delivered to Mrs. Flagler as part of the estate of her husband and which, it was alleged, were taken without authority by Mrs. Dumke. Mrs. Flagler obtained a writ of replevin and recovered the property.

STORM AND FLOOD KILL 150 IN SERBIA

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, July 2.—Continued heavy rains here and throughout Central Europe are rapidly increasing the flood disaster. A special Cabinet meeting, in response to urgent calls for help from many parts of the country, appropriated 2,000,000 dinars as first aid and also decided to use the military and all available boats in salvage work.

Rail communication with Bulgaria has ceased, the last train having to pass over submerged rails. Other railroads experienced similar trouble.

It is reported in Belgrade that upward of a hundred persons have been drowned in Southern Serbia and fifty killed by lightning.

In Southern Serbia thunder storms have been accompanied by torrential rains, the Vardar River quickly climbing twenty-two feet above normal, sweeping away numerous bridges and many houses, with their furniture.

Belgrade, which stands on a peninsula between the Save and the Danube, resembles an island from three sides, a vast expanse of water, especially above the city, stretching over the low plains.

Damage is especially great in Banat, one of the most fertile regions of Europe, where tens of thousands of acres and many villages are submerged. Thousands of volunteers are fighting a losing battle to preserve the remainder of the dikes which have broken at Apatin, near the Hungarian border.

The sun appeared this afternoon. Tomorrow's weather forecast is uncertain.

Even without the floods, the rains alone have greatly damaged crop prospects everywhere.

FLEA MENACES COTTON CROP

Mexican Pest Invades Southern States, Alarming Growers.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, July 2.—Cotton farmers in Louisiana, Mississippi and parts of Georgia, Arkansas and Texas have become alarmed at the appearance of the Mexican cotton flea or hopper.

Recently the Government experiment station at Tallulah, La., issued a warning to farmers that the presence of the hopper constituted a grave menace to the crop unless prompt steps were taken to fight the pest.

The farmers of North Louisiana have taken steps to fight the flea by airplane, dusting the growing cotton with sulphur. This application has been successful, but the presence of the pest is so widespread that farmers are appealing through their Congressmen to the Agricultural Department to combat the menace.

AMERICA DEFEATED ON NAVAL CRITERION

Principle of Washington Accord Declared Unfair by Geneva Disarmament Committee.

TILT ON FOREIGN CONTROL

Nolan Says Supervision of Our Armaments by International Body Will Not Be Accepted.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 2.—A plenary session of the Military Committee of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission today rejected the minority report of the United States dissenting from the report of the Naval Subcommittee on standards of comparison of navies. Great Britain, Argentina and Chile associated themselves with the American statement, which was defeated, 4 to 14. Germany did not vote. The committee adopted the majority report of the naval experts.

The Americans and their associates contended that the naval strength of one country could be compared with that of another by comparing the tonnage of classes of ships, as well as by total tonnage of the entire navies, as the majority report recommended.

Today's decision means that a fundamental principle of the Washington naval accord has been rejected as unfair, at least for the present. However, the countries which submitted the minority report today will insist on submitting it to the full Preparatory Disarmament Commission.

Debate on it was lively and it was considerably modified in the effort to have it adopted. One passage, referring to the fact that some nations with no navies had voted in determining the standard set by the majority of the Naval Subcommittee, was deleted on account of the objections it raised.

At a meeting of the Military Committee this morning General Nolan, on behalf of the United States, declared that his country could not agree to supervision of its armaments by any international body.

Text of the Report.

The original text of the minority report on naval standards follows:

"We, the naval representatives of Argentina, the British Empire, Chile and the United States, are constrained to make this minority report for the following reasons:

"We interpret our terms of reference from the Preparatory Commission as instructing us to name all the practical standards by which it is possible to measure the naval armaments of one country against the naval armaments of another country, whereas the majority of the subcommittee has decided to confine itself to one standard only.

"In this report, it is our object to make our statements as concise and simple as possible and base them on purely technical and practical considerations, disregarding entirely all their political aspects.

"The only standard of measuring the naval armaments of one country against the naval armaments of another country accepted as possible by the naval subcommittee was that of total tonnage.

Cited as Possible Standards.

"We strongly dissent from this view, as it is our opinion that the following methods may also be accepted as possible standards:

"First, total tonnage by classes.

"Second, total number of ships in these classes.

"Third, total tonnage of capital ships, of aircraft carriers, auxiliary surface ships, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

"While admitting that total tonnage is a possible standard, we consider that its application would be extremely difficult, if not practically impossible, unless combined with a consideration of the relative value of armaments compared by classes of units composing such armaments.

"We further consider that, in applying any standard, it is essential that the following subsidiary considerations should be taken into account:

"First, age of ships.

"Second, maximum tonnage of each class of ships.

"Third, maximum calibre of guns for each class of ship.

Danger of Friction Seen.

"In addition to this, we are of the opinion that a measure which does not include consideration of the maximum tonnage of each class of ship and the maximum calibre of guns for each class of ship may lead to friction between nations and defeat the object of any conference for the limitation of naval armaments.

"The Naval Subcommittee further decided that it is not possible to divide roughly the combatant naval units of countries into classes in such a way as to convey to the technical naval mind a distinction between them.

"We strongly dissent from this opinion, and consider that definitions of classes can be made sufficiently clear to enable the maximum tonnage for each class to be specified.

Existing Standard Rejected.

"We desire to invite attention to the following proposal, put forward by the American delegation:

" 'One of the standards by which it is possible to measure the naval armaments of one country against the naval armaments of another country is the amount of tonnage possessed or allowed in each type of commabant vessel.'

"The Naval Subcommittee rejected this proposal by a majority vote and, in so doing, denounced as impossible a standard already in existence. The following question was then put to the subcommittee:

" 'Is the method of comparison of the naval armaments of one country with the naval armaments of another country, which is based on the standard of tonnage for each class, capable of general application in an exact and fair manner for all nations and, therefore, acceptable?'

"Twelve delegations answered this question in the negative, which implies that a standard already in existence is not capable of general application, as it is not exact and fair and, therefore, unacceptable.

Nations Without Navies Voted.

"We desire further to invite attention to the fact that decisions on purely technical naval subjects were arrived at by a vote in the subcommittee in which delegations of countries, which had not only no professional naval representatives but, in some cases, no navies nor any coastline, took part on an equal basis with the delegations of naval powers and had equal voting rights.

"On the American proposal referred to above the voting was as follows:

"In favor—Argentina, British Empire, Chile, Spain, United States and Japan.

"Against—Belgium, Bulgaria, Finland, France, Italy, Holland, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechslovakia.

"Sweden, Germany and Brazil abstained."

This minority report, which was presented to the full Military Committee, speaks for itself both as to the attitude of the American naval experts and as to the decisions of the subcommittee.

Nolan Tells Our Stand.

In another manner the United States delegation has come into conflict with ideas which have been advanced by certain delegations as to how disarmament may be obtained. At the morning session of the Plenary Military Committee General Nolan announced that the United States would never accept supervision of her armaments by outside agencies or central international bodies.

International supervision of armaments has been favored by the French as a logical sequence of limitation of armaments, so that the world might know that the disarmament agreements were being faithfully carried out. The Italians oppose the idea just as strongly as the French support it.

General Nolan's statement follows:

"In recent discussions there has arisen from time to time the question of control as a factor in the successful administration of any scheme which may be adopted for the limitation and reduction of armaments.

"The delegation of the United States desires it to be clearly understood that the United States will not agree to placing the supervision of its armaments or the carrying out of any programs for the limitation of armaments in the hands of any international body.

Land Arms Report Adopted.

"The execution of any international agreement for the limitation of armaments must depend, in so far as the United States is concerned, upon international good faith and respect for treaties.

"The United States will not accept the supervision of any outside body in this matter nor be subject to inspection or supervision by foreign agencies or individuals.

"However, in case other powers desire to make such a régime of inspection or control applicable to themselves, the United States would not presume to pass judgment upon such arrangements.

"The delegation of the United States notes with much satisfaction that its views are shared by other delegations, notably the Italian delegation."

The plenary session of the Military Committee this morning was devoted principally to consideration of the report of the Land Arms Subcommittee. Several delegations which were not in accord with portions of the report made statements setting forth their position. The committee adopted the text of the report, subject to the reservations recorded, and then passed to consideration of the report of the Air Subcommittee, which also was adopted.

Reasons for Rejection Given.

GENEVA, July 2 (AP).—In one of those royal peace battles for which Geneva is becoming famed, the American delegation to the Preparatory Disarmament Commission met defeat today on naval problems. Their minority report, to which Great Britain, Argentina and Chile had subscribed and made their own, was definitely rejected at a meeting of disarmament experts. Only the signers themselves supported it.

The majority naval report adopted by the Military Committee cites five reasons why the Washington class tonnage standard is not feasible.

First, it is impossible to draw accurate distinction between different classes of ships applicable to all countries.

Second, the Washington decision was not based on comparisons between whole naval armaments, but was applied only to battleships and aircraft carriers, defined in a technically arbitrary manner.

Third, it is an impossibility to compare dissimilar fleets without being led into comparisons between tonnage of ships belonging to different classes.

Fourth, even between ships ostensibly of the same class, but which really differ widely, such comparisons would be inadequate.

Fifth, the Washington standard would impel each country to build types of ships possibly ill-adapted to its security.

CAILLAUX RECEIVES REPORT OF EXPERTS

It Recommends Ratification of Debt Accord With Us as First Step to Stabilization.

BANKS AND BUSINESS SPLIT

Former Favor Stabilizing Franc, While the Latter Opposes It, Fearing Economic Hardships.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—The Finance Minister, Joseph Caillaux, has in his hands tonight the advance proofs of the report of the Experts' Committee set up by his predecessor to study means by which the stabilization of the currency could be reached and at the same time the liberation of the Treasury from its constant burden of indebtedness be effected.

In the main, it is said, his views coincide with those of the experts, and this fact will undoubtedly strengthen his position on Tuesday when he faces the Chamber with his completed plans. It is no secret that the Expert Committee puts first and foremost as the most essential step toward stability the settlement of the debt with Britian and the United States—that is to say, in the latter case, ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

Without such a settlement they insist the position of the country would be too vulnerable to permit any risk being taken in an effort at stabilization.

The experts, of course, do not make any recommendations for or against the existing settlement. That is not their business, but their insistence that a settlement must be made and the fact that the Government and the country are now clearly aware that no alteration in the Washington terms is obtainable at present makes it impossible for Premier Briand and his Finance Minister to do otherwise than to ask ratification of the present agreement, of which the signing was authorized by M. Briand during the last Administration.

Treasury the Second Problem.

The second concern of the experts is the liberation of the Exchequer from the ever-recurring burden of the redemption of the defense bonds by the creation of a sinking fund specially fed from definite earmarked resources, such as the tobacco and other State monopolies.

This arrangement would give the Treasury a safeguard which it needs if the State credit is to enjoy enough confidence to make stabilization possible.

The experts do not recommend any definite figure at which the franc could be stabilized nor do they advocate any haste in the attempt. They appear to agree that there must first be a kind of natural stability established as an indication of what can be done.

The figure of thirty-five to the dollar has been frequently mentioned of late as likely, but there is reason to believe that the ultimate goal of M. Caillaux and the experts is stabilization at a figure a little lower than the market rate. Certainly their efforts will be to make the rate as low as is compatible with success. It is only if and when these preparatory measures are taken that foreign credits for the franc would be needed, and all discussions with Benjamin Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Montague Norman of the Bank of England, which are being conducted across 500 miles of territory—for these gentlemen announce they will remain another fortnight at Antibes in the South of France—are to be considered as preliminary and conditional on the establishment of other planks in the stabilization platform.

One of M. Caillaux's great difficulties in this matter is that the British plan of sending gold abroad cannot be followed because of the extreme sensitiveness of French opinion.

The French, who habitually do not use checks, would never understand such an action as the export of gold, and so it must be simply discounted in the possibilities of the situation.

Among bankers and financial interests, despite internal quarrels as to who is to get the honor and emoluments of the operation, there is a growing disposition to regard M. Caillaux's proposals as sound in principle and possible in application.

Business Hostile to Stabilization.

The business community and, above all, the manufacturers, are not in favor of stabilization yet, as they foresee consequent economic difficulties affecting them far more closely than the present financial difficulties of the country.

It is, in fact, there that the struggle is going on which is reflected in Parliament. On the one side, and it is the side of the Government, there is a clear and forceful comprehension of the real needs and interests of the country. But on the other side there are the private interests, backed by the enormous power of ignorance, fear and political self-seeking.

For a battle between these two interests on the floor of the Chamber next week it seems that M. Caillaux is fully prepared, while M. Briand is strengthening him with all his sagacity of leadership.

The country is aware it is at the cross-roads and must choose definitely, but, unfortunately for the Government, the choice is made all the more difficult by the suspicion of domination and interference which attaches to the Mellon-Bérenger debt settlement, with which the whole choice is so closely wrapped up.

It is not to be expected that there will be, as a result of next week's debate, immediate ratification of that agreement or imemdiate adoption of Joseph Caillaux's proposals. It is merely the principles involved which will be debated and it will be on them that a decision will be taken.

The working out of the whole Caillaux scheme will be a matter of several months and cannot possibly be realized until the Fall.

Today in political circles the atmosphere was on the whole considerably calmer than yesterday, and the prophets of disaster for the Government were less numerous and less vociferous.

Both sides were busy preparing their defenses and their attacks, and the wiser prophets are today inclined to give odds on the Government being able to withstand any onslaught by MM. Tardieu, Blum or any others.

Franc Slumps to New Low Level.

PARIS, July 2 (AP).—Financial and political circles in France got another shock today when the franc slumped to 37.89 to the dollar, hitting a new low for all time. The franc reacted to 37.74 after the Bourse closed.

Financial experts were unable to give any other reasen for the continued drop of the franc than uneasiness over the present political situation and uncertainty as to whether the new Briand Ministry will receive a favorable reception in the Chamber of Deputies on Tuesday.

While New York has taken the lead in the movement against the French exchange since Wednesday, it is generally admitted here that the new slump of the franc had its origin in Paris and was largely political. Premier Briand himself has been outspoken in criticism of French leaders who have been trying to throw responsibility for the situation on New York bankers.

A bombshell was thrown into anti-ratification ranks in Parliament today when figures were produced showing that the total present value of the payments France is expected to make to the United States under the Bérenger-Mellon agreement, is only two billion dollars. This includes the price of war stocks and is just about the total of the sums which France has borrowed from the United States since the armistice. This is the first time that this analysis of the agreement has been presented in Parliamentary circles.

Premier Briand has been particularly active in the past two days seeing leaders of the different political parties and endeavoring to convince them that the key to salvation of the franc is in ratification of the accord. The Premier is thought to be preparing for an out and out stand for ratification when the financial debate comes up on Tuesday.

Greece Gets Swedish Loan.

ATHENS, Greece, July 2 (AP).—President Pangalos has signed a contract with a Swedish group, granting a match monopoly in return for a loan of £1,000,000 at 6 per cent., to be issued at 94. It is stated that the negotiations for further advances from the United States under the credits established during the war are proceeding satisfactorily.

BRITISH PESSIMISTIC ON FRENCH FINANCES

Further Fall in Franc Expected and Doubt Is Expressed on Caillaux's Ability.

POLITICS MAINLY BLAMED

End of Fiscal Trouble Will Come, It Is Held, Only With the Election of a New Chamber.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—The British attitude toward the French financial situation is mainly one of pessimism. In other words, London expects the franc to fall still lower than the new record set today of 182 francs to the pound sterling.

There exists on this side of the channel a double doubt about the Finance Minister, Joseph Caillaux. In the first place there is doubt that he has the answer to the French financial riddle, and in the second place there is doubt that, if his plan is a proper one, he can put it into force, in view of the political opposition which has developed in the Chamber of Deputies.

In the latter doubt the British see the main trouble in the Paris situation. The Chamber is observed to be hopelessly divided in everything it has tried to do and the feeling predominates here that the Deputies have not yet taken a sufficiently serious view of the situation to lead them to surrender any power they hold as members of party groups in the French Parliament.

Until they do so, or until there is a new Chamber, London thinks the country's finances will be the victim of too much domestic politics. As seen from here this factor is even more important than appears on the surface.

British financiers, pointing to the large export of capital from France, say the basic trouble is lack of confidence, and they predict that no Government, whatever its tone, which holds on to power only by the skin of its teeth, can promote that confidence judged necessary to bring back into the country the capital which has fled.

Yet the British almost unanimously think France will come out on top. They regard her as a rich and resourceful country in a good economic position, and, therefore, they regard her present difficulties as essentially temporary, although serious enough, unless something is done quickly and that something the British do not yet see on the horizon.

One notes a much more sympathetic feeling among the British than among the Americans. Of course their basic interest in business relations with France is more important than ours. But one sees an important difference in the feeling about war debts. While we talk justice to ourselves and the sanctity of international contracts and so on, the British look at the matter only as something which might relieve the situation a little.

Without speculating as to whether their position is biased, they say they would like to cancel the French debt, but cannot afford it, and this of course leads to the observation that the debt collecting is all America's fault.

Yet, there exists in all quarters here a sincere hope that M. Caillaux or some one else will soon find a way out of the fiscal maze in which the French Government is wandering.

HELEN WILLS DENIES ENGAGEMENT REPORT

LONDON, July 2.—It has been persistently rumored at Wimbledon that Helen Wills, the American tennis star, who was prevented by illness from competing in the women's championships, has become engaged to Frederick Moody of San Francisco.

The couple have frequently been seen together at Wimbledon with Mrs. Wills, and Miss Wills has been observed to wear a pearl ring on her engagement finger.

Both Miss Wills and Mr. Moody, however, tonight denied the report that they are betrothed.

AVERESCU PLANS RISE IN NOTE CIRCULATION

Rumanian Premier Would Issue One Billion Lei to Buy Dollars and Pounds for Crops.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, July 2.—Financial questions are the centre of active discussion here, owing to the desire of the Government to increase the note circulation and the uncertainty regarding the status of the Italian loan negotiations.

Government circles say there is no intention to inflate, but point out that the present twenty-one billion lei are insufficient for the needs of the country, a new issue being especially necessary to finance the exportation of crops, the prospects for which are excellent.

They complain that the previous Bratiano Administration left no money in the Treasury, being over-generous, it is charged, in paying off various State obligations for political reasons.

The Government's project, which seems likely to be carried through despite the strong opposition of the Bratiano group, would have the National Bank print a billion more lei, which are not to be lent to the Government, but used exclusively to purchase pounds and dollars.

It is intended to do this by selling the new issue to foreign importers of Rumanian wheat, who, it is alleged, cannot now obtain lei owing to the shortage of currency. The pounds and dollars thus purchased will be kept to cover the new issue when the export season ends in the Autumn. Thus it is hoped to avoid the dangers of inflation.

Many, however, are skeptical, and the Bratiano Liberal opposition, though having only a few Deputies, is in a powerful position, as the Governor and directors of the National Bank belong to this party.

It is currently reported that the Ex-Minister of Finance, Vintila Bratiano, signed an agreement whereby it is impossible for the National Bank ever to increase its circulation beyond twenty-one billions. The Chrissoveloni Bank, however, is leading the fight for the Government's project.

Although the Assistant Secretary of Finance, M. Manoilescu, returned a fortnight ago from Rome, where he was negotiating a loan, no communiqué has yet been given out. At least a communiqué was given to several newspapers, but was suddenly stopped the same night by police agents, who threatened confiscation to those publishing it.

The retracted document announced that the Rumanian war debts to Italy had been fixed at 120,000,000 lire, the interest increasing the total to 157,000,000 lire, payable in fifty years in paper lire at the current value.

The communiqué stated that the new loan is divided into two categories; First, 200,000,000 lire was granted by the General Italian Petroleum Agency in cash at 7 per cent., free of any commission, and payable in ten years; second, 100,000,000 lire was arranged with Italian private industry without interest to cover the payment of Rumanian orders from Italy.

The communiqué stated that the "only guarantee for these loans is the general credit of the State.

While both have asserted and denied that the loans have been arranged, it is believed that negotiations have been brought to a successful conclusion, as, owing to the condition of the Rumanian Treasury—so depleted that payment of salaries has been long delayed—it is known that the Averescu Government would accept any kind of terms from fear of serious internal political consequences.

Financial circles foresee an unpleasant situation for Rumania in America, Britain and France if it proves true that the Italian war debt has been settled on a 100 per cent. basis, after America gave better terms both to Rumania and Italy.

The quid pro quo behind the first loan is believed to be important oil concessions to Italy, while it is considered that the second will be used entirely to pay for Italian naval equipment, including two submarines, which Turkey appears indisposed to allow to traverse the Dardanelles.

RUMANIA WILL LIFT BAN ON FOREIGN AID

Premier Now Plans to Enlist American Capital for the Exploitation of Country.

MAY MAKE MARIE REGENT

Averescu Aims to Abrogate Regency Established by Bratiano in the Event of King's Death.

BUCHAREST, July 2 (AP).—Abrogation of the restrictive measures against the flow of foreign capital into Rumania will be one of the first and most important acts of the new Averescu Government. Special encouragement also will be given to Americans to aid in the development of the natural resources of the country.

Vintila Bratiano, former Minister of Finance, carried legislation against the development of Rumania by foreigners almost to an extreme point. It will be Premier Averescu's policy to encourage foreign enterprise in every way.

"The attitude of the preceding Government," said General Averescu to The Associated Press," has been too narrowly nationalistic. For her proper development Rumania must have not only the sympathy of such great countries as the United States, but their active financial and technical assistance as well. For this reason I shall abrogate all existing restrictive measures against the flow of foreign capital into the country and will encourage Americans and other enterprising industrialists to come to Rumania and share with the Government in the exploitation of its rich natural resources."

General Averescu expressed regret that American bankers had thus far shown so little inclination to lend Rumania money.

"We are prepared," he said, "to give the Americans the most gilt-edged security and the most liberal interest. Up to the present American financial institutions have shown a disposition to advance us money only through the medium of England, France or other second parties; but we want to deal directly with the Americans themselves and not with 'middlemen.' "

Plans to Make Marie Regent.

Another important measure contemplated by General Averescu is to nullify the Regency created by former Premier Bratiano. His plan is to invest Queen Marie with the powers of a Regent in the event of King Ferdinand's death.

It seems to be the belief of all patriotic Rumanians that the creation of Prince Carol's four-year-old son, Michael, as Crown Prince, with Prince Nicholas, Carol's younger brother, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and the Patriarch of Rumania forming a Regency until the infant Prince Michael becomes of age, is fraught with danger and uncertainty.

It is argued that the present Regency at best would be only a political instrument in the hands of M. Bratiano, as it is almost entirely of his creation. Two of the members, the Patriarch and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, are M. Bratino's personal appointees.

The designation of Queen Marie as Regent, it is held, would offset the perils inherent in such a Regency, as the Queen has the whole country behind her, regardless of political parties. She is considered a much stronger personality than any, or all three, of the present Regency. Besides, Premier Averescu's supporters argue, she would be a far abler and more impartial administrator.

King's Health Good.

Rumanians at present apparently entertain no anxiety regarding King Ferdinand's health or the stability of his throne. As a matter of fact the King is now in excellent health and has the whole-hearted allegiance of his people. But it is held by those in favor of the appointment of Queen Marie as Regent that every reasonable precaution must be taken for the future.

King Ferdinand is now more than sixty, and it is conceivable, say the proponents of the plan to make Queen Marie Regent, that the King might die between now and 1940, when the infant Crown Prince Michael becomes of age.

That Queen Marie would make a brilliant head of State is the universal opinion. She is a far stronger and more dominant personality than the King, and to her, more than to any other single individual, does Rumania owe the growth it has enjoyed since the World War.

If General Averescu succeeds in putting his plan into force, Queen Marie, in the event of King Ferdinand's death, would succeed him as the active sovereign of Rumania. The Queen would thus occupy much the same position in her country as did Queen Victoria, her illustrious grandmother, in Britain.

Like Queen Victoria, Queen Marie possesses strong force of character, broad sympathies, a keen intellect, exceptional executive ability, and a wide knowledge of internal and international affairs.

bration at Tammany Hall, where both will speak. While some political talks may prove inevitable while the Governor is here, it was made clear that at least until after the Fourth "politics stand adjourned."

The Governor, with Mrs. Smith and other members of his family, reached the Biltmore a little after 6 last night. Today the Governor and Mrs. Smith will see their friend, Mrs. William F. Kenney, off on the Leviathan. Mrs. Kenney is going abroad to visit her daughter, the Countess de Prorok. Later the Governor and Mrs. Smith will board the yacht of William H. Todd, the shipbuilder, off the Battery for a cruise down the bay in the wake of the Leviathan. A stop will be made at the landing of the Atlantic Yacht Club, where the Governor will swim, later going to Sea Gate where he will dine at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Glynn. Mrs. Glynn is the Governor's sister. Sunday the Governor will swim at Sea Gate and again on Monday after the Tammany Hall affair.

Governor Smith will head a large delegation of friends of John J. Curtin, counsel to the Governor, who will go to Pier 97, West Fifty-seventh Street, at noon today to see Mr. Curtin leave on the Italian liner Duilio for Naples. Mr. Curtin was Chairman of the Kings County Committee that made the primary and election fight for Mayor Walker. Mr. Curtin is going abroad for his first vacation and rest since his strenuous activities in the political campaigns. More than 1,000 friends are expected to be at the pier to wish him bon voyage.

HEDLEY DEFIANT AT STRIKE THREAT

following the example of officials of London in the British general strike.

Mr. Hedley's Statement.

Mr. Hedley's statement of the position of the Interborough Company came late last night in the form of a letter to the General Committee and members of the Interborough Brotherhood and followed a meeting of the General Committee in the Interborough offices at which the committee members agreed to support the company and sustain the agreement for a continuation of the wage scale, reached by the company officers and the committee last Wednesday.

In his letter, Mr. Hedley recalled that a wage agreement between the company and the brotherhood had been reached on June 30 and said he had been informed that, notwithstanding this agreement, Local 7, representing the motormen and switchmen of the subway division, had seceded from the brotherhood and formed an independent organization.

He explained his refusal to see the committee from the new organiaztion by saying he could not see them in view of the company's agreement with the brotherhood.

Will Protect Men's Rights.

Mr. Hedley asserted the company always had kept faith with the Brotherhood and intended to protect the rights of its 15,000 members. "There never was any power vested in Local 7 or any member of that local to reject or refuse to be bound by the action of the General Committee," he continued. "The management cannot without amendment of the constitution of the Brotherhood treat with any local after the General Committee has acted, except as a matter of courtesy. It certainly cannot treat with any outlaw organization which has undertaken to secede from the Brotherhood. Our agreement with the Brotherhood—made at the insistence of the Brotherhood—requires us to employ only members of the Brotherhood. We intend to keep that agreement.

"I am reluctant to dismiss any of the subway switchmen or motormen because of the outlaw action taken on the advice of some of their leaders.

"If these men persist in their attitude and remain out of the brotherhood and join this outlaw organization, it will be necessary for me to terminate their employment. I will give them a reasonable opportunity before doing so for a sober second thought; but I want it understood by the members of the brotherhood, as indeed by all persons having any connection with the company, that if these men, after an opportunity for further reflection, persist in their attempts to form an outlaw organization, they will by that act have taken themselves out of the employment of the company, and if they do that, you may be assured that they will remain out of its employment, and that we will have nothing further to do with them. In taking this position we are but carrying out our solemn promises made to your brotherhood, which we meant when we made them, and which we intend to stand by now and in the future."

Leave "Company" Union.

The attempt of Messrs. Lavin, Bark and Phelan, representing the new Consolidated Railways Workers' organization, to see Mr. Hedley, followed a meeting the night before, at which it was decided to leave the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes, the so-called company union, and press the demand for a wage increase, which the majority of the general committee of the Brotherhood agreed on Wednesday to abandon for this year.

This committee called at Mr. Hedley's office and were informed that Mr. Hedley would not see them. They then attempted to see William Keegan, assistant to Mr. Hedley in charge of operation, but were told Mr. Keegan could do nothing for them.

After an unsuccessful effort to see Mayor Walker at City Hall, where it was suggested they see the Transit Commissioners, the three representatives of the subway motormen and switchmen returned to the Interborough offices at 165 Broadway and again tried to see Mr. Hedley. They then presented a letter to Mr. Hedley, outlining the demands, and this was accepted by H. M. Norris, Mr. Keegan's assistant, who said he would see that it reached the Interborough President.

Motormen's Ultimatum.

The letter follows:

July 2, 1926.

To Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company:

At an all-day meeting of the subway motormen and switchmen, it has been decided by a vote of 579 to reject the company proposition to stay "as is." Seven men voted yes. It has also been decided by 579 men that we have no more connection or affiliation with the body known as the General Committee of the I. R. T. Brotherhood.

The same 579 have organized themselves into a new organization to be known as the Consolidated Railway Workers of Greater New York.

These men demand that you, Mr. Hedley, recognize and do business with this organization. These men also renew their demand for a wage increase to $1 per hour for motormen and 75 cents per hour for switchmen.

In the event that the above is not agreed to by you, representing the I. R. T. Company, by 6 P. M. July 3, 1926, these men will cease work at 12:01 A. M. on Tuesday, July 6, 1926.

Respectfully submitted.
EDWARD P. LAVIN,
HARRY BARK,
JOSEPH G. PHELAN.

The form of ballot, upon which the foregoing ultimatum was based and which was distributed to the members of the former Local 7 of the Interborough Brotherhood, to which the subway motormen and switchmen belonged, follows:

"Members of Local No. 7: Are you in favor of accepting the plea of the management to remain 'as is' for another year?"

After leaving the Interborough offices Messrs. Lavin, Bark and Phelan went to the offices of the Transit Commission, where they were in conference for more than an hour with Chairman John F. Gilchrist and Commissioners Leon G. Godley and Charles C. Lockwood. Mr. Gilchrist then made his offer to arbitrate the wage demand provided he and his colleagues were acceptable to both sides.

Mr. Lavin told the commissioners that most of the subway motormen and switchmen were opposed to arbitration because they did not believe they would get a "square deal" in any negotiations with the Interborough Company, but said he would report the offer at the meeting to be held today. Mr. Lavin said that under the existing wage scale, renewal of which is insisted upon by the Interborough officials, it gave switchmen from 58 to 61 cents an hour and had three rates for motormen—69, 76 and 82 cents an hour. He declared this was not a living wage.

Mr. Lavin said a number of elevated railroad motormen and switchmen were in sympathy with the subway motormen and would undoubtedly strike with them. He declined to estimate the number except to say that about twenty of them were at the meeting of the subway motormen when the Consolidated Railroad Workers' organization was formed Thursday night. There are two locals of the Interborough Brotherhood among the elevated motormen, one branch on the Sixth and Ninth Avenue lines and another on the Second and Third Avenue lines.

There are 752 motormen and switchmen employed on the Interborough's subway division and approximately an equal number on its elevated lines. Mr. Lavin declared at least 700 of the 752 subway motormen and switchmen were members of the Consolidated Railroad Workers and would strike. Ultimately, he added, the Consolidated Railroad Workers would seek affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. It was not and would not be associated with the Amalgamated Union of Street Railway Employes, he added.

Company's Stock Drops.

A sudden wave of selling, believed to have been caused by the strike news which developed in the afternoon, carried the shares of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company down rapidly. This selling did not strike the stock market until about 2:45 when the rest of the list was strong. At that time I. R. T. stock was selling at 43¼. In a single "run" on the tape the market value of the stock fell to 40, at which figure it closed. Manhattan guaranteed shares were sympathetically unsettled.

The threat of an Interborough strike will not affect employes of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, it was said at the B. M. T. offices in Brooklyn. A new wage agreement for one year was recently signed and officials said their employes were generally satisfied.

Those at the conference called by the Transit Commission in addition to the three Commissioners included Major Philip Mathews, chief executive officer; James B. Walker, secretary, and Colonel William C. Lancaster, chief engineer.

Among the representatives of transit companies were William S. Menden, President of the B. M. T.; W. E. Thompson of the Third Avenue Railway System; Hugh J. Sheeran and D. E. Lenahan of the New York Railways Corporation; F. T. Woods of the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, Michael Kirtland and H. McGuinness of the Eighth and Ninth Avenue surface lines, R. E. McDougall of the New York & Harlem Railroad, operating the Fourth and Madison Avenue surface line; Clinton E. Morgan of the Brooklyn City Railroal Company, and Commissioner Albert Goldman of the Department of Plant and Structures.

Chairman Gilchrist said there was a possibility of an Interborough strike and that a stoppage of the Interborough service would work a great hardship upon the people of New York. He said he had called them to take precautionary measures and asked what additional service they could provide if necessary. Each conferee pledged cooperation and promised to provide additional service.

Each company was asked to submit to the commission a typewritten statement, showing the extent of the additional service it would provide and such changes in operation or routing as it will be necessary for the public to know so as to minimize confusion that might result from a change in routine. As soon as these statements are received and tabulated, the commission will prepare a general statement to guide the public, which will be published, if necessary, before the time set for the threatened strike.

Commissioner Goldman after the meeting had another conference with Mayor Walker, at which the latter directed him to do everything possible to prepare emergency service. Mayor Walker, who had intended to leave for Atlantic City last night and return Monday morning in time for his scheduled speech at the Independence Day celebration of the Tammony Society at Tammany Hall, abandoned his trip and will remain in the city over Sunday. He considers the situation critical and requiring the efforts of all in his Administration.

TEST OF STAGGER PLAN HAILED AS SUCCESSFUL

The first test of the proposed "stagger" plan for the relief of congestion on the city's rapid transit lines has been successful, according to reports made yesterday to Dr. Louis I. Harris, Health Commissioner, and Major Philip Mathews, chief executive officer of the Transit Commission.

The test was made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in the Metropolitan Building, among approximately 10,000 employes, whose hours of work were "staggered." One group was directed to arrive at work at 8:30 A. M. and leave at 4 P. M., another to arrive at 9 A. M. and quit at 4:30 P. M., and a third group to arrive and leave a half hour later.

The effects of the new system were reported to have shown at once in reduced congestion in the elevators of the building and in the transit stations in the vicinity of Madison Avenue and Twenty-third Street. According to Major Mathews, the experience in the Metropolitan Building has demonstrated that similar systems could be put into effect in other large buildings. He expressed belief that the "stagger" plan offered the only hope of immediate transit relief.

A transit census will be taken in every large office building in the city. Blanks will be distributed within a few days. According to Dr. Harris, it is hoped to begin the "stagger" plan by the middle of September.

HARRISON WILLIAMS MARRIES MRS. BUSH

Financier's Wedding Here to Former Wife of James I. Bush Gives a Surprise.

PATRON OF EXPLORATIONS

He Was Engaged Last Year to Mrs. J. F. Curtis, Who Suddenly Rewed Husband She Divorced.

Mrs. Mona Travis Strader Bush of 35 Rue d'Artois, Paris, France, was married to Harrison Williams, financier, of 777 Madison Avenue, yesterday afternoon at his home by the Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. Saxon. Only a few intimate friends were present.

The marriage, of which no previous announcement had been made, came as a complete surprise to Mr. Williams's friends and to New York social and financial circles. The couple left immediately after the ceremony to go aboard Mr. Williams's yacht, The Warrior.

Mrs. Williams is the former wife of James I. Bush, Vice President of the Equitable Trust Company, from whom she obtained a divorce in Paris on last July 25. Before her marriage to Mr. Bush in the Central Presbyterian Church in October, 1921, she was the wife of H. J. Schlesinger, a wealthy Milwaukee clubman. They were divorced and she assumed her maiden name. She is the daughter of R. B. Strader of Louisville, Ky.

Was Engaged to Mrs. J. F. Curtis.

Mr. Williams was born in Avon, Ohio, in 1873. He was married in 1900 at Pittsburgh to Miss Katherine Gordon Breed, who died in 1915. He has since made his home with his sister, Miss Zella M. Williams, at 777 Madison Avenue. On May 5 of last year William R. Merriam, former Governor of Minnesota, and Mrs. Merriam announced in Washington the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Laura Merriam Curtis, to Mr. Williams. Mrs. Curtis had obtained a divorce in the Paris tribunal from James Freeman Curtis, a member of Curtis, Fosdick & Belknap, a New York law firm, on April 15, 1924. The Curtises were married in 1912. Three days after the announcement of her engagement to Mr. Williams, Mrs. Curtis, at a civil ceremony in this city, remarried her divorced husband.

Mr. Williams is internationally known as a financier, as a developer of electric public utilities and as a contributor to the cause of oceanographic research. For a number of years he was President and Chairman of the Board of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company. Later he became President and Chairman of the Board of the North American Company and is today principally interested in the development of this concern, which, with its subsidiaries, is one of the largest corporations in the country with assets of over $600,000,000.

Host to Prince of Wales.

When the Prince of Wales visited this country Mr. Wililams was his host on many occasions, and the Prince spent much of his time at the estate of Mr. Williams in Glen Cove, L. I. He was escort to the Prince during the latter's visit to Wall Street and was his host at a luncheon given in the Recess Club.

Mr. Williams is a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Managers of the New York Zoological Society and has financed several scientific expeditions, notably one by William Beebe to the Galapagos Islands, off the coast of Ecuador, estimated to have cost $100,000, and several to gather specimens for the Bronx Zoological Park. With Vincent Astor, Marshall Field, Henry D. Whiton and other members of the Zoological Society, he financed Dr. Beebe's expedition on the Arcturus to locate the Sargasso Sea and to study deep-sea life. He has also contributed to the Putnam expedition, now on its way to Greenland, and to the American Museum of Natural History and other institutions of a similar nature.

Mr. Williams is a member of the following clubs: Metropolitan, City Midday, Recess, Riding, Auto of America, New York Yacht, Metropolitan Riding and Hunt of Washington, Piping Rock, National Golf, the Creek, Sleepy Hollow and Morris County Golf. He is Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Charity Organization Society and Treasurer and trustee of the Neurological Institute.

Mr. Williams also is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars and the Ohio Society of New York.

His office is a 60 Broadway.

Mrs. T. B. Wells to Be Hostess.

Mrs. Thomas B. Wells will be hostess next Tuesday afternoon at the reception of the English Speaking Union which will be held in compliment to Sir Henry Braddon, K. B. E. and Lady Braddon. Sir Henry was the first Commissioner from Australia to the United States and now is President of the branch of the union in Sydney, Australia.

Henry L. Pragers to Sail Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Prager and their daughters, the Misses Elaine and Doris Prager, of 12 East Eighty-sixth Street, will sail today on the Rotterdam. While abroad they expect to travel between various places of interest in a special plane which will meet them on their arrival on the Continent.

"BUD" FISHER LOSES SUIT.

Cartoonist Ordered to Pay Wife $250 Weekly and $10,000 Fee.

Supreme Court Justice Ford held yesterday that Harry C. (Bud) Fisher, cartoonist and racing man, must pay $250 a wee kalimony and $10,000 counsel fees to his wife, Ardita S. Fisher. The application for alimony was opposed on the ground that there was doubt concerning the validity of the marriage, and also that Mrs. Fisher's assertion that her husband beat her on the night of June 14 in his Riverside Drive apartment could not be proved.

In passing on the validity of the marriage, which occurred last October when ehe parties met on the Leviathan, Justice Ford said:

"They are married as lawfully, so far as this motion is concerned, as if the ceremony had been performed in a cathedral instead of on shipboard."

Justice Ford said that the papers on the application by Mrs. Fisher contain the usual "charges and countercharges, assertions and denials, contradictions and manifest exaggerations." He held, however, that the plaintiff has had made out a case which "affords reasonable ground for believing that she has a fair prospect of prevailing upon the trial."

To Try Seattle-San Diego Flight.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—A non-stop airplane flight from Seattle to San Diego will be attempted by navy pilots next Wednesday. Mrs. Acker was recently graduated from Heffley Institute, Brooklyn, and has taken part in amateur dramatics. Mr. Acker is a graduate of St. Paul's School, Garden City, and also attended Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H.

F. W. MURNAU IS A GUEST.

Dinner Given for German Who Made the Movie "The Last Laugh."

Frederick W. Murnau, German motion picture director, who arrived in this country on Thursday, was chief guest at a luncheon yesterday aboard the steamship Columbus. The director, who is best known in this country as the producer of "The Last Laugh," will make a picture from Sudermann's novel, "A Trip to Tilsit," for the William Fox Corporation before returning to Europe.

Mr. Murnau brought over the first finished print of "Faust," which he recently completed in Germany and which will have its world première here in September.

"I consider it symbolic that I arrived in America on the Columbus," he said, "for I have come on a voyage of discovery. It is my ambition to discover and to know the American heart so that, in case I should ever make a picture with an American setting, I will be able to do it with sympathy."

Mr. Murnau will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton next Wednesday, on the eve of his departure for California.

HOUSEKEEPER TO COOLIDGES

Former Teacher of Ipswich, Mass., Assures New England Dishes.

BOSTON, July 2 (AP).—A former school teacher who made a success as a Boston department store cafeteria manager will supervise Presidential meals at the White House hereafter and assure Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge an abundance of New England dishes.

Miss Ellen Riley of Ipswich is the woman who has been chosen for the post. Her identity became known last night after an announcement had come from Washington that Mrs. Ella Jaffrey, who has been housekeeper to four Presidents, was to retire.

The new director of the White House table and pantry is the daughter of William J. Riley, head of the Ipswich Chamber of Commerce and former Town Treasurer. She has spent the greater part of her life in this city.

ALFONSO ENTERTAINS EXILED GREEK RULERS

Former King and Queen Pass Unnoticed in London on Way to Meet Spain's Sovereign.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—The exiled King and Queen of Greece had luncheon with King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain at the Claridge Hotel here today. The former Greek rulers arrived at the hotel in an automobile without attracting any attention. In fact, none knew who they were until they announced themselves.

King George and Queen Elizabeth left Athens in 1923. They have been living in England for several months.

King Alfonso and his Queen have been kept busy since their arrival renewing old associations. Scotland Yard has found no trace of the anarchists who, it was said, might be following the Spanish sovereigns.

JERITZA WINS CIGAR SUIT.

Company Agrees to Permanent Injunction on Use of Her Name.

The suit of Maria Jeritza, the prima donna, to restrain Louis and Isadore Cohen, cigar manufacturers, from using her picture and name to indicate certain brands and sizes of cigars came to an end yesterday when the defendants consented to have the temporary injunction obtained by the singer made permanent. The decree was signed by Federal Judge Thacher. It was said the amount of damages to be awarded to the plaintiff will be arranged out of court.

The prima donna complained last March that since last December the defendants, in violation of the Civil Rights law, had used her name and the picture of a woman in fancy dress, purporting to be her picture, to advertise their wares. The plaintiff's full name is Maria Popper Podhrogy Jeritza. She is of Austrian birth and has been singing and acting on the professional stage continuously since 1910. Since 1921 she has been under contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company to sing in grand opera.

RAQUEL MELLER IN FILM.

To Appear in Photoplay Based on Life of Empress Josephine.

Raquel Meller's American tour next season will include engagements in Havana and Mexico City as well as in the principal cities of the United States, E. Ray Goetz, her manager, announced yesterday. Señorita Meller, accompanied by her entourage and Mr. Goetz, sails today on the Paris. The Spanish entertainer will return to New York about the middle of October and will appear here for four weeks. Mr. Goetz stated that he and Charlie Chaplin would form a special motion picture production company to make a film based upon the life of the Empress Josephine, in which Señorita Meller would appear. Chaplin will direct this picture, and he also may play in it, Mr. Goetz announced. After the completion of the film, work upon which is scheduled to begin in February, Señorita Meller will tour South America.

Mr. Goetz also said that he would convert the Club Mirador into a new night club, which he will open in the Fall. In Europe he expects to engage entertainers and novelties of various sorts for it.

Selwyn Sues Goetz on Contract.

A dispute between Archibald Selwyn and E. Ray Goetz, over the contract of Raquel Meller was disclosed in the Supreme Court yesterday when Selwyn sued Goetz for $3,000, alleging that $1,000 was due on June 5, $1,000 on June 12 and $1,000 on June 19. It was said that the case arose from the fact that Mr. Selwyn had the Meller contract originally, and transferred it to Goetz under an agreement by which the latter was to pay him $1,000 a week for every week that the Spanish actress performed under the contract. Mr. Goetz paid for six weeks, but contended that the plaintiff's demand for $1,000 for three additional weeks is not justified under the contract.

PARIS, July 2.—The National Union of French War Veterans today placed large pink posters on the walls of Paris asking all veterans and the public to join in a monster procession on Sunday, July 11, to the Washington Monument in a protest against the terms of the Washington debt settlement. It will be recalled that the veterans originally wished the parade to coincide with the American national holiday, but, that the Government firmly opposed such an action.

The title of the poster is "Calvary of Victors: Washington." The text in part reads as follows:

"Germany under the Dawes plan must only pay France seventeen billion gold marks. The Washington agreement obliges us to pay America twenty-seven billion gold marks. On the other hand, on the mere demand of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, the bonds remitted by France could be transformed into quoted securities and marketed in France, America and elsewhere.

"It results, therefore, that our Ambassador at Washington firstly allows France to be treated less favorably than certain allied countries, secondly allows France to be treated more rigorously than the defeated nations and thirdly allows bonds to be offered for sale on the markets.

"The veterans and war victims grouped in fourteen national bodies, and all affiliated societies cannot admit that the solidarity of the battlefield can be thus thrust aside by international finance.

"They trust that the American people and particularly our comrades at arms will not allow the future of France to be compromised by clauses which tend definitely to enslave our country, which would then face the impossibility of fulfilling such obligations."

Then follows the announcement of the parade from the Champs Elysees to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, thence to the Washington statue with the battleflags of extinct units and the memorial flags of veterans posts from all France.

July 4 meetings are to be held in each city for the appointment of delegates to march a week later.

YOUTH DEFENDED BY SOCIAL WORKERS

Restless, Not Going to Dogs, Really Interpreting New Age, Convention Delegates Agree.

OUR DRY REGIME A TOPIC

Americans Questioned Express No Anti-Prohibition Views—Miss Addams Demands Enforcement.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—The much criticized "restless youth of today" has many enthusiastic supporters among the delegates from the twelve nations attending the International Congress of Settlement Workers here. The delegates at the suggestion of Miss Jane Addams, the famous American settlement expert, departed from their program today to take up informally the problem of the rising generation and where it is going.

The general belief seemed to be that the young people are not nearly as bad as painted in the United States, Great Britain and other large countries. In fact, there were delegates who felt that the modern youth was a great deal better than those of earlier generations.

Appropriately enough, the delegates discussed American prohibition after the symposium on youth was finished. The American delegation withstood a battery of rapid-fire questions on the great American experiment from the delegates of European nations, many of whom frankly asserted that they thought prohibition a complete failure in America, judging from the perspective of Europe. While the Americans appeared divided upon the length of time during which prohibition should be tried out, not a single anti-prohibition opinion developed in the entire delegation of forty women.

Opening the discussion on "restless youth," Miss Addams said:

"We in America have been faced with a large group of young people entirely self-contained and with no respect of any kind for the older generation. They seem to live in a charmed circle. It would be interesting to know to what extent these youthful people are bored with tradition and all we have regarded as vital."

Defends Modern Youth.

Dr. Siegmund Schultze, well-known social worker of Berlin, then arose to defend modern youth, saying they were "fed up with the sticky sweetheart idea which prevailed for such a long time in the relations of the sexes." The movement in Germany for frank and open discussion of sex questions between young men and women and the general tendency toward honest relations had proved very successful, he declared.

"The war injured the whole human race," Dr. Schultze continued. "The peace is a hateful peace, and little can be expected of youth or of those of any other age until international fellowship is established among the nations. The so-called youth movement is the finest hope we have for a much needed revolutionary change in our entire social structure."

Scandinavian delegates defended youth and welcomed the frankness now existing nearly everywhere in the relations of the sexes. The conclusion of the discussion was that youth "is not going to the dogs," but merely interpreting a new age and a new philosophy with fundamentally sound principles.

Mrs. Mary Simkhovitch of New York, speaking about prohibition, said the widespread lawlessness caused by prohibition was very disturbing to those who believed in the dry régime, but nevertheless enforcement should be continued another five years. At the end of that time, Mrs. Simkhovitch said, the law should be modified unless conditions widely different from those obtaining today had been achieved.

Miss Addams For Rigid Enforcement.

Miss Addams, contributing the lengthiest remarks on prohibition, came out for the strictest enforcement.

"Although I am not a fanatical prohibitionist, my point of view is this," said Miss Addams. "We have prohibition and, despite its weakness, we know it has accomplished much good. Therefore we should try it for at least one or two more generations. The trouble is enforcement is not honest, and until you get honest enforcement you will never really have had a complete test of its effectiveness. The situation to my mind is analogous to slavery. Every one said that to free the slaves was a mistake and would not work, but look at what it eventually accomplished for the negro. How vastly better off he is today than he would be if he had remained in bondage.

"The workingman is much better off under prohibition. He has more money and lives a completer life. Despite appearances of general drinking, there is much less being done in popular places than when America was wet. Sunday disorders and trouble of all kinds due to the saloons has disappeared, and the delirium tremens wards in the hospitals are now empty. I am in favor of very rigid enforcement."

J. J. Mallon, one of the leading social workers of Great Britain, charged that America in clamping down complete prohibition was trying to "take a short cut" to a goal which can only be approached by degrees. He said America should have attacked the question by stages, the first being to see that the workingman did not get more to drink than he wanted.

Replying to Mr. Mallon, Miss Addams said that a radical step such as prohibition was America's way of doing things and was the only thing which could be done under the circumstances.

Plans Benjamin Franklin Memorial.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—A movement to erect a memorial to Benjamin Franklin in this city took definite form today when Morton Gibbons-Neff, President of the Poor Richard Club, announced that he would launch the project in the near future. Mr. Gibbons-Neff said the memorial would cost approximately $1,000,000 and that the plan was to conduct a nation-wide campaign for funds in order to give school children and patriotic societies an opportunity to contribute.

Recreation Post for Prof. Graves.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—Professor Henry S. Graves, Dean of the School of Forestry and Provost of Yale University, has just been appointed a member of a committee of the National Recreation Conference. The committee will make a study of the problems of State parks and forests in relation to municipal and Federal agencies. Mr. Graves succeeded Gifford Pinchot as National Forester.

HOLDS HAZELTINE RID RADIO OF SQUEAL

Judge Thacher's Decision Vests Inventor's Company With Full Control of Patent.

In a decision filed yesterday Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher holds that Professor Louis A. Hazeltine was the first to invent a radio receiver free of objectionable squeals. The decision further says that this long-desired result was achieved through the invention of the Hazeltine neutrodyne patents and these patents are owned by the Hazeltine Corporation and its licensees.

The finding was the result of an action begun by the Hazeltine Corporation and its licensees against the Electric Service Engineering Corporation, which was charged with infringement of two patents designed to neutralize oscillations that produced "squeals, howls and whistles."

Last Wednesday Federal Judge Inch in Brooklyn decided that the Hazeltine inventions did not infringe patents held by the Radio Corporation of America and that finding, with Judge Thacher's verdict, establishes the Hazeltine Corporation as the sole owner of the patents.

That these patents are of great value was vindicated in the proceedings by the presentation of figures showing that between April 1, 1923, and Sept. 30, 1925, royalties paid to the plaintiff amounted to $1,161,103.30 and during the three months ended Dec. 31, 1924, the royalties reached $378,730.54.

The defendant presented facts relating to many patents issued prior to those involved in the action. Special reference was made to a patent issued to Chester D. Rice and owned by the General Electric Company. Judge Thacher described the difference between the Rice and Hazeltine patents and asserted that the plaintiff had attained "permanent neutralization for all frequencies, a result never attained before and one which had, as the evidence discloses, an astounding effect upon the entire industry."

Further on the opinion reads: "Rice and Hazeltine were not very far apart, but the difference between them is the difference between success and failure."

SETS INDEPENDENCE DAY AS FALLING ON JULY 2

Prof. Jernegan Asserts Letters of John Adams Bear Out Contention.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—America asserted her independence of Great Britain on July 2 and not July 4, but the Declaration was not signed at one time by all those whose signatures appear on it, according to Professor Marcus Jernegan in a lecture at the University of Chicago today. The speaker referred to letters by John Adams and the secret journal of Congress to prove his statements. At the same time he censured historians who garbled facts.

On July 2, 1776, America adopted the resolution of Richard Henry Lee by a vote of twelve Colonies, New York not voting, Professor Jernegan asserted. The Pennsylvania Evening Post of that date said that "this day the Continental Congress declared the United Colonies free and independent States."

John Adams wrote to his wife on July 3 as follows, Professor Jernegan said:

"Yesterday the greatest question was decided which was ever debated in America, and a greater, perhaps, never was or never will be decided among men."

It was not until Aug. 2 that every one of the thirteen States signed the Declaration, Professor Jernegan continued, and the first broadside of the Declaration of Independence was printed in Philadelphia July 4, 1776, being signed only by John Hancock, President of the Congress, and Charles Thompson, Secretary.

A committee drawing up the report for the secret journal, which was not made public until 1822, made inaccurate statements ascribing the "unanimous declaration" of Aug. 2 to the date July 4, and even on Aug. 2 there were six States that had not signed the document, Professor Jernegan affirmed.

MAURETANIA'S CAPTAIN IS HONORED BY KING

Roston Is Made a K. B. E. in Delayed Birthday List—48 Other Knights Created.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—The King's Birthday honors list, publication of which was postponed owing to the general strike, was issued tonight.

Taken as a whole it is rather an uninteresting list, but there is one honor which will meet with the approval of the general public. Captain Rostron of the Mauretania has been awarded a Knight Commandership of the Order of the British Empire.

It will be recalled it was he who, as Captain of the Carpathia, was responsible for the rescue of the survivors of the Titanic in 1912.

Among the 48 new knights created are Henry Coward, conductor of the Sheffield Musical Union, Stanley Machin, President of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, John William Fortescue, historian of the British Army and John Murray, the publisher.

Five Dames Commander of the Order of the British Empire—the highest honor that can be conferred on a woman—are included in the list. Mrs. Kendal, the actress, receives this title for her services to drama and charity.

Gehring Vice President of Ansonia.

Charles E. Gehring, who has acquired an interest in the Hotel Ansonia, Broadway and Seventy-third Street, was elected yesterday Vice President and director of the company of which Edward Arlington is President. With Mr. Arlington, Mr. Gehring will enter into active participation in the management of the hotel. The Ansonia was built by the late W. E. D. Stokes at the cost of $4,000,000 and contains 1,400 rooms.

100 Bagpipers to Compete at Greenwich.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 2 (AP).—The eerie notes of 100 bagpipes will permeate the air at Round Hill on Monday, when a contest will be held at the second annual Scottish games to decide the piping championship of New England and Westchester County, N. Y.

MARCH IN LONDON FOR SUFFRAGE TODAY

British Women Will Protest Against the Laws Barring 5,000,000 From Voting.

AMERICANS WILL PARADE

Peeresses and National Women's Party Active in Staging Hyde Park Demonstrations.

LONDON, July 2 (AP).—Hyde Park, scene of the recent huge women's peace crusade, tomorrow will be the scene of a great demonstration in behalf of political equality for 5,000,000 women who are disfranchised under the present law because they have not reached the age of 30 or lack residence qualifications.

Many leaders of the National Woman's Party of the United States who have arrived in London will march in tomorrow's parade, which will begin at the Thames embankment and end at Hyde Park. Noted speakers who have long been leaders in the women's movement will talk from a score of platforms.

The recent action of the House of Lords in declining to admit peeresses in their own right to sit in the upper house has prompted several of them, including the Viscountess Rhondda, to take energetic action toward making the demonstration unusually vigorous.

Lady Rhondda has asked the American women, representing twenty States, to take a position immediately behind the six point group which is pledged especially to obtain equal economic rights for women throughout the world.

The peeresses also intend to raise the question of their right to sit in the House of Lords.

Asserting that an encouraging feature of the feminist movement of today its international aspect, Lady Rhondda said today:

"It is natural that feminists of the English-speaking countries should be especially close and an instance of this is the help the National Woman's Party is giving our demonstration in London tomorrow. The defeat of the peeresses bill is proof of the very long road we in England must travel before we will be looked upon as human beings. Lord Birkenhead and Lord Newton made speeches of such vulgarity that even their supporters have been fain to try to explain them away, but the House of Lords listened patiently."

Among the speakers for tomorrow are Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Lord and Lady Balfour of Burleigh, Lady Rhondda, Dame Millicent Fawcett and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence. Mrs. Elizabeth Gram Swing, formerly of Oregon, will be marshal of the American section of the parade and among the American women who will march are Doris Stevens of New York, Vice President of the National Woman's Party and wife of Dudley Field Malone; Miss Anita Pollitzer of South Carolina, Secretary of the Woman's Party. Miss Anne Martin of Nevada, Miss Lucy Brenham of Maryland, Miss Ruth Hudnut of Massachusetts, Miss Dorthy Russell of New York and Miss Alice Park of California.

CITY'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS GRADUATED 54,365

Board of Education's Report Shows That 56,768 Were Registered.

According to a Board of Education report made public yesterday 54,365 pupils were graduated from the public day schools of Greater New York in the term ending June 30, out of a total number of 56,768 registrants.

This includes 36,288 graduates of the elementary grades, 9,423 from junior high schools, and 8,654 from high schools.

The number of registrants and the percentage of graduates for the five boroughs was 37,853 in the elementary grades, of which 95.9 per cent. completed their course; 9,423 junior high registrants with a graduation percentage of 82.6, and 9,492 high school registrants with a graduation percentage of 91.2.

Figures for the separate boroughs in the report show that a 100 per cent. mark in graduation was attained by 33 elementary schools in Manhattan, 23 in the Bronx, 38 in Brooklyn, 40 in Queens and 10 in Richmond.

TEXTILE MILLS SHUT DOWN.

About 10,000 Rhode Island Operatives Affected by Closings.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 2 (AP).—Comparatively few looms and spindles in Rhode Island's textile mills will be in operation next week, as a result of shutdowns for periods ranging from one to four weeks announced by mill owners. About 2,000 operatives in the Pawtuxet Valley will be made idle.

The Coventry mill at Anthony will close tomorrow for four weeks. About 500 persons will be thrown out of work. The Warwick mills, employing about 1,000, will close tomorrow for a week. "Business depression" was given as the reason for the closing of these mills. The Interlaken mills at Harris closed last Saturday for ten days. The Interlaken print works will close tomorrow for a similar period. They are shutting down primarily for the overhauling of machinery.

The Natick mill of B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., has been closed for about a month and a three-days-per-week schedule is in effect in the concern's Royal, Arctic and Centreville mills.

When Rhode Island textile mills are operating on normal schedules about 55,000 operatives are employed. About 10,000 operatives are affected by the shutdowns.

Prof. Tuttle Retires at Wesleyan.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 2.—Professor Charles A. Tuttle, head of the Department of Economics and Social Science at Wesleyan University since 1913, has asked and received retirement from the Faculty as of his sixty-seventh birthday two years hence. He has been granted sabbatical leave for the college year 1927-1928. Professor Tuttle was graduated from Amherst College in 1883. He has taught at Amherst and Wabash Colleges, having been a member of the latter Faculty from 1893 to 1913, fifteen years of which he was head of the Political Economy and Political Science departments.

General Electric Student Killed.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—R. E. Porter, test student at the General Eletric Company plant, was almost instantly killed by coming in contact with a 1,250 volt collector ring of an inductor motor today. Porter came here last week from Kansas City, Mo. He is survived by a wife in Davenport, Iowa.

COURSE AT DARTMOUTH ON STUDY OF RELIGION

Dr. Joshi, an East Indian, Will Teach History, Philosophy and Characteristics of Beliefs.

HANOVER, N. H., July 2 (AP).—A new course, to be known as "comparative religion," covering the historic background, philosophical foundations and distinguishing characteristics of the great religions of the world, has been added to the Dartmouth College curriculum. In making this announcement today, President Ernest Martin Hopkins said that Dr. S. L. Joshi, a native of India and until recently a member of the Faculty of the University of Colorado, would conduct the course.

The varous theories regarding the origins of religion will be examined, and Brahmanism, Buddhism, Jainism, Zoroastrianism, Judaism, Christianity, Islamism and their varying concepts of God, religion, sin, salvation and future life, will be surveyed with the aid of the comparative method. Modern religious movements also will be considered. With the recognition of religion as a central factor in the development of human progress, the course will be planned to develop a cultural interest in the subject.

Dr. Joshi came to America from Bombay a few years ago as a Carnegie Exchange Professor and has lectured in many of the leading universities. He has combined training in the cultures of East and West, having been graduated from a Mohammedan University of India and having since studied extensively in England as well as at Columbia and Union Theological Seminary in the United States.

WEDS STUDENTS AT SEA.

Captain Cunninghame Performs First Marriage in 24 Years.

The first marriage ever performed by Captain H. A. Cunninghame of the United States liner George Washington took place on the bridge of that liner between Southampton and Cherbourg on June 23. Captain Cunninghame was persuaded to break a personal tradition of 24 years so that Theodor Braasch and Josephine Brickel, both art students of Sheboygan, Wis., could gratify their wish to be married under the American flag.

"I have been at sea more than two decades, and you are the first people I have ever married," he told the young couple. "I am not a believer in hasty marriage. Your marriage at times will be as the storm-tossed English Channel you are now crossing. Remember in times to come that a happy marriage means a happy home."

Marguerite Keo of California, a passenger, served as maid of honor, and Purser H. A. Santman was best man. The couple had the Presidential suite and a dinner was held in their honor. They disembarked at Cherbourg and will go to Heidelberg to study art.

MEMORIAL TO SCRIPPS.

Late Publisher's Daughter to Give Correggio Painting to Detroit.

Correggio's painting, "The Mystic Marriage of St. Catherine," which was disposed of for $32,000 last November in the Castiglione sale in Amsterdam, has been bought and presented to the Detroit Institute of Arts by Mrs. Anna Scripps Whitcomb, as a memorial to her father, the late James E. Scripps, publisher. The picture, according to museum officials, is one of the most important paintings by the great Italian master of chiaroscuro ever brought to the United States.

The picture is painted in oil on wood panel and is 52 inches high and 48 inches wide. The Virgin sits in the foreground with the infant, Jesus, on her knee. At her right, kneels St. Catherine, upon whose finger the infant, Jesus, is placing the mystic ring. Standing behind them are St. Joseph, St. Anne and St. John the Baptist. The background is a wooded landscape from which rises a magnificent chateau.

Mr. Cadett is here as the first Junior Fellow appointed to the American Newspaper Fellowships in memory of Walter Hines Page.

Sir Henry, Mr. Cadett and H. J. Fisher, who originated the fellowships and is Chairman of the committee directing them, spoke.

Sir James Elder, K. B. E., the present Commissioner for Australia, and Lady Elder were guests. Others were Vilhjalmir Stefansson, Frank D. Waterman, John Daniels, Edward F. Darrell, Russell Colgate and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Chipman.

MELLON WILL VISIT PARIS.

Secretary Plans Trip to Europe to See His Daughter.

PARIS, July 2 (AP).—Secretary Mellon is expected to visit Paris soon, on the way to Italy, where his daughter is staying.

To forestall any deduction in European circles that he is coming on international financial business, it has been made clear in American quarters in Paris that his trip is a purely personal and family matter.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Secretary Mellon expects to go to Europe during the Summer, it was said today at the Treasury, but a definite date has not been determined.

At the time of the wedding of his daughter, Miss Ailsa Mellon, to Robert K. E. Bruce the Secretary made known his purpose to visit them in Rome, where Mr. Bruce is a Vice Consul.

RABBINICAL BODY ELECTS.

The Rev. Max Drob of New York Is Again Chosen as President.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 2.—The Rev. Max Drob of New York was reelected President of the Rabbinical Assembly at its closing session at the Scarsboro Hotel today. Other officers elected were: The Rev. S. Louis Finkelstein of New York, Vice President; Max Arz of Scranton, Treasurer; Max M. Davidson of Asbury Park, Recording Secretary, and Abraham Bernstein of New York, Corresponding Secretary.

The assembly voted against compulsory military training in schools. An appropriation was voted for a field secretary and for the organization of an adult study circle.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO CHURCHGOERS

Lutherland, Conference Camp in Pocono Mountains, Will Be Opened Tomorrow.

150 Have Enrolled for the Sixth Annual Session in Union Theological Seminary.

Lutherland, in the Pocono Mountains, the newly acquired conference and camp resort of Lutheran churches of the Metropolitan District belonging to the Missouri Lutheran Synod, will be formally opened tomorrow and Monday. Tomorrow the Rev. H. H. Gallman, Lutheran city missionary, will deliver a message at patriotic exercises in the auditorium of the camp. On Monday local Lutherans will leave Hoboken at 9 o'clock in special trains for the camp where the Rev. George F. Schmidt, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Manhattan, will induct the Rev. August F. Brunn, formerly pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Newark, as camp director. Lutherland consists of 1,300 acres, near Stroudsburg, Pa., not far from the Delaware Water Gap. Twenty-nine buildings are on the property.

More than 250 members of metropolitan parishes, which are affiliated with the United Lutheran Church in America, have made reservations for a sesquicentennial motor bus excursion to Paradise Falls, Pa., on Monday. Laymen and pastors of this city and Philadelphia organized the Paradise Falls Lutheran Association two years ago, purchasing several tracts of land in the Pocono Mountains. The permanent colony last Summer numbered 300.

More than 150 clergymen, representing many denominations and from all parts of the country have enrolled for the sixth annual conference for ministers and religious workers, which will open at Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street, on Monday evening. The opening address will be by Professor Frederick John Foakes-Jackson. The conference will continue ten days.

The Rev. Dr. Herman Brezing, pastor of Zion's Church, Niagara Falls, has succeeded the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Bosch, pastor of St. Paul's Church, West 123d Street, as President of the New York Lutheran Ministerium, which has a membership of 165 ministers and an equal number of churches. The Rev. Thodore O. Posselt, pastor of St. John's Church, Albany, has succeeded the Rev. H. C. Wasmund, pastor at Middle Village, L. I., as Vice President. These elections took place at the recent annual meeting in Meriden, Conn. The vote on the proposed merger with the Lutheran Synod of New York and the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England was postponed for a year.

The Five Points Mission, 69 Madison Street, sent its first fresh-air party of the season last Thursday to its home at Cornwall-on-Hudson. The party comprised sixty children and fifteen mothers. The project is under the direction of the Rev. Dr. George W. Grinton, the new Superintendent.

The Rev. Theodore George Hartwig, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Atonement, 15 Hamilton Terrace, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Hartwick Seminary, the oldest Lutheran institution in America, at its recent commencement.

The Rev. Dr. Edward S. Emett, pastor of the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway near Seventy-sixth Street, will sail today for England to be gone until the last of September. He will visit and preach in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany and Switzerland.

The Rev. Dr. J. A. Weyl, for the past thirty years pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Seventy-first Street west of Broadway, has been elected a director of the American Tract Society.

The Rev. Francis E. Richey, rector for the last seven years of St. George's Episcopal Church, Maplewood, N. J., observed recently the silver jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood.

The Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, with his wife and two young daughters, has gone to Lake George for the Summer.

The Rev. Dr. William Carter, pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, and his wife and two sons have taken a house in Morristown, N. J., for the Summer.

The sand gardens which have been maintained for little children on the grounds of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 318 West Eighty-eighth Street, were reopened for the Summer last Thursday.

FAKE RAID CHARGED BY LAWYER'S WIFE

Mrs. Axtell, Who Is Suing for Separation, Says She Was Carried Into Man's Room.

EIGHT PERSONS ACCUSED

Three Here Waive Extradition to Face Trial With Others in Atlantic City.

A new development in the marital differences between Silas Blake Axtell, admiralty lawyer, of this city, and his wife, the former Madeline Pross, stage and screen actress, was revealed yesterday when John A. Lydecker, his wife, Marion, sister of the lawyer, and their chauffeur, Garrett Vandestay, were taken to Atlantic City by two detectives to face four indictments charging them and five others with assault on Mrs. Axtell and a man, in the new Seacrest Hotel there early on June 6.

Carl DeMicke, a friend of Mrs. Axtell, joined in the complaint to the Atlantic City Grand Jury that the Lydeckers, the chauffeur and five private detectives, one of them a woman, attacked them in the hotel in a raid on Mrs. Axtell's room. Pistols were alleged to have been brandished by some of the invaders, and it was charged that $150 belonging to Mrs. Axtell disappeared during the raid.

Mrs. Axtell charged that she was carried into the room next to hers by the raiders, which chanced to be occupied by DeMicke. She denied the statements of her husband's counsel, Charles A. Ellis, who represented the Lydeckers, that DeMicke was in her room when the raid was made.

Mr. Ellis admitted the invasion, but denied that Mrs. Axtell and DeMicke were attacked or that any money was stolen. He said no charges of the kind were made, when the hotel management called in a policeman. Harry E. Shirk, counsel for Mrs. Axtell, explained that DeMicke's presence in the adjoining room was a coincidence. He had been unable to obtain accommodation in other hotels, he said.

All these statements were made when the Lydeckers and their chauffeur appeared in the District Attorney's office here and agreed to return with Detectives Dougherty and Kaskel of the Atlantic City police, without the formality of extradition. Mrs. Axtell said that during the attack on her somebody struck her in the face and "pushed my teeth through my tongue."

The Axtells were married in 1920. In the early part of 1924 an assault charge made by Mrs. Axtell against her husband was dismissed in the Harlem Court. Subsequently she brought an action for separation in the Supreme Court. Axtell in May, 1925, brought an action for annulment in Washington County, which was transferred to this county. Both cases are still pending. Axtell is in Europe.

JUDGES CRITICIZED BY M'LAUGHLIN

Attorneys seem to think they should not believe a police officer. Yet there are some Judges on the bench today who could not qualify as patrolmen because of their past records."

Mr. McLaughlin briefly mentioned "social and political influences" and then said that some probation and parole officers received too much consideration from Judges and that the criminal should be made to "stand on his own," should be ably prosecuted and receive a heavy sentence upon conviction.

"There is a sad lack of cooperation and coordination between our men and officials in prisons—the Tombs and Sing Sing, for instance. They seem to be opposed to us. The criminal wins their affection and the policeman is not wanted there."

"Study the Magistrates' Courts," resumed Mr. McLaughlin. "Why have we forty-eight of them scattered all over the city? They should be consolidated.

"How could we cooperate better? Subordinate our personal desire for publicity, have more conferences, let it get in the criminal's mind that he can obtain help from no direction. We must also have cooperation from the Bar Association. Why should any lawyer be interested in a gang of known criminals?

Lawes Defends His System.

Warden Lawes favored indeterminate sentences and a "full time parole board appoined by the Supreme Court or some such body." He said that Judges "all over the State" could not tell how long an individual should be in prison when they considered the crime and not the individual himself.

"Nobody at Sing Sing favors coddling the criminal," said the Warden, "but we do favor intelligent action. Your gunman is hired by gamblers and also by strike breakers and big manufacturers. The gunman would not exist unless there was something in it for him.

"The inequality of sentences imposed is one great cause of discontent and revengeful attitudes among prisoners. We are now releasing men who, we know, will return to crime. But you hear only of the failures, of the one released man who sticks up a crowd, not of the four who go straight.

"The last show we had in Sing Sing was in February, 1925. We have moving pictures for first grade men, men against whom there is no complaint, and we have baseball on Saturdays and Sundays. If you keep a man locked up in a cell you destroy all that goes to make up a human being. You can't put him away in a human filing cabinet. We are not running an orphan asylum. Our discipline is severer than it was fifteen years ago.

"The way to determine what prisoners should never get out of prison is not at their trials, but later. The remedy for crime is the certainty of detection and punishment. Revolvers are the chief cause."

Baseball, he said, kept the prisoner's mind "in the open" and away from crime. He argued that the prisoner should always have a chance for a little initiative.

"Is it not true that criminals have a better time in Sing Sing than out?" asked Mr. Esmond.

"No," replied the Warden. "Only the pleasant, frothy things at Sing Sing are presented to the public. The really shrewd criminals are not in prison. They are outside, and I mean just what I say, Mr. Esmond."

Warden Lawes said it was not possible to keep the sixteen-year-old prisoners segregated at all times because of housing conditions. William Lewis Butcher of the Crime Commission then asked if the youthful criminals did not have two or three contacts daily with hardened criminals.

"Yes," answered the Warden, "and it may do them good. Such contacts are not always what you think. Contacts with other youthful criminals are often worse. The older man has learned something."

State Senator William L. Love, who inspected the prisons in the State and reported his findings to the Legislature, said the prisons, except Comstock, were "antediluvian." He declared that modern cell blocks, sunshine and proper recreation were needed.

"I believe in moving pictures and baseball for prisoners," said Senator Love. "The prisoners do not want coddling. They want equality of sentences. Some get a year for stealing an automobile in one locality and from three to five years for the same crime in another locality. We need a conference of judicial officers to determine upon equable sentences. I favor a trained psychologist examining all these men. Much crime is predicated upon ill health."

Others Offer Suggestions.

Lawson Purdy of the Charity Organization Society said the parole system should be as well organized as the probation system. He was followed by Miss Frances Taussig of the Jewish Social Service Association, who offered that organization's cooperation. Edward R. Cass, Secretary of the Prison Association of New York, declared that not only our alien population but the "whole country" had gone "liberty mad."

Mr. Cass questioned the advisability of courts speeding up, rather than taking longer for a "steady utilization of the maximum of the court machinery. He suggested a study of unequal sentences for similar crimes and urged a reorganization of the county jail system. He also pleaded for a complete reorganization of the parole work.

District Attorney Elvin M. Edwards of Nassau County, L. I., suggested that District Attorneys have control of the criminal calendars and that there be a "central supervision over District Attorneys' offices throughout the State to see whether indictments were promptly tried."

"In Nassau County," said Mr. Edwards, "we have issued 4,000 pistol permits, yet I know of no opportunity any citizen has had to use one in his own defense. I do know of a case wherein the murder and suicide of two fine and useful people would have been avoided had there been no revolver."

District Attorney Banton offered the cooperation of his office in any way the commission could use it. He said the recent bail laws had operated successfully and the efficiency of the criminal law had been increased thereby. He called both the Penal law and the Code of Criminal Procedure "archaic."

Dr. Walter N. Thayer, Superintendent of the Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch, said there should be no "petty" larceny and "attempted" burglary.

Charles R. Chute, Secretary of the National Probation Association; Henry S. Williams of Brooklyn, a reformed ex-convict known as the "Mark Twain Burglar" because he once attempted to rob Mark Twain's home; Dr. Khan of Brooklyn Hospital, Captain George P. Dutton, Deputy Superintendent of the State Police, and Howard C. Barber, Secretary and Superintendent of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, also spoke.

The commission will meet again in some other city upon a date not yet announced.

TO FIGHT EXTRADITION.

Thorne and Elliott, Accused of Attacking Actress, Held Without Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, July 2.—Philip Elliott and Richard Thorne of New York, were remanded to the Bordeaux Jail without bail today after their counsel had announced before Judge F. X. Choquet, Extradition Commissioner, that they intended to fight extradition to the United States to face trial on an indictment charging them with an attack on Violet Anderson, an actress.

On the announcement that the pair would combat extradition the Judge adjourned the case until next Friday with the understanding that if the extradition papers did not reach here by that time he would postpone it again. District Attorney Rowland of Westchester County, N. Y., where the indictment was found, told the local authorities that he would do everything in his power to expedite the transmission of the papers.

The proceedings today were heard in chambers again and all newspaper men were barred.

Cecil B. De Mille's melodrama, "The Volga Boatman," will adorn the Brooklyn Strand screen.

AUTOS KILL ONE GIRL AND INJURE ANOTHER

Brooklyn Man, Hit by Taxi, Dies—Motorcycle Patrolman Thrown From Machine by Car.

Crossing First Place and South Street, Brooklyn, yesterday in a stream of traffic, Faye Riccio, 7 years old, of 122 First Place, was killed by an automobile. John Anders of 648 Sixty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, the driver, was arrested.

Elizabeth De Angelo, 5 years old, of 183 Hester Street, was removed in a critical condition to Bellevue Hospital in the late afternoon with her skull possibly fractured and internal injuries after she was struck by an automobile in front of her home. The car was being driven by Angelo Gazzetta of 649 Forty-ninth Street, Brooklyn.

Franarro Iringali, 55 years old, of 505 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, was killed by a taxicab last night at Eleventh Avenue and Seventeenth Street. The driver, Harry Melafusky of 1,161 Sherman Avenue, the Bronx, was arrested.

Motorcycle Patrolman William Greenley was severely injured last night when he was thrown from his machine by an automobile operated by Charles Mielhaluke of 183 Avenue C. Greenley was removed to Bellevue Hospital. Mielhaluke was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Woman Killed by Train.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 2.—Struck by a train on the Long Branch division of the Central Railroad of New Jersey today, Mrs. Catherine Wojtowcz, 50 years old, of 311 Franklin Street, was so badly injured that she died in the General Hospital this afternoon. She was walking along the tracks between Fulton and East Jersey Streets and when a freight train passed she stepped to the outside tracks in the path of a New York express train.

The CONFESSIONS OF A CABINET MEMBER

An amazing disclosure of political graft and chicanery in the high places of government at Washington—and how Cabinet Officers are virtually forced to obey the selfish demands of politicians, including senators and other high officials.

MUSSOLINI

Borotra Beats Kinsey, but Miss Ryan and Miss Browne Capture Title

U. S. WOMEN CAPTURE TITLE AT WIMBLEDON

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mary K. Browne won the ladies' doubles championship here this afternoon. Otherwise, however, it was a black day for America. Howard Kinsey was beaten in the final of the men's singles in three sets by Jean Borotra of France.

Vincent Richards and Miss Ryan were defeated in the mixed doubles by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Goldfree of England, who tomorrow will dispute the final with Kinsey and Miss Browne.

America to date has won one championship, has been represented in the final of another and has reached the final of two more. Richards and Kinsey are still unbeaten in the men's doubles and tomorrow will meet Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of France, who defeated Baron von Kehrling and C. Van Lennep today to become finalists.

Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Miss Evelyn Colyer, who had given Miss Ryan and Miss Browne a hard fight in the Wightman Cup matches, went down today with scarcely a struggle before the beautifully coordinated volleying attack of the American pair. Miss Ryan, not showing a sign of yesterday's injury to her eye—she was struck by a ball from J. B. Gilbert's racquet—played as usual.

Miss Ryan the Star.

Miss Ryan was in one of her accurate moods and her volleying and smashing were decisive. So, for that matter, were Miss Browne's.

The only game won by the English pair in the first set was the fourth, which was secured on Miss Colyer's service. The English girl was decisive overhead but her ground strokes were unsteady, while Mrs. Godfree was also less accurate than usual.

With Miss Ryan killing everything in the air and picking up everything off the ground, the Americans had little difficulty in taking the set. In fact, only one game went to deuce.

The second set was also in the nature of a procession. The English pair won just one game again and it came on Mrs. Godfree's service. Miss Browne, incidentally, gave her best in this set.

Borotra's defeat of Kinsey in straight sets, 8—6, 6—1, 6—3, proved once again that cuts and spins even from the racquet of a master of such arts will never beat a volleyer whose ground strokes, if plain, are sound. It was a battle today of rapier against broadsword and dagger combined.

Kinsey Seems a Student.

Kinsey, sober and spectacled, looked as though he had reduced tennis to a pure theory and had studied it over the midnight oil. Borotra seemed to have learned his from lightning or the north wind and to have taken lessons on footwork from a mountain goat.

Borotra demonstrated, incidentally, how his ground strokes have gained in accuracy this year. He played and won the first set largely from the baseline. Kinsey made the ball do everything a ball could do and with the aid of beautiful lobs to the baseline and lightning passing shots when Borotra tested the safety of the net position, he secured a lead of 2 to 1 with his service to follow. He dropped his service, however, and Borota, with powerful deliveries, won his at love.

The games went to 6—all, but the Frenchman put on a burst of speed and took the next two. In the second set the American got only one game, but did better at the beginning of the third. Borotra, playing light-heartedly, allowed him to take the first two games and to have a 40—15 chance to gain a lead of 3—0. Kinsey, however, lost the game.

Then a fly flew into Borotra's eye and he amused the crowd by scaling the umpire's perch to have the official remove it. He won that game and after Kinsey had taken the next to lead at 3—2, the Frenchman annexed four in a row for the set and the match.

The Anglo-American mixed doubles match was close and exciting. The American pair found their stride quickly and broke through Mrs. Godfree's service in the second game and acquired a 3-0 lead. It looked as though America were to repeat the ladies' doubles match, but Mrs. Godfree stemmed the tide of victory by winning her service.

Richards followed suit, but the English pair then tightened up. Mrs. Godfree, who had been uncertain, steadied, and her husband who had been steady, became brilliant. He won his service and was largely instrumental in winning Miss Ryan's.

Mrs. Godfree then profited by a succession of errors by the American pair and the set went to the British players who closed it with a series of liant volleys.

American Ambassador Present.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2 (AP).—It was as big a crowd as the Wimbledom stadium could hold that saw the main event of the day between Borotra and Kinsey. It included English nobility and a particularly strong diplomatic contingent. Alanson B. Houghton, the American Ambassador, was among the spectators.

The Wimbledon fireworks will end tomorrow with the finals in the women's singles between Mrs. Godfree and the Spanish champion, Señorita Lili de Alvarez, and the men's and mixed doubles. In the men's doubles it will be a French pair opposing Richards and Kinsey, as Cochet and Brugnon beat Van Lennep of Holland and von Kehrling, Hungary, in the semi-final today.

CHANDLER REACHES COLLEGE NET FINAL

Champion Puts Out Van Ryn of Princeton, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2—To Play Holman.

ALSO SCORES IN DOUBLES

He and Stow Eliminate Oklahoma Team While Harvard Men Lose to Holman and Ogden.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVERFORD, Pa., July 2.—The final of the national intercollegiate tennis championship has become another of those monopolies of the Tilden-Johnston variety. For the second successive year Edward Chandler of the University of California and Cranston Holman will meet in the final round of the tournament at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon on the grass courts of the Merion Cricket Club.

Chandler, the titleholder, gained his final bracket this afternoon, defeating John Van Ryn of Princeton in a drab one-sided match at 6—4, 6—4, 6—2. Holman, who lost to his fellow-Californian in the concluding round last year, had advanced on Thursday at the expense of Neil Sullivan of Lehigh.

The doubles crown also will remain in the Far West for another year, for California and Stanford will fight it out in the final of this tournament, too, with Holman and Chandler again on the opposite sides of the net.

Harvard Men Beaten.

The last representatives of the East passed out of the play when Holman and Lionel Ogden of Stanford defeated John F. W. Whitbeck and L. H. Gordo nof Harvard, 6—0, 6—2, 6—4, in the first semi-final. Chandler and Tom Stow of California then went on the court to make it a perfect day for their native State by triumphing over Dick Mason and Fred Royer of Oklahoma, 6—2, 6—2, 6—4.

It is a sad commentary on the decline of Eastern prestige in college tennis that the finals of the two tournaments should find this section of the country without a representative. Until 1921 neither the singles nor doubles title had ever been won by a Western college. Since that year, when Philip Neer of Stanford broke through, the singles crown has gone West three times and the doubles championship four times, Texas capturing it in 1923 and 1924.

Of the match today between Chandler and Van Ryn little need be said. The sultry weather and the excessive humidity were sufficient to curb the ardor of the most ambitious player, and though the play was a big disappointment to the gallery after the stirring engagements of the preceding round it was easy enough to condone the participants for the inferior exhibition.

Chandler's control was never airtight at any time during the match and the regularity with which he erred in returning Van Ryn's high-geared service, which was not the easiest in the world to handle, raised disturbing questions in the minds of his proponents as to how successfully he can handle the heavy artillery of Holman. But while the champion might have been grievously at fault at times in his stroking, his court tactics were always commendable. Van Ryn found himself "taken out" of the play with all the finality of an end smothered by the most destructive interference.

Chandler Ties Score.

In the opening set Chandler tied the score at 3—all, fell behind at 4—3, and then took the three next games. In the second set Van Ryn led at 2—1 and Chandler ran four games in a row, faltering in the next two before getting his sixth. In the final set it was simply a procession for the Californian. There was hardly an exciting moment in the entire fifty-three minutes of play. The errors were far in preponderance to the earned points and only at long intervals did a rally develop to enthuse the gallery.

In the final set Chandler's service began and ended the rally. In the first three games he served in this chapter Van Ryn succeeded in getting the ball back safely only six times. Almost every serve was either an ace or an invitation to err that was accepted with monotonous regularity.

Both Chandler and Holman have their stanch adherents on the eve of their struggle of tomorrow. Early in the tournament the titleholder looked to be in much the better form, but Holman has since made big strides, and the prospect is that the match will be even more closely fought than was last year's, which went to four sets.

Should the Californian retain his title he will be the first player to win the championship in successive years since 1895, when M. G. Chase of Yale triumphed for the third time in a row.

WASHBURN BLAZES TRAIL TO NET FINAL

Flashes Old-Time Form to Put Out Lang, 8-6, 2-6, 6-1, in Nassau Club Play.

WILL FACE WHITE FOR TITLE

Youthful Texan Surprises Dr. King and Wins Way to Last Round Today—Also Scores in Doubles.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 2.—Watson M. Washburn will face Lewis N. White, the young Texan, tomorrow in the final round of the invitation lawn tennis tournament here at the Nassau Country Club.

Washburn earned his way to the final bracket with the best tennis that he has displayed in the past few seasons, and he reminded one of the Washburn of old. In defeating Jerry Lang in three hard-fought sets, 8—6, 2—6, 6—1, he played the most sensational tennis seen thus far in the tournament.

The former Columbia captain, who put out Hunter Thursday, was in his usual good stroke, but he could not withstand the power and brilliancy of his opponent. Washburn not only played his usual excellent back-court game, but was so active at the net that Lang could rarely pass him.

Washburn Rallies Strongly.

With the score at two-all in the first set, Lang ran off three straight games and seemed a certain victor, but Washburn rallied strongly to even the count. Lang flashed some brilliant tennis to break through Washburn's service and win the eleventh game at love, but Washburn, forcing the net again, ran off three games to win the set.

Lang forced the pace in the second chapter and with the count 3—2 in games he ran out the set. The third set was fiercly contested, every game going to deuce, but Washburn never let up, setting a burning pace to win, 6—1.

Lewis N. White, former University of Texas star, sprang an upset in defeating Dr. George King in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3. King, who is ranked number two in metropolitan circles, was no match for White, whose furious driving and brilliant overhead game have featured the tournament. White came from behind in the first set to knot the score at 3—all, and then broke through King's service, to run out the set.

King Makes It 3-All.

In the second, King came from behind to make it 3—all, but White, with his lightning strokes, was the master, maintaining his furious pace until the end.

White figured in another triumph, for he and Louis Thalheimer, who won the intercollegiate doubles title together two years in a row, eliminated Francis T. Hunter and King in the semi-finals of the doubles. The scores were 6—4, 6—4.

The summaries:

Singles, Semi Finals—Watson M. Washburn defeated Jerry Lang, 8—6, 2—6, 6—1; Lewis N. White defeated Dr. George King, 6—3, 6—3.

Doubles, Third Round—S. Howard Voshell and Fred C. Baggs defeated Jack Wright and E. M. Feibleman, 6—3, 6—4; Wallace Johnson and Hall defeated Poland and Phippe, 6—1, 7—5; Francis T. Hunter and Dr. George King defeated Fitch and Coleman, 6—2, 6—2.

Semi Finals—Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer defeated Francis T. Hunter and Dr. George King, 6—4, 6—4.

LOTT CONQUERS NORTON.

Enters Illinois Tennis Semi-Finals—Chapin and Brown Win.

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP).—George Lott Jr., eleventh ranking tennis player in the United States, beat Brian I. C. Norton of San Antonio, ninth ranking star, to enter the semi-finals of the Illinois State men's singles today, 8—6, 6—1.

A. H. Chapin Jr. gained the semi-finals, defeating A. L. Gree of Chicago, 6—2, 6—4. Wray Brown of St. Louis beat Luke Williams of Chicago, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2. Art Shaw survived over Al Carrier, 6—0, 6—3.

Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin will meet Marian Leighton, Chicago, for the women's championship. Mrs. Chapin won from Clara Zinke of Cincinnati, 6—4, 6—4, but Miss Leighton beat Mrs. Ruth Riese of Saginaw, Mich., 6—3, 6—3.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, beat John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., to enter the junior finals, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4. Bell will meet Emmet Pare, local star, for the title tomorrow.

Warren F. Coen of Kansas City won the boys' championship, defeating John Sheldon of Chicago in the final, 6—1, 6—4.

The biggest upset of the tournament came in the quarter finals of the men's doubles when Lott and Williams seeded No. 1 lost to Art Kaiser and Guerdon Hamilton, a pair of local unknowns, 3—6, 7—5, 6—1.

Illinois Plans Charity Levy On All Bouts to End Benefits

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—The lightweight title match between Rocky Kansas and Sammy Mandell here tomorrow afternoon will be the last benefit bout in Illinois if the Illinois Boxing Commission, adopts a measure now being considered. The commission plans to invite fight promoters voluntarily to set aside 2 per cent. of the proceeds from each show to be applied to a charity fund which will be distributed by the commission.

BERESFORD SCORES IN DIAMOND SCULLS

Holder of Trophy Beats Collett and Will Row Goddard in Final Today.

LEANDER EIGHT IS VICTOR

Champions Triumph in Semi-Final and Will Meet Lady Margaret College for Trophy.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 2 (AP).—Two champions of last year's Henley will defend their titles in the final tomorrow for the Diamond Sculls and the Grand Challenge Cup.

The Diamond Sculls finalists are Jack Beresford Jr., Thames Club, titleholder, and G. Goddard, Jesus College, Oxford. Lady Margaret College, Cambridge, and Leanders will battle for the Grand Challenge Cup.

In the Diamond Sculls semi-finals this afternoon Beresford eliminated T. Collett, Pembroke College, Cambridge, easily in the time of 8 minutes 37 seconds. Goddard eliminated E. W. Howell, the Eton schoolmaster, who won the Sculls in 1912. Goddard's time was 8 minutes 49 seconds. He finished one and a quarter lengths ahead of Howell.

In the Grand Challenge Cup semi-finals Leanders defeated the Thames Club by a half length in 6 minutes 59 seconds. Lady Margaret defeated the London Rowing Club by three-quarters of a length in 7 minutes 4 seconds.

STATE JUNIOR TITLE TO WOOD AND BLAUER

14-Year Old Lads Upset Smith and McCauliff in 5 Sets for Clay Court Honors.

Two boys, 14 years old, Sidney Wood Jr. and Harold Blauer, were the causes of a sensational upset yesterday in the State junior clay court tournament at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, when they captured the final from the strong junior team of Everett Smith, Columbia Grammar School star, and Eugene McCauliff, Fordham captain, in five brilliant sets, 7—5, 6—4, 4—6, 2—6, 6—2.

Neither Wood nor Blauer has graduated from the boys' class, and they accomplished an impressive feat in setting back one of the strongest junior teams in the metropolitan area.

Wood, a mite of a lad, was the shining light on the court, and it was his play that gave the victory to the boys. Playing the same kind of a game as William Johnson, to whom he might be compared, he was a master in the forecourt. Time and again he shot drives down the alley which neither of his opponents could reach.

Wood and Blauer ran off the first two sets, forcing the pace all the way. Both teams were fighting hard and bringing off dazzling overhead shots and volleys. Smith and McCauliff gained the next two sets to even the count, largely because Wood tired badly, and it was Blauer who was forced to cover most of the court. Smith's service was working beautifully.

In the final set Wood made a remarkable recovery and simply plowed a furrow along the side lines with his smashing drives and his many kills, McCauliff weakening badly.

GREY DAWN FIRST IN RACE ON SOUND

Leads Larchmont O Class, Beating Nimbus and Mirage in American Y. C. Regatta.

AMORITA LEADS THIRTIES

Ardelle Squeezes Home 15 Seconds Ahead of Astrild in Light Winds—88 Craft in the Fleet.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., July 2.—A fine racing fleet of 88 boats came out today to sail for the prizes offered in the annual regatta of the American Yacht Club, but light and puffy winds from the eastward marred the sport to some extent and made luck a factor in the results. For the most of the afternoon the Sound was a mill-pond surface, gray and glassy, rippled at times by the freakish Easterly airs.

The largest vessels to start were the Larchmont, O. boats, which sailed a triangular course of 17½ miles, the winner being former Commodore Philip Johnson's Grey Dawn, which was favored by better slants of wind than Nimbus and Mirage, the other starters in the class, and reached across the finish line over six minutes ahead of Nimbus.

A remarkably fine group of New York Yacht Club thirty footers was under sail, an even dozen of these famous yachts crossing the line with Howard C. Brokaw's Amorita, winning her first race for her new owner. By a freak of the breeze the thirties split into two divisions and Amorita, Blue Moon, Alera and Atair, holding out in the Sound, carried a much better breeze and led the rest of the class home by a big margin.

A record fleet of the new Sound interclub sloops came out to race, eighteen crossing the line, with M. H. Haythes's Popper the winner and Aileen, owned by J. B. Dunbaugh and sailed by Corny Shields, second. This is rapidly developing into one of the keenest racing classes on the Sound and will have twenty-eight boats when the fleet is complete. By her victory Poppy captured the prize offered by Frank C. Munson for this division.

Other Prizes Offered.

Other special prizes offered were a trophy for the New York thirties, presented by Rear Commodore George Gibbons; a prize for the R Class, by James E. Hayes; John B. Shethar, for the Six Meters; Ralph Crow, for the Victories, and H. DeB. Parsons, for the Wee Scots. As the New York Yacht Club forty footers are at Marblehead the John P. Cutler Memorial Cup was not raced for.

The starting line was established off Scotch Caps, outside Milton Point, the Race Committee, headed by H. de B. Parsons, being on board Vice Commodore Ogden Reid's power yacht Porpoise. Mr. Parsons was assisted by William Remsen, John Shethar and Roger Sherman.

Because of the light and uncertain breeze the start was postponed for fifteen minutes and the first class, the symmetric O boats, did not cross until 2:20. Nimbus, sailed by E. P. Alker, played the start well and was almost on the line, moving on the port tack, when the signal was made. Grey Dawn and Mirage, reaching along on the starboard tack, had a strong flood tide abeam and drifted slowly across.

With this break of luck it looked as if Nimbus could not lose. While the breeze was north of east the O boats had a beat to Parsonage Point Buoy on the Westchester shore, a reach across the Sound to Oak Neck on the Long Island side and a reach back to the committee boat. Nimbus, away winging, so to speak, led to the Parsonage Point mark, but then the breaks went against her and Grey Dawn, picking up some favoring slants, went on to an easy victory.

Thirties Cross in a Cluster.

At the start the thirty-footers crossed in a cluster, with most of the dozen sloops at the leeward end of the line near the Scotch Cups buoy. Amorita, the eventual winner, had the best of the start, being clear of the following fleet and moving out quickly ahead of Banzai, Oriole, Nautilus and Alera. Atair, Silhouette, Minx, Lena, Blue Moon and Narcissus were further toward the centre of the line and crossed in that order.

All were on the port tack, but soon after starting the fleet split into two divisions, many of the yachts holding in shore, but Amorita and the other leaders keeping on out into the Sound, where they held the breeze better. Amorita was the lucky one of the class in finding the wind and won by over three minutes from Blue Moon.

With only a drifting breeze prevailing the eight sloops in the R class were strung out at the start, with Commodore P. R. Mallory's Quiver, a clever boat in light airs, leading the procession, and Vice Commodore C. D. Mallory's Barbara in second place. Ardelle, sailed by Donald Cowl, was far back at this time, but also ran into some favoring flurries of breeze going around the twelve-mile triangle, squeezing home fifteen seconds ahead of H. Wilmer Hanan's Astrild, with R. B. Meyers's Bob Kat third.

Dauphin, the Gardner-designed six-meter, was the winner in that class, and Ernest Ratsey, sailing Trex, hung up another victory in the star class.

RESOLUTE TAKES VANDERBILT CUP

Leads Nokomis by 17 minutes Over 148 Miles to Lift Yachting Trophy.

SHAWARA ALSO IS VICTOR

Finishes Almost an Hour Ahead of Andiamo in Contest for the Stewart Prize.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 2.—In a 148-mile race round Cape Cod, from Newport, which, because of unusually light airs, was anybody's up to within a few miles of the finish, the schooner Resolute scored her first victory under her new rig by capturing the Vanderbilt Gold Cup. Her margin over the little Seawanhaka schooner Nokomis was only seventeen minutes. The New York forty footer Shawara won the Stewart Cup for sloops by nearly an hour from the fifty footer Andiamo.

At Peakedhill Bar buoy, less than forty miles from the finish, the Flying Cloud had the race well in hand but her navigator laid a course that took the Aldrich yacht almost into Gloucester instead of this port. She finished an hour and 46 minutes after Resolute and lost by 27 minutes on corrected time.

The Seven-Seas also had a chance for first place but the wind left her in the middle of Massachusetts Bay and played the same trick on the forty footer, Typhoon.

Waters Are Very Smooth.

It is years since grim old Cape Cod has shown so placid a countenance, nor have tempesteous Nantucket Shoals been found quite so smooth as when the fleet of nine boats, which started from Newport shortly after midnight Thursday went over them late yesterday afternoon. The race was slow from the start, for it took the entire fleet more than eight hours to get into Vineyard Sound. There the yachts flapped about in stray whiffs and bucked stiff tides for many hours.

The great sheets of canvas of the Resolute were of no more use than the handkerchiefs on the Seawanhakas. Two of the little yachts gained miles on the big ones by running half the length of Buzzards Bay.

At Cross Rip Lightship, the entire fleet was closely bunched and in going through Pollock Rip Slue, the Flying Cloud was ahead of the Resolute.

Running down the back side of the cape early this morning, the Resolute tried in vain to pass the Aldrich boat, which was minutes behind in passing Highland Light and was a beaten boat at Peakedhill Bar.

With the light air abeam, Flying Cloud headed almost due north instead of north-northwest, and when she fetched up she had Eastern Point instead of Half Way Rock, the finish, dead ahead. It was too late to retrieve the error and the cup went to the Clark yacht.

Gain Cups Outright.

The winners gain permanent possession of the trophies, according to Captain Vanderbilt and Captain Stewart, who arrived during the day. The fleet in Marblehead Harbor tonight was one of the largest in size in many years.

The Vanity came in from Newport by way of the Cape Cod Canal during the afternoon, accompanied by the Whileaway, and it was announced that she would be sailed tomorrow by her owner, Harry Payne Whitney, owing to a slight illness of Skipper Robert W. Emmons. Mr. Whitney sailed the fifty-footer Barbara some years ago with considerable success.

JUNIOR TRACK STARS IN U. S. MEET TODAY

National A. A. U. Championships Start at Philadelphia—Senior Events on Monday.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Crack athletes from all corners of the United States will compete at the Municipal Stadium tomorrow and Monday in the junior and senior National A. A. U. championships. The juniors will occupy the arena tomorrow, while the senior events will be run off Monday. Big crowds are expected to attend as no admission will be charged.

On the large list of entries are four European champions. They are Lewden and Wiriath of France, runners; Stan Peterson, Swedish hurdler, and Ove Anderson, Finnish half-miler.

Practically every prominent athletic club in the country will have a strong contingent for the senior events. The Far West is expected to furnish stiff competition with crack teams from the Hollywood A. C. and the Olympic Club of San Francisco and the Los Angeles A. C.

In the East the Boston A. A., the Newark A. C. and the New York A. C. appear to have the best chance of annexing the title.

Hagen Will Play Today.

Walter Hagen will play his first match since arriving back on American shores from England. It will be an 18-hole engagement this afternoon at the St. George's Golf Club, Stony Brook, L. I., his opponent being Willie Klein, the Wheatley Hills professional. Tomorrow afternoon Hagen and Long Jim Barnes will meet Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel at the Fresh Meadow Country Club.

THE BABE A PINCH HITTER

Bats for Paschal in Last Inning, but Hoists Out—Bob Shawkey Finishes the Game.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Professor Myles Thomas, who hasn't started a game in a month come next Michaelmas, started one today and broke into small fragments under a heavy Washington broadside in the seventh inning. Six resonant hits, five of them in succession, including two triples, gave the Senators five runs and the ball game, 6 to 5.

The Yankees suffered a severe blow tonight when Miller Huggins announced that Babe Ruth would be kept out of the Yankee line-up for an indefinite period. The formation of blood clots in his right leg have necessitated a long rest, Huggins said. For weeks Ruth has been hobbling about on two bad legs, but gamely taking part in all games save two.

Waite Hoyt also will not be able to help the Yankees for a period. Ligaments are believed to be torn in his right arm. He will have it X-rayed here tomorrow. If the pictures show anything serious he will go to Dr. Knight in Rochester for treatment.

The Babe was in uniform but did not start. It looked as if he would get a complete rest today.

But they wouldn't let him rest. G. Herman made a belated but dramatic entrance in the ninth. With the Yanks two runs behind, Lou Gehrig hit a homer into the left field stands. Bucky Harris broke out into a rash of caution and yanked Dutch Ruether in favor of Washington's pet relief pitcher, Fred Marberry.

Babe Hoists to Goslin.

Miller Huggins, who yields to no man in wiles and stratagems, sent Ruth up to hit for Ben Paschal, but the best Babe could do was a high hoist to Goslin. Carlyle uncorked a dying effort and grounded over second base, but Buddy Myer scampered over and throttled the ball with one hand.

Thomas didn't have much stuff to start with, and he lost all that in the seventh, after the Senators had put him under steady pressure in the first five innings. The Yanks pooled together and raised a three-run lead for their pitcher, but Thomas went completely to pieces. Some of the solidest smacks that ever left a bat sent the little right-hander reeling. Bob Shawkey came in just in time to yield a fifth run.

The Yanks were off flying. Combs singled in the first inning and scored on Koenig's hearty drive to left centre. Mark, unhappily, tried to make three bases, and learned his mistake when it was too late.

In the second the Senators tied it on a walk to Bluege, a wild pitch and sacrifices by Myer and Ruel, but the Yanks melded two more in the third on Buck Harris's fumble of Koenig's roller, Gehrig's double against the right-field fence and Paschal's single to left.

Doubles by Paschal and Carlyle made the total four in the fifth. Carlyle was on second and there was only one down, but soon there were three.

Thomas Ducks Fast Ones.

In the ordinary course of events the Senators would have scored a million runs off Thomas in the first four innings, but Myles had an ingenious knack for ducking the fast ones.

In the fourth, for example, the bases were full, with one out, when Taylor crashed a terrific grounder to Gehrig, who thought quickly, stepped on first base and then nailed Bluege at the plate standing up.

But the storm finally broke in the seventh. With one away Taylor tripled against the right-field boards. S. Harris, Rice and Goslin singled and Judge tripled to left centre, putting Washington one run to the good. Shawkey dashed in to aid and comfort Professor Thomas and retired Bluege, but Myer doubled to left, admitting Judge.

Dutch Ruether uses his head for other purposes than something to wear his cap on. With Collins on first, Thomas looped a bunt squarely at Dutch and didn't run, thinking the ball would be caught. But the canny southpaw let the ball drop safe and routed a double play through second base.

Charley Jeffcoat, the rookie left-hander picked up by Scout Gilks, has been sent to Newark for further education.

Bucky Harris covered lots of ground and plenty of air, too. Twice he soared off his feet and pushed his glove in front of hostile liners.

PIRATES WIN AGAIN; BEAT THE CARDS, 3-2

Register Second Straight as Kremer Has Better of Alexander in Pitching Duel.

PITTSBURGH, July 2 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates made it two straight from St. Louis today by winning a pitching duel between Kremer and Alexander, 3 to 2. Alexander allowed two runs, the third and winning tally having been made off Johnson when Waner opened the eighth with a triple and scored on a sacrifice fly. The Cards scored their runs in the ninth on a single, a walk and an out, followed by O'Farrell's single.

ROBINS YIELD AGAIN UNDER GIANT FIRE

Travis Jackson Not Only Halts Brooklyn Threats but Pounds in 2 Runs in 5-2 Victory.

VANCE FAILS ONCE MORE

Allows Only Six Hits and Strikes Out Five, but Issues Three Passes That Are Vital.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

The Robins were as sorry as any one when Travis Jackson, the gyrating Giant, pulled up lame and was forced out of the game earlier in the season. Yesterday they were sorry that Travis ever had recovered. For the second successive day the Arkansas Traveler got in the way of Robin hits, turned them into double plays and closed the gates of opportunity.

Besides that, he pounded in a couple of runs, one with a sacrifice fly and one with a two-bagger, and all the Robins put together couldn't make any more than that, so the Giants took their second straight from the Flock, 5 to 2, sweeping the Brooklyn half of the interborough battle that will be concluded with a double-header at the Polo Grounds today.

Dazzy Vance came back from wherever he has been for the past few weeks, but he didn't come back far enough. The once great dazzler allowed only six hits in the seven innings he pitched and he struck out five batsmen, but he issued four passes and three of those tickets of free transportation were good for the round trip.

There was some satisfaction for the Flatbush fans in the fact that Dazzy pitched at all, for they were beginning to think that he was being carried merely as an idle attraction. It's been so long since he worked that a lot of recent converts asked his first name.

Ring Succeeds McQuillan.

Vance was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, when the Robins started the first of three drives to tie the score, but all they succeeded in doing was forcing the retirement of Hughie McQuillan. Hughie pitched a nice, even game, allowing only seven hits and being specially effective with men on bases, but he became too generous toward the end and gave way to Jimmy Ring after walking the first two Robins in the ninth.

There was great excitement and enthusiasm as the Robins started this last belated rally, but it flickered and died out just as a couple of previous attempts to tie the score. In each of the last three innings the Robins managed to get two men on the bases, with not more than one out, but each time either the punch in the pinch was lacking or Traveling Travis got in the way.

In the seventh, needing three runs to tie, Butler and Fournier, who batted for Vance, walked, and although DeBerry had fanned there was some hope of a couple of runs scoring. Jacobson batted for Maranville and smashed a hot drive through the box, but Jackson was on it in a flash, flipped it to Frisch at second, and Frankie turned and tossed it to Kelly in time to get the fleet reindeer for a double play. That quelled the first outburst.

McQuillan Checks Rally.

Another came in the eighth, when Herman and Wheat singled with one out. Again there was a chance to pick up a couple of runs, but McQuillan tightened up, forced Cox to pop to Florence and struck out Marriott.

In the ninth the Robins had their last chance. Butler walked, and so did Witt, who batted for DeBerry. With two on and none out it looked like a golden opportunity, but it proved to be only gilt.

McQuillan was removed, and Hargreaves, batting for Bob McGraw, popped to Jackson for the first out. Then Sammy Bohne, making his début with the Robins, smashed one over second. At least it started as if it was going over second, but Jackson flashed out of nowhere, grabbed up the ball, stepped on the bag, and then threw to first for another double play.

Uncle Robbie probably will have a new slogan today: "Don't hit near Jackson."

A pass to Young with two out, and singles by Lindstrom and Meusel gave the Giants their first pair of runs in the first. Singles by Meusel and Kelly, and Jackson's sacrifice fly gave them another in the fourth. They picked up another in the sixth, when Lindstrom walked and Jackson doubled, and their last run was scored in the seventh on a pass to McQuillan, Mueller's single and sacrifices by Frisch and Young.

The Robins started out with a flourish, but a pass to Felix and singles by Herman and Wheat netted only one run in the first inning, and their other lone counter was registered on another pass to Felix, an infield out and Cox's single in the sixth.

SMALLWOOD SAVES NEWARK AGAIN, 5-4

Stops Reading Rally in Eighth and Bears Snatch Sixth Straight, Although Outhit.

READING, Pa., July 2 (AP).—Reading outhit Newark, 8 to 5 today, but the Bears won their sixth straight game, 5 to 4. Beard was wild in the opening innings, six passes and four hits being converted into five runs by the Bears.

Twombley weakened in the eighth, but Smallwood came to his rescue. It was the second straight day that Smallwood stopped Reading rallies and won for the Bears.

FINK SCORES OVER GOULD.

Down for Count of 9 in 9th, Texan Stages Strong Comeback.

Frankie Fink of Texas scored an impressive victory over Benny Gould, featherweight champion of Canada, in the main bout of ten rounds at the Steeplechase Arena at Rockaway Beach last night. Although down for the count of nine in the ninth round, the Texan rallied strongly and made such a good showing in the final session that he got the verdict. Fink also had a long lead throughout the early rounds and was much the better until Gould landed his punch in the ninth.

The decision in the semi-final bout of six rounds was not popular, however. In this bout Arnold Ryan, National Guard champion, defeated Izzy Cooper of the west side. Cooper's long left hand bothered Ryan considerably and seemed to give him a lead in the eyes of many of the spectators, but Ryan landed hard and often to the body and head. In two other six-round bouts Mickey McGill defeated Johnny Eulo and Johnny Vestri won over Frankie Houlihan.

Next Coney Island Show July 14.

The next show at the Coney Island Stadium will be held on July 14, it was announced yesterday. The original date was on July 9 but this was canceled in favor of the benefit show for the Foot Clinics of New York which will be held at the Polo Grounds on that night.

ATHLETICS TRIUMPH IN THIRTEENTH, 4-3

Bishop's Single Scores Cochrane With Tally That Beats Red Sox After Hard Battle.

COME FROM REAR 3 TIMES

Mackmen Forced to Tie Score in the Sixth, Eleventh and Twelfth—Four Hits for Jacobson.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Max Bishop's single in the thirteenth inning scored Cochrane with the run that gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the second game of the series today.

The Mackmen previously had come from behind three times, once in the sixth, in the eleventh and again in the twelfth, tying the score on each occasion. Howard Ehmke and Harold Wiltse hooked up in a sensational mound duel, but both gave way to pinch hitters. Pate was credited with the victory.

Jacobson made two doubles and two singles.

TIGERS WIN IN SEVENTH

Bunch Seven Hits for Seven Runs and Defeat Indians, 9-3.

DETROIT, July 2 (AP).—Two triplets, three doubles and a pair of singles were grouped in the seventh inning for seven runs and accounted for a 9 to 3 victory for the Detroit Tigers over the Cleveland Indians today.

Sherrod Smith was the victim, eleven men batting in the inning. Cobb, who had entered the game as a pinch runner, had a chance to bat as well, his single driving in the last Detroit run.

REDS GAIN IN RACE BY BEATING CUBS, 6-1

Drive Blake From Mound in the Fourth and Increase Lead to Four and One-Half Games.

RIXEY PITCHES IN FORM

Is Hit Freely, but Proves Effective in the Pinches—Gets Fine Support From Infield.

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP).—Blake, who pitched a one-hit game against the Cards last Sunday, was wild today and Cincinnati drove him off the mound in the fourth inning, defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 1. Rixey pitched in fine form, and although hit freely bore down in the pinches. He received sensational support, especially by his infield.

This victory enables the Reds to increase their lead to four and a half games, as the second-place Cards lost to the Pirates.

HOME RUN IN NINTH WINS FOR BROWNS

Rice's Drive Ends Duel Between Ballou and Blankenship and Beats the White Sox, 3-2.

ST. LOUIS, July 2 (AP).—Rice's home run in the ninth broke up a pitcher's duel today and the St. Louis Browns defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Both Ballou and Blankenship pitched well.

Manager Collins of the White Sox, with a double and a single, and Manager Sisler of the Browns, with a triple and a single, played a large part in the scoring.

GREENLEAF AGAIN DIVIDES.

But Increases Lead Over St. Jean in Match at the Strand.

Although he lost one of the blocks yesterday, Ralph Greenleaf, former pocket billiard champion of the world, further increased his lead over Andrew St. Jean in their 1,500 point match in progress at the Strand Billiard Academy. Greenleaf now leads 1,256 to 893. St. Jean won in the afternoon, 157 to 125, with the aid of a sensational high run of 70. The block required fifteen innings and saw Greenleaf make a high run of 28.

In the evening, however, Greenleaf won, 126 to 21 in ten innings. He made a high run of 53 against one of 15 for St. Jean. The match will end with the two blocks to be played this afternoon and evening.

FRASER WINS AT 42D HOLE.

Gains Canadian Amateur Final When Hyde Gets Into a Trap.

TORONTO, Ontario, July 2 (AP).—C. C. (Happy) Fraser of Kanawaki and C. Ross Somerville of Toronto will meet tomorrow in the final of the Canadian amateur golf championship. Fraser was champion in 1922 and Somerville runner-up in 1924 and 1925.

Fraser attained the finals by defeating Paul S. Hyde of Buffalo, N. Y., in the longest match this tournament ever has known. At the forty-second, the sixth extra hole, Hyde found a trap at the green with his second and after two futile attempts to dig out conceded the hole and match.

Somerville advanced to his third successive final by defeating A. A. Weir of Winnipeg, 5 and 4.

LEVINE HERO IN FIRE.

Saves His Trainer Sleeping in Burning Gymnasium.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., July 2 (AP).—George Levine, Brooklyn welterweight, who meets Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., world's welterweight titleholder, in a championship contest at the Polo Grounds next Friday night, was the hero of a fire which early this morning destroyed the gymnasium at which he had been training. Levine rushed into the burning structure and rescued his trainer, Izzy Sarber, who was asleep when the fire broke out.

Stengel Suspended for 3 Days.

TOLEDO, July 2 (AP).—Manager Casey Stengel has been suspended for three days by President Hickey of the American Association for his run-in with Umpire Bob Connelly yesterday, during the game between Toledo and Louisville.

Haviland and Lamprecht Reach the Final Round in College Title Golf at Merion

LAMPRECHT CLIMBS INTO GOLF FINAL

Defender of College Crown Is Close to Merion Par in Beating Heisert by 5 and 3.

HAVILAND IN TITLE ROUND

Yale Man Beats Hersey After Latter Upsets Westland, Last Year's Runner-Up, on Home Hole.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Paul Haviland, Captain-elect of the Yale team, and G. Fred Lamprecht of Tulane, defending champion, won their way today to the 36-hole final round of the intercollegiate golf championship at the Merion Cricket Club.

Haviland, in the semi-final round, beat Winthrop Hersey, Princeton, 2 and 1. Hersey in the third round in the morning caused the greatest upset of the tournament by ousting Jack Westland, University of Washington star and last year's finalist, 1 up. Haviland beat Rodney Coltart, University of Pennsylvania player, in the morning, 3 and 2.

Lamprecht, who is striving to duplicate Dexter Cumming's feat of twice winning the intercollegiate title, conquered Kenneth Heisert, University of Chicago and "Big Ten" conference champion, in the semi-final, 5 and 3. He beat George Brush, Dartmouth, 4 and 3 in the third round. Heisert had eliminated Robert McDougal, Princeton, 5 and 4.

Hersey's Victory Brilliant.

Hersey's victory over Westland offered the best golf and most most exciting action of any late-round contest. Westland had a 76 for the round but Hersey was a stroke better.

Going to the turn, Hersey was only one over par and had a lead of two up. Westland quickly wiped this out by winning the tenth and eleventh holes and took the lead with a birdie two on the thirteenth. On the sixteenth Westland dropped his second into a quarry and lost the hole, making the match square. The seventeenth was halved in par 3s.

On the eighteenth Westland had a poor drive, barely carrying over the quarry in front of the tee. Hersey was straight and long from the tee, and Westland, who realizing defeat, was stalking him, pressed badly with his brassie and pulled it to a bunker, from which he was unable to reach the green. He took a 6 on the hole which Hersey played with a perfect 4.

The cards:

Out—
Hersey	4	5	3	5	5	4	4	4	3—37
Westland	4	5	3	6	5	5	4	4	3—39
In—
Hersey	5	5	4	4	4	5	4	3	4—38—75
Westland	4	3	4	2	4	5	6	3	6—37—76

Lamprecht in his semi-final match played the best golf he has revealed thus far, keeping close to par all the way and giving Heisert few openings. He was two up at the turn. The tenth and eleventh were halved.

Lamprecht Pulls Drive.

On the twelfth Lamprecht wavered for a moment, pulling his drive to the side of a mound and over-clubbing his second. He chipped up dead to the pin, however, and saved himself a half.

Par was good enough to win the thirteenth where Heisert was trapped over the green. Heisert repeated this error on the next two holes, Lamprecht winning both.

Haviland's golf against Hersey fell into divisions, that on the first nine which was poor and that on the second nine which was better than par.

As a result of his unsteadiness going out, Haviland was one down at the turn but after that he laid his second dead on the tenth to square the match. He was bunkered with his second on the eleventh and lost, but won the twelfth when the same misfortune overtook Hersey.

Haviland Gets Birdie.

On the thirteenth Haviland ran down a 15-foot putt for a birdie 2 and won the hole and took the fourteenth when Hersey pulled his drive out of bounds. The next three holes were halved, closing the match.

The summaries:

Third Round—Winthrop, Hersey, Princeton, defeated Jack Westland, University of Washington, 1 up; Paul Haviland, Yale, defeated Rodney Coltart, Pennsylvania, 3 and 2; R. E. Heisert, Chicago, defeated Robert McDougal, Princeton, 5 and 4; G. Fred Lamprecht, Tulane, defeated George Brush, Dartmouth, 4 and 3.

Semi-Final Round—Haviland defeated Hersey, 2 and 1; Lamprecht defeated Heiser, 5 and 3.

EBBETS SCORES KNOCKOUT.

Finishes Werner in Fourth When Referee Stops Long Beach Bout.

LONG BEACH, L. I., July 2.—Harry Ebbets of Freeport added another knockout to his string when he stopped Joey Werner of the east side in the fourth round of the main bout scheduled for six rounds here tonight. The knockout was the thirty-first for Ebbets in thirty-seven fights. The victor weighed 149½ and Werner 145½. The bout was one-sided from the beginning and Referee Louis Magnolia stopped it to save Werner further punishment.

Another knockout resulted when Ralph Cohen of Brooklyn stopped Phil Richards of England in the fourth round of a scheduled six-round contest. A cut over Richards's eye prevented him from continuing. Cohen weighed 134 and Richards 137½.

Jack Hauser of the east side won the decision from Eddie Paradise of Brooklyn in six rounds. Hauser weighed 125¼, Paradise 124. Nick De Salvo, 114½, of Corona defeated Al Figaro, 111½, of Italy in six rounds, while the first six-rounder was a draw between Harry Traub, New York City, 114½, and Arthur De Champlain, 117½, of Long Branch, N. J. In the four-round curtain-raiser Johnny Burns, 111½, Long Island City, outpointed Phil Gaudy, 116½, New York City. A crowd of 4,000 saw the bouts.

Two Cue Victories for Cutler.

Albert G. Cutler won two exhibition matches yesterday afternoon and last night at the Fourteenth Street Academy. Cutler, playing 18.1 balkline, defeated Philip Meise, who played 18.2 balkline, 300 to 69. At three-cushions he defeated Harry Stern, 50 to 32.

Boomer Conquers Ockenden And Compston at Gleneagles

GLENEAGIES, Scotland, July 2 (AP).—Archie Compston entered the semi-finals of The Glasgow Herald's 1,000 guineas golf tournament today, defeating W. H. Davies of Preston, 5 and 4. James Ockenden, who eliminated José Jurado of Argentina by two holes in the second round, was defeated by Aubrey Boomer, 7 and 6. In the semi-final round Boomer defeated Compston, 2 and 1.

BRITISH NOT LAZY, HAGEN STATES HERE

Golfer Denies He Ever Made Such a Remark or Even Tried to Chide Hosts.

ALSO EXPLAINS BEING LATE

Englishman Driving Him to Mitchell Match Lost Way and Tried to Enter Wrong Gate.

Walter Hagen, former British open champion, whose reported criticism of British golf and golfers recently aroused a storm of criticism both abroad and at home, was much surprised at the furore his remarks created. When shown clippings in which his statements were commented upon and in which he was soundly flailed, Hagen declared that he had been asked, along with other members of the party, to give his frank criticism of British golf, and that he had done so without giving a thought that he would be treading on toes or hurting anyone's pride.

"It's all news to me," he said, grinning his famous grin. "I don't know a thing about it. In fact the only inkling I had until now was when I read an item in the ship's paper. Of course I didn't make any such statement as the one attributed to me saying that the British were too gosh darn lazy to play good golf, or that the Americans thought it was time for them to remain at home and give the British a chance at their own title for a change. Even if I said anything like it, which I don't think I did, it was said absolutely without intent to be critical.

"What happened was this: After the championship, not only I, but several of the other boys were requested for opinion as to the cause of America's apparent supremacy in golf. As the request was made we were given to believe that our opinions were really wanted. And I as well as others gave my ideas.

Doesn't Want to Boast.

"It was furthest from my mind to 'dig' the British for their poor showing. We who have been over there several times know that British sportsmanship is second to none. We have always been accorded good treatment. We know also that the British were hard hit by the war and that many of their younger players have come to America seeking more lucrative fields. It would ill-behoove us to boast of our victories in the face of all that.

"Whatever criticism I made was in absolute good faith without any attempt to point out to British golfers their short-comings or to brag of our successes. For one thing I recall having said to one of my questioners that in my opinion one of the reasons why the Americans played admittedly better golf and won was because the British do not attempt to 'save shots' as we do here.

"English golf critics, while agreeing that in driving and playing their second shots their men are fully as good as ours, their play around the greens is weak. Our victories in the past have been due to our perfection of the chip shot and in putting."

Hagen said that he would make a complete statement in the matter within a few days, as soon as he had had an opportunity to see what he had been accused of saying.

Explains Being Tardy.

Regarding the criticism directed at him for being late in the Mitchell match he said, "I was informed by one of the men in charge of the match that inasmuch as the crowd coming down from London would be late I could take my time in getting out for the second day's play; but I made an especial attempt to be on time inasmuch as I have always liked Abe Mitchell and wouldn't try to make him nervous by waiting even if I thought doing so would give me an advantage.

"We started out for the course in the car of a British friend and lost our way. Once when we approached the course, we were warned to go back and enter by another gate. We complied with the request and, poking our way through the crowd with as much speed as we could, arrived at the club ten minutes late. Even then I was told that there would be no need of my hurrying. But due to the complications usual to any match of this kind the start was delayed still more, but it was far from being a half hour after scheduled time."

Hagen's statements were backed by Bobby Jones, President Fownes and Al Watrous.

MEDALIST DANIELS LOSES.

Falls Before Count d'Adhemar in Adirondack Golf at Saranac.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 2.—Count Raoul d'Adhemar of Washington, D. C., caused the first upset in the Adirondack amateur golf championship here today when he defeated the medalist, Charles M. Daniels of the Buffalo Country Club 1 up in the first round over the Saranac Lake Inn links. Ray Stevens of Lake Placid, defending champion, had the best medal of the day, 42-35-77, and put out William Forshay of Porchester, 4 and 3.

Championship Division (First Round)—Count Raoul d'Adhemar, Washington, defeated C. M. Daniels, Buffalo C. C., 1 up; Ray Stevens, Lake Placid G. C., defeated William Forshay, Portchester, 4 and 3; D. C. Paul, Greenwich, defeated J. H. Stevens, New York 1 up (19 holes); Charles Presbrey, Apawamis, defeated John Frey, Cherry Valley, 1 up (21 holes) H. L. Brown, Orange, Texas, defeated T. A. Hardy, Montclair G. C., 1 up; Carleton Blunt, Glenview, defeated H. M. Green, Montclair, 2 and 1; G. F. Costello, Whiteface G .C., defeated Charles Donnelly, Whiteface, 2 and 1; F. J. Fitzpatrick, Albany G. C., defeated Tom Batten, Lake Placid, 3 and 1.

BRITAIN NOT READY TO ALTER GOLF BALL

Both Countries Agree That There Must Be No Change Except on Unanimous Basis.

Returning from the conference that he and other American golf officials had with the Golf Balls Subcommittee of the Rules of Golf Committee appointed by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, President W. C. Fownes of the United States Golf Association yesterday gave out a statement as to the results. The conference had to do mainly with the change in the size and weight of the ball, something that the American authorities have been seeking to bring about for the last two or three years.

No agreement was reached, but President Fownes said that the two bodies were in perfect accord on all matters pertaining to the regulation and rules of the game and that no action would be taken on the ball unless both sides are ready to adopt a new standard.

"The main reason for opposition to a change in the ball there is the same as it is here," he said. "There is a general impression that a larger and lighter ball, such as we advocate, would curtail length. Sight is lost of the aid that such a ball would give to the average player, inasmuch as it would be easier to hit on the fairway. The experimental work which we started, however, will be continued, and I think that at some time in the not too distance future we will have a ball that will be more satisfactory than the present one."

Official Statement Made.

The official statement which President Fownes brought back follows:

"Mr. Croome, convener of the Golf Balls Subcommittee, pointed out that neither among the members of the R. and A. G. C., whom he regarded as adequately representative of public opinion, nor in the Rules of Golf Committee was there complete unanimity on the questions as to whether the alteration in the specifications of size and weight suggested by the Implements Committee of the U. S. G. A. were sufficient to achieve the objects sought, which are the reasonable curtailment of the ball's power and the improvement in quality of stroke required for successful playing, or whether size and weight are really the dominant factors in determining the length of driving and the general character of play.

"He further stated that the majority of those golfers who had been induced to try the ball recommended by the U. S. G. A. were of the opinion that its introduction would be at least a step in the right dierction, and stated that these golfers were of widely varying handicaps.

"Mr. Fownes stated that his Implements Committee and the Executive Committee of the U. S. G. A. were unanimous in recommending that the minimum diameter of golf balls should be raised to 1.68 inches and the maximum weight reduced to 1.55 ounces, but, in reply to a question put, said that the U. S. G. A. would not adopt these specifications at this time unless they were approved and adopted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club.

"All present at the meetting were unanimous in holding that, whatever action be taken, it is most desirable that it be identical and simultaneous in both countries.

"Mr. Fownes then described experiments shortly to be made in the United States to register the coefficient of restitution, or resiliency, of golf balls. And it was agreed that similar experiments should be made in Great Britain as soon as possible. It was further agreed that, if it were found possible to measure and limit the resiliency of the ball, that might prove itself to be the solution of the problem.

Must Protect Manufacturers.

"Complete unanimity was also attained on the following points:

"That it would be a mistake to take any step which would diminish the pleasure obtainable from the hitting of the ball, though it is eminently desirable that its power be diminished;

"That the interests of manufacturers and retailers of balls, especially the professional golfers, must be considered and safeguarded so far as is possible;

"That the ideal to be kept in view is the betterment of the game for players of all classes, not for competitors in championships only.

"Diverse opinions were expressed on the question whether the limitation of resiliency and the modification of size and weight were saparable or not. This, it was agreed, is matter for investigation."

Those present at the meeting were President Fownes, Charles O. Pfeil, James D. Standish Jr., Thomas B. Paine of the U. S. G. A. and A. C. Croome, Major Hutchison, Robert Harris and Roger Wethered of the Royal and Ancient.

BROWN STOPS DELMONT.

Wins Bout at Long Branch After Physician Calls a Halt.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 2.—Harry Kid Brown of Philadelphia knocked out Al Delmont of Newark in the third round of the main bout of ten rounds at the Ocean View A. C. here tonight. The bout was stopped by Referee Ferguson when the physician in attendance pronounced a cut inflicted by Brown on Delmont's eye too serious to permit him to continue. The victor weighed 138 pounds and Delmont 137. Eighteen hundred persons saw the battle.

The semi-final bout of eight rounds was won by Philly Griffin of Newark in the opinion of newspaper men at the ringside. He defeated Johnny Kid Lewis of Philadelphia. Griffin weighed 123 pounds and Lewis two pounds more.

In the first of three six-round bouts Jimmy O'Toole of Long Branch was the winner in the opinion of newspaper men over Bob McClellan of Mount Hollis. O'Toole weighed 145 pounds and McClellan 147. A knockout was scored in another six-round battle when Andy Desco of Newark stopped Perry Callaway of Brooklyn. The men weighed 128 each. The end came in the third round when Callaway refused to continue. Desco received the verdict on a knockout. The first six saw Eddie Barton, 128, of Long Branch, take the newspaper decision over Solly Wells, 126, of Newark. This verdict was also the opinion of newspaper men.

Torre Wins Chess Title of Mexico; Is Backed By General Mendoza in Challenge to Marshall

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—By winning six games in succession and defeating each of his three rivals twice, Carlos Torre of New York today clinched the chess championship of his native land, to which he returned for the purpose of competing in the national tournament arranged for him.

The other three contenders, none of whom was a match for him, were J. J. Araiza, M. Soto and Agustin Freyria. Mexicans generally are greatly elated over the fact that one of their nationality has risen so high in the international chess arena as has Torre.

At the conclusion of the tournament Brig. Gen. Manuel Mendoza, acting in behalf of Torre as his manager, issued a challenge to Frank J. Marshall, the United States champion, to play a set match with Torre for the Pan-American championship. It is understood here that Marshall is willing to play for a purse of $5,000.

HOMANS RETAINS MET. GOLF TITLE

Foils Finlay's Attempt to Take Junior Crown by Winning in Final, 4 and 3.

MACKIE LOSES HIS CHANCE

Jack Junior, No Longer Eligible for Tourney, Bows to Finlay on Cherry Valley's Home Green.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 2.—Eugene Homans of Englewood successfully defended his title as the metropolitan junior golf champion at the Cherry Valley Country Club today, defeating Phillips Finlay of Shinnecock Hills in the final round. The margin was 4 and 3.

As was expected, Homans eliminated his opponent, Leonard Martin, the medalist, in the semi-finals this morning by 5 and 4. But Finlay scored the surprise of the tournament in disposing of Jack Mackie Jr., thus depriving the Inwood youngster of his last chance to win the title for which he will be no longer eligible. Finlay won 1 up.

Finlay had an advantage of one at the turn only to have Mackie square the match twice. With the score even at the sixteenth, both sliced their drives, with Mackie's third going into a trap. It was here the match was decided, for Finlay was down in 5 to his opponent's 6, and they halved the two final holes.

Finlay Holes 40-Footer.

In winning the fourteen Finlay holed a 40-foot putt, a feature which was sadly lacking in his match with Homans. He lost this match on the greens. Time and again Finlay took three putts. The rest of his game was good, and at times brilliant, but he lacked the consistency of Homans. On the fifteen holes Homans was four over fives.

After a strong start by Finlay, who took the second when Homans topped a chip shot and sent his ball flying into a trap, Homans assumed control and was 2 up at the turn. He squared the match on the fourth, was one up on the sixth and then annexed the ninth. Finlay then cracked and dropped the next three, being 5 down and 6 to play. He lost all three of those holes with inaccurate use of his putter and missed several other opportunities to win.

Finlay Takes a Hole.

It was because Homans took three putts on the thirteenth that Finlay was able to win his second and last hole of the match. He staved off defeat for a while by halving the fourteenth with a 4, but when he failed to do better than play Homans even on the next, he was out of the running. Here, on a par three hole, he missed a 4-footer by three or four inches, and Homans, lying two, was content to put his ball next to the cup for a half.

The cards:

Out—
Homans	4	6	4	4	4	4	3	4	5—38
Finlay	4	4	4	5	4	6	3	4	6—40
In—
Homans	5	4	4	5	4	4
Finlay	6	5	5	4	4	4

Maurice McCarthy, Old Flatbush, won the final in the second sixteen from James Nelson of Englewood by the score of 6 and 5. Samuel Wormser, Woodway, won from James Ellis in the third sixteen by the margin of 4 and 3.

Finlay had a splendid chance to even the match in the main event, when Homans was only 1 up. It was on the eighth when Homans put his ball in a trap next to the green and was lying 2. Finlay's second, a long mashie, was true and fell about five feet from the pin, but Homans came out of the sand pit, ten feet from the cup, and sank his putt, while Finlay had missed his. The loser usually outdistanced his opponent in driving and put a good many of his approaches well up to the green, but was lost when he came to putt out.

SID TERRIS ORDERED TO BOX OR FACE BAN

Commission Physician Rules Injury to Hand Is Old and Will Not Hamper Fighting.

Sid Terris had his hand examined by the State Athletic Commission physician, Dr. Perry Lichtenstein, yesterday. Terris and his manager, Dan Caplin, had pleaded at Thursday's commission meeting that a broken left hand would prevent his going through with the scheduled bout against Phil McGraw at the Polo Grounds on July 9, when the benefit show for the Foot Clinics of New York will be held.

Dr. Lichtenstein found that the fracture of Terris's hand was an old one and a chronic condition which would never improve nor never interfere with his boxing ability. The commission then decreed that Terris must go on against McGraw or be indefinitely suspended.

The atmosphere of the Garden was filled with opinion pro and con as to the prospects of the Dempsey-Wills bout being held in New Jersey or Chicago. Tex Rickard said nothing except that he expected to decide upon the place within the next ten days. It was announced that Rickard had received a telegram from Dempsey from Colorado Springs saying that the heavyweight champion had started training.

Mike McTigue's showing in his bout with Risko Thursday was the subject of considerable favorable comment. McTigue's name was not linked with that of any other boxer for a match in the near future, but it is expected that something will develop along these lines shortly.

GOLF TITLE TAKEN BY MISS ROCKWOOD

Mrs. Du Bois Fails to Win a Hole in Westchester-Fairfield Final—Score Is 7 and 6.

VICTOR IS 5 UP AT TURN

Halves the Tenth With a 5, but Takes the Eleventh and Twelfth —Crown Is Her Third.

Miss Emily Rockwood of the Westchester Biltmore Club concluded her run of sensational golf by winning the final match of the Westchester-Fairfield Golf Association championship yesterday at the Hudson River Country Club, defeating Mrs. F. E. Du Bois, a clubmate, by the one-sided score of 7 and 6. The match was over at the twelfth green, Miss Roowkood having taken seven holes, while Mrs. Du Bois failed to win a single one, her best efforts resulting in five halves.

Miss Rockwood started her march on the fourth, when she was down in par 3, her opponent just missing a ten-foot putt for a half. At the turn she was 5 up, going out in 41, to 46 for Mrs. Du Bois. The tenth was halved with 5s, and when the young star won the eleventh with a 4 and the twelfth with 5 the match stood 7 up and 6 to play.

The new champion won her third title yesterday. In 1922 she captured the Poland Springs championship, and won it again last year. She is now a sophomore at Wellesley College, where she is a star on the crew. Mrs. Du Bois won the Westchester-Fairfield championship in 1923.

Mrs. George Hite of Apawamis won the beaten eight prize of the first sixteen from Miss Mary Luke of Sleepy Hollow, 3 and 2. Mrs. M. D. Paterson of the Westchester Biltmore won the Hungate Cup in the second sixteen by defeating Mrs. N. D. Willard of the Winged Foot. Mrs. C. L. Moore, Weeburn, defeated Mrs. H. R. Wilson, Ardsley, by 3 and 2 in the beaten eight of the second sixteen, while Mrs. L. F. Otten, Wykagyl, won from Mrs. A. Bassler of the Westchester Biltmore in the fourth sixteen by 2 and 1.

KANSAS-MANDELL TO BATTLE TODAY

Chicago Will See Its First Title Bout Since 1900 When Lightweights Clash.

$85,000 GATE EXPECTED

Mandell Favored in Wagering by 2 to 1—Fight Also First Under New Law.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—Rocky Kansas will risk his world's lightweight title against Sammy Mandell tomorrow afternoon at the American League baseball park here in Chicago's first ring title battle since 1900.

They recall here now how Terrible Terry McGovern and Joe Gans put on their memorable ring skit which ended in Gans going out in three rounds at that time. They tell how the great negro fighter "went into the tank" for Terry, how the signals were all set for a knockout in the second round, but how Gans failed to absorb the proper punch—that it looked "too raw"—which accounts for the third round.

This may or may not be true. But there is no denying that the McGovern-Gans bout was followed immediately by legislation which wiped out legalized boxing in Illinois. The championship battle tomorrow is the first legalized fight under the law adopted last Spring.

Gate of $85,000 Expected.

The city's fight followers are excited accordingly. It is expected that the battle will attract a crowd of between 30,000 and 40,000 to the White Sox park. The gate, based on the advance sale of tickets which are retailing at $2, $3, $5, $7.50 and $10, is expected to exceed $85,000. The show is being held for the benefit of the Illinois Memorial Gymnasium Association, an organization sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose, now holding its convention here.

The battle is scheduled for ten rounds, to a referee's decision. The referee will be selected by the Illinois Boxing Commission, but his identity will not become known until he is about to enter the ring. The favorite for the post is Phil Collins of the west side. Jim Mullen is the promoter, and it appears at this writing as if he would do his promoting for the honor and glory of it. It is said Mullen has volunteered to devote all of the profits, after the boxers and necessary expenses are paid, to the charitable cause for which the title bout was arranged.

Kansas is guaranteed $50,000. The guarantee has been made by Eddie Kane, manager of Mandell, and the money, Kane said this afternoon, already has been posted subject to the call of Kansas when the champion enters the ring. Mandell has accepted 55 per cent. of the gate receipts after Federal and State taxes of 10 per cent. each have been deducted, and from this income hopes to retieve the guarantee to Kansas and make a little money himself. Whether Mandell will make any money is doubtful.

Mandell Is Favorite.

Mandell will enter the ring a favorite. This is unusual, but the feeling is that no boxer ever had a greater chance to win a title than Mandell. Betting this afternoon favored Mandell at odds of 2 to 1. In some places these lengthened to 2½ and 3 to 1. There does not, however, seem to be much betting.

The fight is scheduled to start at 5 o'clock, Chicago Daylight Saving Time, which is 6 o'clock New York Daylight Saving Time. The first bout is scheduled for 3 o'clock, Chicago Daylight Saving Time. Promoter Mullen has reserved the right to start the title struggle at any time after 3 o'clock in order to beat threatening weather.

As this is being dispatched the weather is fair after a rainstorm this morning, but the forecast for tomorrow is unsettled and possibly stormy.

The new Boxing Commission, Chairman O .W. Huncke, Paul Prehn and John C. Righeimer, visited the park this afternoon and inspected plans and seating arrangements, which they proclaimed satisfactory. Frank Bartley of New York was imported to erect the ring after the pattern he employs at Madison Square Garden.

Elaborate preparations have been made to handle a crowd which, in addition to the local fans, is expected to be increased by arrivals from Buffalo, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Rockford, Peoria, St. Louis, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The Moose convention is said to have attracted 150,000 visitors. Promoter Mullen said today that the gathering would include persons prominent in Chicago society.

Mandell figures on form to emerge from the ring a champion. He has youth, strength and a tireless energy in his favor and has the incentive a chance to gain the top. Kansas has been boxing for fifteen years against the best. He has been battered to a considerable extent, and was regarded as "through" last December before he beat Jimmy Goodrich in Buffalo for the title.

Kansas and Mandell were reported in excellent shape this afternoon. The champion has been here for the past fortnight. Mandell did his heavy training at his nome in Rockford, Ill., and four days ago came here to taper off. Champion and challenger were reported below the weight. They will weigh in tomorrow morning at Mullen's gymnasium.

The statistics on Kansas and Mandell follow:

Bottles and Seat Cushions Barred at Chicago Bout Today

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—No refreshments in bottles and no seat cushions will be sold at the Kansas-Mandell lightweight title bout tomorrow, under a rule of the Boxing Commission here. This precaution has been taken so these articles may not be turned into missiles if the battle does not suit the spectators. Disordes broke up the Benny Leonard and Pinky Mitchell fight, the last important ring engagement in Chicago proper. Leonard and Mitchell met three years ago and a free-for-all was precipitated in the last round.

RUFFALO IN RING TONIGHT.

Kehr, Another Former Amateur Star, Also to Box at Commonwealth.

Johnny Kehr, former amateur light heavyweight champion, and Patsy Ruffalo, former amateur featherweight champion, are the best known of the boxers who will appear in a new talent show at the Commonwealth Sporting Club in Harlem tonight. Kehr will meet Frankie Brown of Jersey City in the final bout, while Ruffalo will meet Manny Rosen of the east side in the semi-final.

Both Brown and Rosen are more experienced than the former amateurs, but the reputations that Kehr and Ruffalo have won in amateur circles have earned many followers. Both bouts will be of four rounds. There will be eight other four-round bouts.

Kings County Semi-Finals Today.

The semi-finals of the Kings County tennis championship will be played today on the Ridge Club Courts, Brooklyn. Luis Hayden faces W. Aydelotte and Allen Behr meets A. J. Cawse.

PETROLLE IN DRAW WITH RAY MILLER

ANDERSON GETS DECISION

Outpoints Joe Malone in Semi-Final —Verdict for Felix Over De Marco Is Not Popular.

Ray Miller of Chicago and Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., fought through ten rounds to a draw last night at the Coney Island Stadium before 5,000 fans.

The bout, which was put on before the semi-final between Joe Malone and Eddie Anderson, was not as hard fought as expected. The fighters maintained a fairly fast pace in the first few rounds but then, except for a rally in the ninth by Miller, the bout was mediocre.

Petrolle fought in his usual rushing fashion but was somewhat slowed up after the Chicago slugger hit him with a few left uppercuts. He scored a short knockdown in the second round when he caught Miller slightly off balance with his left, but that was the only time either looked in any danger.

Miller gained some lost prestige when he took the offensive in the ninth round and landed a series of lefts to the jaw and stomach. The blows, however, failed to carry enough force to harm the Italian, who appeared strong at the finish.

After the first round, which was fairly even, Miller piled up a slight lead only to lose it in the drab rounds that followed.

Eddie Anderson of Wyoming outpointed Joe Malone of the Bronx in the semi-final, another ten-rounder. Except for a few rounds Anderson had the better of the milling but his punches had little effect. In several rounds the two fighters stood toe to toe exchanging punches and at times provided more excitement to the fans than the main bout.

Anderson showed more boxing ability than the Bronx boxer, dancing about and eluding punches and using his right to good advantage.

In the first ten rounder Harry Felix of the east side got the decision over Cuddy Demarco, Pittsburgh boxer, in a fast and hard hitting bout. The decision was not popular with a large portion of the fans.

Ed Tiernan, former national amateur welterweight champion, made his professional début by defeating Joe Marino of Staten Island. Tiernan showed promising form in the six rounds of milling.

Solly Kanowitz opened the card in an auspicious manner by stopping Jimmy Christy in the first round. Christy was knocked out in 2 minutes and 5 seconds.

Cartoonist and Three Other Favorites Win Aqueduct Races

FAVORITE PLAYERS SCORE AT AQUEDUCT

Talent Jubilant When Four of Public Choices Scamper First to the Wire.

LAVERNE FATOR SHINES

Kicks Bud Fisher's Old Cartoonist and Rancocas Stable's Superlette Home to Popular Victories.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Humidity that could almost be served with a spoon failed to dampen the ardor of the form players at the Aqueduct course of the Queens County Jockey Club yesterday afternoon; and all because four favorites came rolling home. To bring to a happy conclusion an almost perfect day a nice breeze sprang up just before the running of the last race and it wafted home Sam Harris's Terry, which the followers of form had pounded down to 9 to 20 and couldn't write their tickets fast enough. The other two events on the program were copped by a long shot and a rank outsider, quoted at 30 to 1 and nobody aboard.

Laverne Fator was again at the top of his form and he booted both of his two mounts first past the winning post, both being odds-on choices. If there was any feature to the very ordinary card it was the Hindoo Handicap, an overnight event for three-year-olds and upward over the mile course, which was the medium for one of Fator's spectacular finishes.

It was Bud Fisher's veteran Celt gelding Cartoonist on which Fator had the leg up. This long backed fellow is about the only bread-winner in the Fisher outfit at present, and Aleck Gordon has had him in the very pink of condition this Spring. It was his third straight victory at Aqueduct. Cartoonist was asked to take up 126 pounds in a field of seven and the weight didn't stop him, although he was giving away as much as twenty-five pounds.

Everybody on Cartoonist.

Everybody clamored to get aboard the Cartoonist wagon. The first line was 7 to 5 against him and the first was the highest. While the receivers of white slips stood up under the storm the players steadily wrote his price down until it stood at 4 to 5 at post time. Not all the others were neglected, for Marshall Field's Nomad was hammered from 10 to 1 to half that price and P. F. Joyce's filly Patricia J. from the same high to 8 to 1.

Fator broke Cartoonist well, but quickly took him back off the pace to save him as much as possible for the long run home. The Sunnyland Stable's Golden Spire was first to show, giving way down the back to the Log Cabin Stud's High Star, the three-year-old setting a sizzling pace for three-quarters of a mile. Fator held Cartoonist in the second berth, within striking distance of the leader.

On the last turn Fator moved up a bit with the Fisher hope and when they entered the last quarter-mile he settled himself down to ride. He called on Cartoonist, which moved up on the younger horse, looked him in the eye and saw that he was beaten. That wasn't enough for Fator and he was taking no chances. With his heels beating a rythmical rataplan on the old fellow's ribs he worked with might and main during the last furlong and at that he had only a length on the North Star colt at the wire, with Golden Spire the same distance back of High Star.

Rancocas Silks Out.

On his other winning mount Fator wore the seldom-seen silks of his own Rancocas Stable. His mount was the Superman filly Superlette and the race was the St. James Purse at six and a half furlongs. The four-year-old miss was the choice in a field of nine, backed to 7 to 10 at post time. She was conceding a lot of weight to the three-year-olds, four of which hooked up with the older ones.

As in the handicap Fator laid back of the pacemaker, which was A. H. Morris's three-year-old Genuine, came on in the stretch and won in a gallop. Genuine held on bravely and wasn't menaced by La Brea Stable's old Flagstaff, which was outrun in the early stages, coming on with a belated rush to take the short end of the money. They ran the race in the fast time of 1:18 2-5.

James Fitzsimmons Jr. took the covers off a sleeper in the fifth race when he mounted Blackburn on the three-year-old filly Glorianes for the jaunt of a mile. This daughter of Durbar and Glorita has been showing up at the post every now and then and once this Spring had managed to grab off the short end of a purse. Nobody paid any attention to her and the first line had her at 30 to 1. As there were few if any inquiries the price remained the same, while the handicappers were endeavoring to pick a winner from among Bagdad, Free Hand and Donnelly.

Blackburn managed to get Glorianes away last in a field of eleven. Somehow she climbed after the others, picked up first one and then the other, got so excited about it all that she ran like a frightened deer down the stretch, left them all behind and won by a length from Somerset, which nosed out Kumonin.

SAM LORCH UPSETS FORM AT PEORIA

Captures the Sixth, Paying $56 —Second Choices and Long Shots Sweep Card.

PEORIA, Ill., July 2 (AP).—Second choices and long shots took all the events on the card of the Peoria Jockey Club's second day of racing. In the sixth Sam Lorch, paying 56 to win, $15 for the place and $9.60 to show, sprang the biggest upset of the day. A crowd of 6,000 people enjoyed the day's races. Fine weather prevailed.

Scratched—Faddy.

Jenny Dean was away fast. She displayed a world of speed and drew away to win nicely in hand. Durie M. went wide all the way, but showed good speed. Negotiator was up to gain the show in the last stride. Lena Rinehart closed fast. Arsacid was in close quarters all the way and never had a chance to run. Ibby was outrun.

Scratched—Harry Baker, Saratoga Maje, Joe Marrone II, Silver Song, Haut et Bon, Husky Van, Golden Argosy, Immolator, Powhatan, Little Asbestos, Crossfire and Alldin.

Superlette closely followed the early pace to the stretch, where she dashed into the lead and won easing up. Genuine, away fast, set the pace and was next best. Flagstaff was outrun in the early part, but closed with a rush and outgamed Quatrain for the show. Quatrain broke well, but ran on the outside to the stretch. He then went over to the rail and finished on the inside. Loved One closed a big gap. Green Dragon had early speed.

Cartoonist was much the best. He handled his weight well and raced High Star into submission. He drew out in the stretch, but was ridden out at the end. High Star displayed a world of speed and held on gamely. Golden Spire ran an improved race. He closed with a rush. Patricia J. had no excuse. Nomad ran a good race.

Danby, away well, raced McAuliffe into submission and then stood off the determined rush of Traveller. He pulled up in good condition. Traveller was badly outrun to the stretch, but closed fast. He hung slightly at the end, however. McAuliffe tired chasing the pace. He was a very weary horse at the finish. Clique closed a big gap.

Glorianes, away last, worked her way up. She closed fast and won going away. Somerset took the lead in the stretch, but weakened in the last sixteenth and just lasted to save the place. Kumonin, in close quarters to the final furlong, closed fast. Freehand had plenty of speed, but quit badly. Bagdad had no excuse. Donnelly was outrun from the start.

BETTING CLASH LOOMS IN CHICAGO OPENING

Injunction Threatened Against State's Attorney on Eve of 31-Day Meet at New Course.

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP).—Robert M. Sweitzer, County Clerk and President of the new Illinois Jockey Club, threatened today to seek and injunction to prevent Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, from interefering with betting at the opening tomorrow of the thirty-one-day race meeting at the new $1,750,000 Washington Park course. The threat was contained in a formal statement issued by Sweitzer, who said the Jockey Club had no desire to violate the law.

"But if we think it necessary, we will go into court today and let the courts decide the merits of the case," the statement said. "The Jockey Club, which will stage the $100,000 American Derby a week from tomorrow, intends to operate the certificate mutuel form of speculation.

"Our attorneys tell us our plans are within the law. We are only seeking the good-will of the people. The Aurora plan, where the modified mutuels were used, has met with favor throughout the State, and is apparently legal, as no public official has tried to stop it."

The State's Attorney replied by reiterating his previous assertions that the certificate form of wagering is a law violation, that he would use every means to prevent its operation and that he would have ninety-three men at the track tomorrow with orders to make arrests if there is open betting.

Post and Paddock

There is a wide difference of opinion as to what horse will win the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct this afternoon. It was the principal subject of conversation at the clubhouse yesterday and everyone had a theory. When the entry list appeared it was seen that all the hopeless ones had been scared out, leaving only Light Carbine of the ones who were not conceded a chance.

Samuel D. Riddle holds a powerful hand with his Man o' Wars Crusader and Dress Parade, and while the former takes up top weight of 123 pounds the stable has Dress Parade under 108 to cut out a killing pace. Still one cannot get away from the fact that Espino was left in the Belmont and at that had had Crusader straight to beat him a length.

Chance Play is an enigma and the question is can he get the mile and a half under 120 pounds? He will have Maiben up and that will be an improvement over the temperamental McTaggart.

Earl Sande will ride Crusader, while Laverne Fator will pilot the other Riddle representative. Alfred Johnson will not be in the picture, for he and Mr. Riddle have come to the parting of the ways, it was learned late yesterday afternoon.

Quatrain is improving in temperament with every race. He broke like any other horse yesterday, ran a good race and finished fourth. He may yet earn his oats in the Greentree Stable.

GARNER'S RIDE WINS FOR PIGEON WING II

Willie Hugs Rail in Fifth and Mount Beats Teak Handily at Latonia.

TAKES THREE RACES IN ROW

Also Has a Second and Two Thirds —Acirema Triumphs and Pays $92.40 for $2.

LATONIA, Ky., July 2 (AP).—Pigeon Wing II won another race here when he beat Teak handily in the fifth today after a clever bit of riding on the part of Willie Garner, who had the mount. Pigeon Wing II was not heavily played because of his propensity for running out at the stretch turn, but Garner proved a strong, capable taskmaster and held his mount close to the rail. Garner was on his toes all day. He rode three straight winners, a second and two thirds. Acirema won the second race at $92.40 for $2.

KAUFMANN BEATEN BY WILLIE SPENCER

American Bike Star Thrills 12,000 by Winning Match Event at the Velodrome.

RACE GOES TO THREE HEATS

Victor Rides Around Champion in the Last Two—Kaufmann Fined for Tactics in the Third.

Willie Spencer, Newark sprinter and twice bicycle champion of America, defeated Ernest Kaufmann, the bicycle champion of the world, in two out of three heats of a one-mile match race at the New York Velodrome last night before a crowd of 12,000 fans. Kaufmann won the first heat, but Spencer came back and took the second and third heats.

Kaufmann rode from in front when he won the initial heat and led Spencer over the tape by about six inches. Spencer rode around the world's champion in the second heat and won by a very small margin, while in the third heat he again rode around Kaufmann and won by open lengths. Kaufmann was fined $10 in this heat by Referee Kramer for not holding the pole.

Robert Grassin, motor-paced champion of the world, paced by "dare devil" Jimmy Hunter, riding in a brilliant manner, won the 30-mile motor-paced race after a hard battle with Charley Jaeger. Jaeger made repeated attempts to get around Grassin but failed. Francesco Zucchetti of Italy, finished third. Victor Hopkins of Davenport, Iowa, was fourth, and Clarence Carman of Jamaica, L. I., finished fifth. The time was 43 minutes 1 3-5 seconds.

The summaries:

Half-mile Handicap (Amateur)—Won by Thomas Moran, Unione Sportiva Italiana (65 yards); Joseph Ellman, Young Men's Hebrew Club (50 yards), second; Fred Hamel, Bronx County Wheelmen (90 yards), third; William Clark, East Orange (50 yards), fourth; William Wood, Newark (65 yards), fifth. Time—0:54.

WHY CONGRESS DISAPPOINTS.

So far as its work is concerned, it matters little whether this session of Congress is able to close up and adjourn tonight or lingers on for a few days more. Nothing which it now does can change essentially the material for judgment which it has given the country. The verdict will not depend wholly upon the list of things done or undone, the bills passed or the bills defeated. On that score alone the record is not so bad. Congress has enacted a little good legislation and has prevented a great deal of bad. In the matter of the proposed measures for the special benefit of agriculture, it let the country off quite luckily. On a balance of this sort, the session would deserve no little credit.

Where Congress has failed is in the realm of what may be called the intangibles of statesmanship. These escape mere statistical exhibits, parallel columns of bills enacted and bills killed, and the like. Behind such things there is always the question whether Congress has been able to impress the nation as a body able intelligently to transact its business, to be reasonably efficient and prompt, to know where it is going, to exhibit coherence and power in party discipline, to bring forward and follow competent leadership, to raise the note of public life, to command the respect of the people even if it cannot compel their admiration. Judged by such tests—and they are not exacting—this session of Congress came short. Too often it gave an impression of futile wasting of time, empty beating of the air, an enormous output of words to cover o exiguous performance. Such faults, and others that it would be easy to name, have unquestionably caused the country to grow weary of the continuance of Congress in session, and to wish it, and the people, a speedy release from its labors.

GRANITE STATE MODERATION.

Former Governor BASS, of Progressive fame, will be a candidate against Senator MOSES in the New Hampshire Republican primary. Both have answered a questionnaire sent by Senator REED in behalf of his investigating committee. It is understood that the same questions will be asked of all contesting aspirants for Senatorial nominations. So Senator BUTLER, whom nobody will oppose in the Massachusetts Republican primary, and Mr. DAVID I. WALSH, who seems curiously bashful of struggling again as the Democratic candidate, won't have to satisfy the committee's inquisitiveness. Mr. MOSES says that he has spent no money personally save for postage and traveling expenses to and from Washington, and that no member of his family or anybody else has spent a cent in his behalf except his campaign committee, which will report.

Nobody has sent him any campaign contributions. Nobody has been personally employed by him to help in his canvass. The campaign committee is unpaid. No organization in or out of the State is helping him, nor any business concern with which he or any of his family is connected. His campaign is conducted with no reference to any other "ticket" or "slate." His "literature" consists of one pamphlet, a copy of which he encloses. We hope, but wouldn't like to bet, that "JIM" will read it. Mr. BASS replies substantially the same, but with more detail and with a just appreciation of his own virtue. He was the first candidate for public office in New Hampshire who published campaign expenditures before such publication was required by law.

When he ran for Governor in 1910, he published his expenses before the primary as well as after. A more effectual Corrupt Practices act was passed under his Governorship. New Hampshire primary candidates for Senator may not spend more than $1,000. There is no limit to the expenditures of a campaign committee. There must be no Pennsylvania "money debauch" in New Hampshire, but Mr. BASS represents "vital" issues, "agricultural" included. He sends Senator REED seven pieces of "literature," all too many for that busy soul. As the representative of "vital" policies, he feels the responsibility for getting the facts before the voters. "Most of the expenses of my "campaign will be for that purpose. "The exact extent will depend upon "the obstacles with which I may have "to contend in that task. The amount "spent will in any event be moderate "and for legitimate purposes."

So Mr. BASS, who is wealthy, promises to be "moderate." The "horrible example" of Pennsylvania is likely to enforce moderation in other States, and the Reed questionnaire was sent in good time. It has been the New Hampshire habit to elude the purpose of the Corrupt Practices act, which was meant to insure a complete detailed accounting of all expenses made in behalf of primary candidates for Senator. Such candidates, required to give only the expenditures between the time when their candidacies were filed with the Secretary of State and the primary, could spend a heap of money before that filing and report insignificant amounts spent in the Summer months. This year, apparently, the books will be opened and the whole transaction spread upon them. So Pennsylvania will have an involuntary hand in keeping New Hampshire straight.

THE RAILWAY "RECAPTURE CLAUSE."

The most difficult of all questions involved in applying the Transportation act of 1920 has now come definitely before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The case of a small private railway, known as the St. Louis & O'Fallon, presents a particularly clear-cut instance of the problems involved in the "recapture clause." The act of 1920, after stipulating that transportation rates should be so fixed as to yield a "fair return" on the "aggregate property value" of the railways, and after providing that such aggregate value "shall be deter-"mined by the commission from time "to time and as often as may be nec-"essary," decrees further that whenever a railway shall earn more than 6 per cent. of the value thus computed, one-half of the excess shall go to the company's reserve fund and the remainder shall be "recoverable by and paid to the commission," for use in a contingent fund.

It turned out, as was inevitable, that the valuing of railway property was an enormous task. Computed originally on the basis of 1914 prices for materials, such valuation still had to take account of subsequent additions to property. But before any calculation of increase in value during a given period could be completed, the lapse of time requisite for the investigation would have made possible further large additions to the property. Valuations were, therefore, always behindhand and always "tentative." In a public address of last December one of the commission's supervisors of valuations admitted that, "so far, no "very extensive work has been done "on bringing valuations to date."

In the adjustment of rates to a "fair return" the railways, therefore, had to take their chances. But the case was somewhat different when it came to an actual money payment assessed upon a carrier. In proportion as its lawful property valuation had been increased through recent additions and improvements, a railway earning more than 6 per cent. was entitled to still larger earnings without being subjected to equivalent increase in the amount "recaptured" by the Government. But this made extremely difficult the assessment of payments under the "recapture clause." Taking this small road as an available leading case, one of the Interstate Commerce Commission's examiners advised a "short cut" to the determination of the payment. Even with the St. Louis & O'Fallon, the "tentative valuation" had not been brought down to date, but he recommended use of the inventory of 1919 at the prices of 1914, with allowance for subsequent additions to capital account, as the basis for assessing payment due for subsequent years.

In the hearing before the commission the entire question of lawful valuation as of a given date came up. Counsel for the railway contested the basing of calculation on the 1919 inventory, asserting that only complete valuation as of a given period would constitute a lawful basis for fixing the "recapture payment" for that period. Counsel for other companies maintained that even full capital investment was not an accurate measure of property value; that "cost of repro-"duction must be ascertained and at "least given substantial consideration." Thus a phase of the question, long contested before the courts in other controversies over railways and public utilities, is finally made an issue. The argument necessarily affects the entire procedure which the act of 1920 based on property valuation. As affecting the "recapture payment" alone, the examiner's proposal is squarely challenged by the assertion, first, as a legal principle, that "you are not in a "position to say that a carrier owes "you money until you have deter-"mined its value," and, second, as an admitted fact, that the proposed valuation, if applied to recent years, could not pursue the method prescribed by the act of 1920.

The commission's decision will no doubt be based on its own view of the legal considerations as brought out in the hearing. But it is highly probable that in case of a ruling against the company, the controversy will be carried, as a leading case, to the Federal courts. Involving as it does a contested money payment, it may bring about the final judicial determination of the procedure in valuation, which apparently cannot be obtained on the less definite question of rates adjusted to provide a "fair return."

DIRECT STRIKE METHODS.

Forty thousand garment workers are on strike against the principle of arbitration. More than five hundred motormen and switchmen have seceded from the Brotherhood of I. R. T. Employes and threaten a strike for Monday against the same principle. The garment workers have rejected the findings of the Governor's Advisory Commission. This was based on a conscientious study of trade conditions extending over a period of two years and recommended a considerable wage increase. The owners of the large "inside" shops have made a new offer of arbitration without result as yet. It is apparently the view of the garment workers that conditions in their industry have reached the intolerable pass where only the direct method of the strike can bring relief. The Governor's commission has been far from blind to the existence of undesirable conditions, but has proceeded on the assumption that the methods of conference and compromise which once before lifted the industry out of chaos may again be successfully invoked. The union leaders have decided otherwise.

In the case of the I. R. T. employes the community is certainly not aware of the existence of any intolerable situation. The secessionists have presented demands for pay increase amounting to 33 per cent. in the case of the motormen and 25 per cent. for the switchmen. Today any strike for higher wages, in order to justify itself before public opinion, must show one of two things. Either the cost of living has been going up to such an extent as to make the existing wage scale impossible, or else the profits of the employer have been so impressive that in all fairness the employes should receive their share. In the case of the Interborough the second hypothesis is comic. Last January, in the course of a hearing on its application for leave to issue a large block of new bonds, Transit Commissioner HARKNESS remarked: "If a receivership is inevitable, it might be advisable, &c." Striking for higher pay against a corporation living under the shadow of a receivership is an exercise in humor.

As for the cost of living, it is a commonplace that during the last two years the price index has been fairly steady. Existing wages under such conditions do not imply a prima facie hardship. The least that the dissident I. R. T. employes can do is to quote figures showing that they constitute an exception to the figures for wages in the country as a whole. These show that the purchasing power of wages in 1925 was 137 per cent. as compared with 1913, and that they had risen to that point from 115 in 1922. Yet the main question is whether such claims as a body of employes feel justified in formulating shall be made the subject of amicable examination, as the I. R. T. Brotherhood decided on Wednesday, or shall be enforced with the strike weapon, nearly always a nuisance and particularly so in the case of a prime public utility.

STEPHEN FOSTER'S CENTENARY.

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of STEPHEN FOSTER will be celebrated in various parts of the country today, tomorrow and Monday. In Bardstown, Ky., where he composed "My Old Kentucky Home," five former Governors of the State, a quartet from Louisville and a military band will honor his memory. His birthday will be observed here in the Bowery, where he spent the last years of his life, with a program of Foster songs.

He was a minstrel whose fame, grown world-wide since his death in 1864, was great even during his lifetime. Companies of soldiers during the Civil War, burnt-cork "Harmonists" and "Ethiopian Melodists," children and lovers and old folks sang his songs with pleasure in their sentimental words and simple melodies. A United States Senator eulogized him in the grandiloquent language still observed in Senatorial utterances. Such forgotten lyrics as "Little Belle Blair," bewailing the departure from this world of "gentle fingers," were sung with happy tears. A fastidious musical critic of the time wrote that despite the suggestiveness of the title, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," the song was inoffensive. His publishers announced that "Old Dog Tray" sold 125,000 copies during the first eighteen months of its existence.

Of the great number of songs he wrote a few have survived. The pale ballads that are no longer remembered would be as long as a Mahler symphony if they were laid end to end. The poignant negro melodies and folksongs still beloved have actually encircled the globe. It is said that with the exception of one song, "Old Folks at Home" is the most widely known in the world. BAYARD TAYLOR tells of hearing a wandering Hindu minstrel sing it in India. "Oh, Susannah," has been so extensively used by German composers that the natives of Berlin would be astonished to learn that one of their favorite tunes originated in the breast of a Pennsylvanian. This lively banjo tune has been very popular recently because it was used as a theme for the musical accompaniment of "The Covered Wagon." It represents to us the whole atmosphere of the '40s and '50s.

We can scarcely regret that such mournful absurdities as "Lulu Has Gone" have been replaced by the frank, healthy "Don't Bring Lulu" of today. But there is a continuing charm in the genuine and simple emotions evoked by backwoods elegies and poetic pictures of far-away days. In FOSTER's negro songs there are no harsh masters, no Simon Legrees, no dreaded bloodhounds. There is not much variety in his melodic formulas, and his harmonies are monotonous. But there is the appeal to human affections and remembered childhood happiness. STEPHEN FOSTER plucked a deep chord when he sang of the days "when my heart was young and gay." It vibrates still.

FORT WASHINGTON.

A generous gift by Mr. RODMAN WANAMAKER has put the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, founded by the Father of Greater New York, ANDREW H. GREEN, in possession of a plot 75 feet by 200 feet, a part of the original site of Fort Washington. For twenty years effort has been made to secure this historic ground, threatened by the advance of apartment houses northward on Manhattan Island. They now look down upon it from two sides, but it has been saved at last and turned over to the society which so jealously and faithfully guards the past. It is a happy coincidence that the gift comes at this moment, for it was just 150 years ago that the fort was constructed. It was begun in June and completed during the Summer, some of the work under the personal observation of General WASHINGTON and all of it in accordance with a survey, it is said, by ALEXANDER HAMILTON, then a junior officer of artillery. The fort then had a view of the high road on the east, overlooked the river on the west and commanded approaches from the south, being the highest point on Manhattan Island.

It lost its name for a time, for after its capture by the Hessians in November of 1776 it was rechristened "Fort Knyphausen"; but that name was soon forgotten in the one by which it was originally christened and which now holds the site in perpetuity, in memory of the great leader in the struggle for independence and in the building of a new nation. It should be marked some day by an adequate memorial. For the moment it is enough that the ground itself is to be kept in memory. The city has reason to be grateful not only to Mr. WANAMAKER, but to the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, which has recently secured also the Hamilton Grange property, once the home of ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

HIGH COST OF NEWS FROM THE ORIENT.

There will be disappointment in this country over the decision of the Japanese Government not to permit the reduction of press rates on messages between the United States and Japan for the next five years. The reason given is that the Japanese Government feels that the present cable and radio facilities are not sufficient to bear the increased traffic that would result from lower rates. It also thinks that a new sending station cannot be built for at least five years. But these reasons are not altogether convincing. The suggested reduction was from about 30 cents to about 10 cents a word. Although this would doubtless result in increased business, it is difficult to see why it would necessarily overwork the stations. While the cost of a new station would be high, there is little doubt that outside help could be obtained not only in financing but in operating it. It was recently reported that a group of Japanese papers were willing to defray part of the expense and hoped to interest Americans in the enterprise. In fact, our newspaper publishers were ready and eager to join them. American radio interests have repeatedly sought to obtain concessions for the erection of a station on Japanese territory.

Japan's caution in all these matters is readily understandable. The military party in that country is of the opinion that the Government must exercise jealous supervision over the erection and use of all radio stations in Japan. But in opposing reduction of press rates the Government apparently fails to see the benefits to be derived from making possible frequent and full interchange of news. This is impossible so long as the present high cable rates are in force. It is hard for Americans to understand why some arrangement could not be made whereby the Japanese Government could maintain complete control over all radio stations on Japanese territory and yet permit the receipt and dispatch of press messages at reasonable rates. This system would have so many obvious advantages for Japan that to postpone action upon it for five years seems to be short-sighted.

A FOURTH OF JULY RELAPSE.

Two items in one day's news remind us of the danger of slipping back from the idea of a safe and sane Fourth of July. The Commissioner of Health has distributed in advance to all parts of the city anti-tetanus remedies. This is only common prudence, but what does it imply? Plainly, that the city ordinances against the use of explosives in streets and houses are not to be enforced—or, at least, obeyed. The other significant statement is that firecrackers and torpedoes are already being set off in various sections of Greater New York and that the police pass by looking the other way.

Things of this sort have been occurring with greater frequency year after year. The story from suburban towns is very like that of the cities. It indicates a spirit of lawlessness in this matter, which is all the more surprising because it so often imperils the health or lives of the lawbreakers themselves. If the thing goes on, we shall soon again have the long list of Independence Day casualties. The better custom of observance which had been supposed to be well established is being broken down. There is nothing for it but to cling to the old program, to enforce the laws and ordinances rigorously and to endeavor in every way to create a supporting public opinion which will make a full return to the old and irrational and destructive methods of celebrating the Fourth of July impossible.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Workers Now Own Automobiles.

Speaking for the settlement workers of the United States, Mrs. MARY K. SIMKHOVICH told the other workers of that kind gathered in Paris that American prosperity is now too great. The result is that the groups formerly gathered around the settlement houses no longer are stable enough to permit the continuance of the familiar forms of social service.

It hardly seems to be a cause for real regret that the laboring folk of the country get such good pay that they can go where they choose—often far away from the settlement houses—and can help themselves to the satisfaction of their wants and needs.

The automobile was mentioned by Mrs. SIMKHOVICH as playing its part in this new development. As everybody has noticed, though rather less in New York City than in smaller towns and the country, many workers in the better paid trades now own their own cars, and use them partly in getting to and from work and partly for pleasure. Why this should cause so much surprise it would be hard to explain. Perhaps it is enough to say that this phenomenon is something quite new in the world, and the unfamiliar always excites criticism from those who on principle object to changes from established customs.

The working man's car is often an added tool of his trade and not a mere extravagance. When it is not a "flivver" it is apt to be a better car bought second-hand at a price that frequently is remarkably low.

A New Lease of Life for Bananas.

From Florida comes the report that Dr. T. J. HARRIS, chief agronomist of the Melbourne Farms Company, has succeeded in making the banana produce fertile seeds. He has done it by crossing the red and yellow varieties and subjecting the progeny to the influences of a somewhat colder climate.

This news, if true, is of importance. It long has been realized by botanists that the banana was a doomed plant. To be sure, it has managed to get along fairly well for many hundreds of years without producing seeds and propagating only in what is called the vegetative way. That, however, judging from the experience with other plants, cannot go on forever. After a while they deteriorate—"run out," as the saying is—and in that manner many once famous varieties of fruits and vegetables have disappeared from the market.

In every banana, when carefully examined, can be seen rudimentary but quite worthless seeds. So far as known hitherto, real fertilization has ceased for this plant, possibly due to the extermination of the one insect capable of carrying its peculiar pollen from flower to flower. If Dr. HARRIS has succeeded in rendering this service for the banana plant he has created the possibility not only of prolonging indefinitely its threatened existence, but of improving it otherwise than by giving it more food and better care. The banana, as we have it, is clear waste from the standpoint of the plant that produces it, and plants will not go on doing that forever.

His Preference Hard to Explain.

Who told the consulting engineer who contributed to the trolley-bus controversy on this page yesterday that the bus "has amply demonstrated its ability to handle transportation on a large scale"? He cannot have learned that by observation, nor is the weight of engineering authority in support of any such contention. On the contrary, experience and theory alike are against it—against any claim except that the bus has its use as a feeder for more efficient forms of transportation service and on routes of light traffic.

This correspondent wrote with bitterness about the dreadful noises made by trolley cars as they clatter through streets. But these annoyances are not essential to trolley cars or unavoidable in their use. All of them can be prevented, and would be, (a) if properly stern regulations as to maintenance were enforced on the companies, and (b) if the companies were not starved by undue restrictions on the fares they can charge.

Trolley managers too often have thought only of the immediate dollar and ignored the cultivation of popular good-will. Now they are getting their reward, but just the same the bus is no substitute for the trolley car for long, fast and crowded service.

Mr. Coolidge With the Rod Again.

President COOLIDGE will have an opportunity to qualify as a disciple of IZAAK WALTON during his vacation in the Adirondacks. On the eve of it he corrects an impression that his remarks a year ago about angling in the Potomac Tidal Basin were adverse to a time-honored sport. He simply meant that adepts with the rod would find little to attract them there.

The President seems to have resented the charge that he thought fishing is not a man's diversion. Now he wants it understood that he thinks it has its thrills and is also a philosopher's sport. If there are good "holes" in the lakes about the Summer White House in the Adirondacks, he will wet a line himself.

If Mr. COOLIDGE used such an expression, he must have fished for trout in his native brooks at Plymouth when a barefoot boy. The biographers say nothing about it, but he could hardly have escaped the call to take down the bamboo and dig a can of worms behind the barn when the haying season was past. The President has received so many letters protesting against the Tidal Basin interview that he sees the angling vote is not to be despised. One can wish him no better luck on his vacation than a fight to a finish with a three-pound bass.

OLD YACHTING PICTURE

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Seabury Lawrence's vivid description of Vanitie and Resolute racing off Newport stirs me up in this hill country, where on a clear day from the highest hill I can see Long Island Sound, like a ribbon from Great Neck to Wading River and further. I see the yachts of thirty, forty years ago, and almost smell the salt air.

Mr. Lawrence's picture of the schooners, with their Marconi and staysail rigs, with sea sleds gamboling round them like porpoises, sets me going and I must send you a yacht picture that I saw from East Island a good many years ago.

One morning Galatea anchored off Larchmont. My young brother rowed across the Sound and after looking her over brought back word that she was a fine ship, high-sided, heavily rigged and seaworthy looking, but they did not believe she could win against Mayflower. A day or so after this, word came to the house that Puritan and Mayflower were coming along from the westward, bound for Boston, where Mayflower was to be tuned up for the cup races.

There they were, in the middle of the Sound, off the Scotch Caps, drifting along in the light northerly air, well on the Westchester shore. It was interesting to see the two together—white Puritan, Mayflower pot-leaded, with some white showing. They were close hauled, carrying working topsails and not making much headway. The morning was brilliant, the dying down of a northwester. Blue streaks were showing along the Westchester and Connecticut shores and here and there in the Sound. On the Long Island side it was a flat calm.

They must have scented the coming southerly wind, for they gradually worked their way over to the Long Island shore. I watched them through the glass and saw the southerly strike them. In the freshing wind Mayflower took the lead. In the last look I had of them they were heeling well over (Mayflower seemed the more tender). They were then about off Eaton's Neck and making great headway, Mayflower to windward and well ahead, canvas showing blue in the distance, going like racehorses for home.

Political Future of Mr. Mills.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our representatives in the Senate and House should be capable of debating with a fellow-member without using abusive language.

In debating an issue on the floor Representative Rankin's abusive language against Mills showed lack of self-control, and Representative Mills is to be admired for retiring to his seat without retaliating. Since Representative Mills has been in office he has worked faithfully for the good of the people, and his record warrants his nomination for Governor this Fall by the Republican Party, and with his intellectual capacity and political training he should in future time make a promising candidate for President of the United States.

Flag for the Park Band-Stand.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I again appeal for the placing of the American flag in some appropriate place in the band-stand of Central Park for the Goldman concerts, as it is on the New York University Campus? This beautiful emblem should be displayed for the proper inspiration and love for our institutions, and every American and even foreigners under its spreading wings should honor and be proud of it. May appropriate action for its appearance in the band-stand be made soon.

BOY IN BLUE.

Little sailor, faring forth
On the sea of life,
Let us hope that you'll be
Victor in the strife.

Everything's before you,
Radiant in the sun—
Laugh and make the most of it—
Then the victory's won.

I'm too old for shipping, lad—
Snugly tucked ashore—
I must watch the ships go out
Now—and evermore.

You're just on the verge of it—
Sailing down the blue—
I'll be with the stay-at-homes—
But here's good luck to you.

RIGHT OF CHILE DEFENDED.

Tacna and Arica Held as Pledge for War Debt Never Paid.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES today there appears an article titled "In Defense of Peru," and, as an old-time resident of both Peru and Chile, will you permit me to give you the truthful version of the Tacna-Arica dispute?

I have been a resident of those countries for more than twenty years and personally know the territory in dispute, which, I may say here, is valueless. The nitrate-producing territory belonged to Bolivia, but Tacna and Arica do not produce enough of anything to keep even a small farm going. They are barren wastes with no future. Where land exists there is no water, and where a small amount of water does exist there is no appreciable land. Most of this territory is composed of sand dunes and arid hills and mountains.

By the war of 1879 Chile took these provinces to guarantee the indemnity agreed on. Whether the seizure was right or not is a different matter; the facts remain that Chile won the war, and in order to reimburse herself for some of the expense seized the two provinces. These two provinces could have been redeemed by the payment of a certain sum of money, but this was never forthcoming. Chile waited a long time in the hope of receiving some ready cash, but this never appeared.

After more than a reasonable time of waiting (not through generosity or altruism but because the territory is valueless) Chile proceeded to improve to a certain degree the town of Arica. Chile fortified the hill overlooking the town, installed a wireless station, interested capital (British) and built a railroad, making the most direct route of outlet for Bolivian products, and made and carried out other minor improvements. Chile policed and governed the inhabitants, taught them order and discipline, opened a few schools with Chilean teachers, and as a natural consequence all law and sentiments began to incline toward Chilean fashions and ideas. This town of Arica is today what it is entirely because of Chilean administration. Chile did the work and spent the money.

Withal, Arica is insignificant and cannot in truth be considered a city. Properly speaking, it is a good village. Tacna does not count a particle.

Peru had the time necessary to get the money and pay up before Arica was actually built up and improved. Why are the Peruvians so anxious for the place now? Peru has hundreds of places called towns and cities which have not even the beginning of civilization. They will not improve these.

Tacna and Arica may be fairly compared with a property mortgaged to a bank. If the debt is not paid at its proper time the mortgage is foreclosed, and that is the end of the transaction. It certainly would be a strange state of affairs if, after the bank built up and remodeled the foreclosed-mortgage parcel, the original owner again claimed his property right and insisted on taking possession of the property, with all its improvements, free of cost.

I do not like Chileans. I prefer Peruvians in many ways. But what is right is right. It is a foregone conclusion that both countries are not right, and it is also a well-known fact that sincerity of purpose and good faith are completely lacking. Nevertheless, in my estimation Chile is in the right in the present case.

Would Have Trolleys Near Curb.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of your correspondents wrote: "The day of the surface cars in New York is over, as with the increasing traffic it is almost impossible to get on one without danger." Give a dog a bad name! We New Yorkers have an ancient and no doubt legitimate grudge against the surface-car companies. Our favorite venture is the time-honored one of biting off our own nose to feed an ancient spite against our face. But if your correspondent would seek the cause of the danger she writes of, she would not find it in the surface car, nor the remedy in "getting rid of them." If we had the queer habit, as we have with surface cars, of making the users of buses and autos walk out nearly to the middle of the street to enter them, they, too, would become impossible to get on without danger. Our present allotment of the traffic lanes in our streets, especially in our long avenues where there are car tracks, seems irrational, dangerous and hideously wasteful and costly.

A more practical step than getting rid of the surface cars on the long avenues, I venture to say, would be to shift their tracks to the alleys running alongside each curb.

Three Cheers for "Jerry" Smith.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now, boys, let's give three cheers for "Jerry" Smith of Boston. All Americans may be justly proud of him. He did a real job in restoring Hungarian finances. Even though a man of modest means, he refused compensation for his arduous labors and the two years spent at the task.

Jeremiah Smith is a lawyer. He is the type of attorney one thinks of when the calling is referred to as a noble and honored profession. There are many such in the ranks of lawyers, who are ever ready to take up the cause of the needy without any thought of personal gain or advancement; however, their deeds are usually unheralded.

The unselfish work of Jeremiah Smith will long be remembered and again proves to the world that we have in our midst men who think of other things than material gain.

The undersigned is happy, indeed, to be a member of the profession whose highest traditions are exemplified in the life of Jeremiah Smith.

Age Limit for Policemen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Civil Service Commission is advertising for applicants for the position of patrolman, Police Department, City of New York. The age limits are given as 21 to 29. These limit the applicants to mere boys, which is all wrong, a serious defect and the cause of many abuses in law enforcement. The job of patrolman is a responsible one, frequently requiring mature judgment in dealing with law violators of both sexes. Such judgment is not found in youths of from 21 to 29 years of age. The age limits should be from 30 to 50.

If you look up the record you will find that it is generally the youthful members who commit acts that bring discredit on the Police Department. It seems to me that if men are good enough for the United States Army up to the age of 46, they ought to be good enough for the Police Department of the City of New York.

Another thing is that in appointments to the Police Department preference should be given to married men.

TEACHERS PUT SPORT IN SECONDARY PLACE

Philadelphia Meeting Urges That Athletics Must Not Overshadow Scholarship.

ENDORSE CURTIS-REED BILL

Deploring Crime Wave, Educators Call Upon Parents to Assist School Training.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—The National Education Association ended its sixty-fourth annual convention today with the adoption of resolutions covering a wide range of subjects, some of which had not before been dealt with by the organization.

The teachers agreed that athletics must not be allowed to overshadow scholarship in school life; that the exchange of teachers and students between countries should be encouraged, as an aid to international peace; that literacy tests should be applied to immigrants and would-be voters; that Congress should prohibit interstate commerce in obscene literature and pictures; that teachers should be protected from "outside agencies" seeking to use the school system for their own particular ends; that books should be admitted to the mails on the same basis as periodicals, and that the schools must constantly teach respect for law as a means of checking crime and lawlessness.

At the same time the teachers reaffirmed their stands of previous years in opposition to child labor and illiteracy and urged the enactment of the Curtis-Reed bill, which would place a Secretary of Education in the Cabinet.

The resolution on athletics called for entire control of sports by school and college authorities and placing sports secondary to scholarship.

The resolution on crime deplored the present disrespect for law and called upon parents to assume their responsibility in the citizenship training of their children.

Another resolution expressed satisfaction at recent steps which "help to raise teaching to the dignity of a real profession," among them the improvement in teachers' training facilities; the higher professional requirements, the longer high school tenure and many successful pension and retirement laws.

In endorsing the international exchange of professors, teachers and students, the association pointed out that "each individual who has this experience in another country will return to his native land with friendships made and understandings secure. These will arm him effectively against idle and poisonous propaganda."

The Board of Directors gave a "preferential vote" today in favor of holding the 1927 convention in Seattle, but the final decision will not be made until the Executive Committee meets in October.

ORDERS AUTOS TO SPEED UP

Pennsylvania Decrees Slow Ones Must Go Faster or Get Out of Line.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2 (AP).—Orders to make slow motorists move faster or get out of line on crowded highways were issued to the police of the State Highway Motor Patrol by W. H. Connell, Acting Secretary of Highways, today.

The order applies only to open roads where no danger to pedestrians will result from vehicles moving from twenty-five to thirty miles an hour.

In issuing the order, Mr. Connell noted that "an analysis of the accidents on the State highway system indicates that a great many of them are due to slow-moving vehicles which block traffic on heavily traveled roads, compelling drivers to pass who do not have time to trail vehicles traveling at ten or fifteen miles an hour."

EXHIBITS ARNOLD MANSION.

Philadelphia Exposition Features House Bought for Bride in 1779.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—The Mount Pleasant Mansion in Fairmount Park, which was bought in 1779 by Benedict Arnold as a wedding gift to his bride-to-be, Miss Peggy Shippen, will play a conspicuous part in the observance of the 150th anniversary of American independence.

Restored and filled with priceless articles of furniture and works of art of the period, the house, one of the finest specimens of Georgian architecture remaining in this country, is to be open to private view today. Beginning tomorrow, it will be open to the public as a feature of the Sesquicentennial Exposition.

GETS HARVARD FELLOWSHIP.

Seattle Man Wins Research Honor to Study Industrial Relations.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 2 (AP).—The Jacob Wertheim Research Fellowship for the betterment of industrial relationships has been awarded by Harvard University to F. P. Foisie of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Foisie, who was graduated from Harvard in 1912, will study relations among waterfront workers. For the past six years he has been industrial relations manager of the waterfront employers of Seattle. The Wertheim Fellowship was established in 1923 with an endowment of $100,000.

LORD HOPE TO SELL CASTLE

Former Husband of May Yohe Finds Free State Living Too Costly.

BELFAST, July 2 (AP).—Lord Francis Hope, once husband of May Yohe, the actress, has found it impossible with his restricted means to continue living in the Free State. He has consequently decided to sell Castle Blayney, near the Ulster border, and settle in England.

The castle in recent years was successively in the occupation of the "Black and Tans," the Republicans and the Free State forces.

$220,000 FOR JAMAICA BAY.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Army engineers have allotted $220,000 for improvements in Jamaica Bay, New York, and announced today that an additional sum of $300,000 will be reserved for continued work on that project.

The money will be spent on the main interior channel by New York City on a basis of local cooperation.

KENTUCKY BOY WINS THE MARBLE TITLE

Willis Harper, 11 Years Old, Is Country's New Champion—Defeats Danny Gore.

SETS A FEW NEW RECORDS

His High Runs Never Give Springfield Boy a Chance—Watch and Baseball Passes the Prizes.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—Displaying uncanny ability and breaking several world's records, Willis Harper, 11 years old, of Bevier, Ky., in the Southern soft coal fields, won the national marble championship title today in the fourth annual tournament here.

Winning five out of six games, he defeated Danny Gore, 14, of Springfield, Mass. Nine games were scheduled in the final test. But Harper got the majority at the end of the sixth.

The Kentucky boy ran 13 straight in two games, 12 straight in another, 9 and 10 in three others. Gore rarely had an opportunity to shoot.

The Springfield boy is tall and lanky, calm and slow of action, and shoots in correct form. Harper is given to strategy and sudden massacre. Short and plump and known as "Fatty," he slips his marble into the ring. Then, by marvelous reverse English control of his shooter, he kills off the marbles as efficiently as any tomahawk ever slaughtered pioneer Kentucky settlers.

The Southern boy won four straight games, lost the fifth and won the sixth. The scores, giving Harper's tally first, were 13 to 0, 13 to 0, 9 to 4, 13 to 0, 0 to 13 and 10 to 3.

Several thousand spectators packed the Boardwalk, the bands keeping up a bedlam of noise, which did not, however, seem to affect the two players.

Harper received a $100 watch and season passes to both the American and National League baseball games. Gore also received a $100 watch. Each league champion received a watch and the league runners-up each a silver cup.

25 RUSSIANS LAND; WILL STUDY TRACTORS

Aquitania Also Brings Mayor of Weymouth, Chauncey Olcott and Betty Blythe.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania were twenty-five Russians, graduates of the Union School of Technology at Moscow, who came here to attend the Ford School for Automotive Instruction at Highland Park, Mich.

The Russians told the immigration inspectors that they came from the agricultural classes in their country, and denied that they had any motive other than to study tractor machinery and tractor methods.

They were met at the pier by Leon Case, of Selskosojus, an American organization with offices at 90 West Street, representing a combine of agriculturalists of Russia, comprising 5,000,000 farms and 15,000,000 people.

Lord David Cecil, son of Lord Salisbury, nephew of Viscount Cecil and a grandson of the late Marquis of Salisbury, arrived on the Aquitania to spend two months traveling about the United States with a friend. He is a Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford University, and a lecturer on English history.

Percy A'Court, Mayor of Weymouth, England, who traces his name back to the Norman invasion of England, arrived on the liner to be present at the historical pageant at Weymouth, Mass., on July 3, 4 and 5. Among the gifts he brought for the younger town in Massachusetts were a silver mustard pot used by King George III, a silk banner and a portrait of Thomas Hardy.

Vhauncey Olcott, the actor, returned on the liner looking twenty-five pounds heavier. When he left six months ago his friends who saw him off were afraid he would never return because he was so ill.

Betty Blythe, the movie star, was also a passenger on the liner with her husband, Paul Scardon, returning after being abroad eighteen months. Her baggage consisted of eight trunks, six of which were sent to the Appraiser's Stores for valuation of goods purchased by the actress and her husband in the Near East. Among the articles were gems in antique settings bought in Damascus, Constantinople, Cairo and other Eastern cities.

Sir Henry Wood, the English concert director, arrived with Lady Wood to give eight concerts at Los Angeles in the Hollywood Bowl. He said that he had brought twenty compositions, some by Vaughan Williams, which had not been heard here before.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gimbel Sr. returned from a six months' tour through Europe and the Near East.

BERNSTEIN WINS POINT IN FORD LIBEL SUIT

Auto Maker's Plea to Name Commission to Examine Russians Abroad Denied.

Federal Judge A. N. Hand denied an application yesterday for the appointment of an open commission to examine a number of Russian monarchists and former officers in several foreign cities that was made by counsel for Henry Ford in the $200,000 libel action begun against Mr. Ford by Herman Bernstein, editor of The Jewish Tribune. The libel action was based on statements which appeared in The Dearborn Independent.

The application for the commission was made on the ground that testimony of the persons to be examined abroad was needed to justify certain of the statements printed in The Independent. These persons, it was said, were residents of Paris, Berlin, Belgrade and other cities, and among them are Father Vladimir Vostokov, General Loukomsky, General Klimovitch, A. P. Krivoshein and Boris Ivanitsky.

An affidavit presented by Mr. Bernstein says:

"It stands to reason that, with the defendant's unlimited means as against my extremely modest circumstances, innumerable methods can be devised having at least a semblance of judicial sanction for exerting pressure through the medium of untold wealth of defeating the ends of justice. Strangely enough, the present application for a sort of roving commission throughout Europe and the Balkans, while not seasonably made in so far as the antiquity of the action is concerned, is seasonably made in so far as the time of the year is concerned."

The libel action was begun in August, 1923.

STORMS AGAIN HALT DUGGAN'S AIR FLIGHT

Aviator Starts From Maraca Island for Para, but Is Forced Quickly to Return.

By BERNARD DUGGAN.

Argentine rights by La Nacion, Buenos Aires.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MARACA ISLAND, by Radio to PARA, Brazil, July 2.—Once again the storms have beaten us. At six o'clock this morning we began our interrupted flight from New York to Buenos Aires, but, as I feared, bad weather intervened and drove us back before we had been many miles out. When we shall get away I cannot say. The Buenos Aires is ready, her silver wings impatient for flight, but that is useless in the face of such perils as threatened us this morning.

Our disappointment is bitter, not only because of the delayed progress in our journey but because of this spot which is rightly named by the coast people "Hell," or, as we say in Spanish, "Infierno." The word is no exaggeration. The country is wild and pitiless. We can endure that. It is hot. We have been in hotter places. But the insects! There is one—they tell us its name is "caripana." It is making the house miserable. "Loathsome" is the only adjective which will describe it.

Olivero and myself have almost envied Campanelli, whose indefatigable labors on the seaplane since our arrival soon after noon yesterday have been some distraction for him from these pestiferous insects. We, too, have had our jobs, but not so strenuous as those of our mechanic, and we tell each other that he does not mind the "caripana." Campanelli laughs.

Storms have pursued us all the way from Para, forcing the tug Peorus to hug the shore and change her route in order to avoid the mighty seas which the violence of the weather has created. Otherwise our return journey calls for little comment.

When shall we be off again? The moment the weather permits. I have instructed the wireless people at Para to keep us informed of weather conditions at Chaves Macapa and at Para. The plane is in perfect order and Campanelli gives us four hours for the flight to Para. If only the storms will abate before the "caripana" have worried us to death. I thought the mosquitos which greeted us at Nickerie in Dutch Guiana were bad, but they were innocuous compared with these brutes.

ORDERS ALL DISARMED FOR MEXICAN ELECTIONS

Governor of Federal District Seeks to Avert Disorders Tomorrow—Frauds Reported.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—Sunday is election day for Congressmen and Senators, and the contest is expected to provoke many conflicts. The Governor of the Federal District, General Serrano, has ordered the complete disarmament of all citizens. No longer will "Colonel Colt" decide who wins the Congressional seats. This time the Mexican Government is determined, at least in the Federal District, to have the elections free from disorder.

This does not mean that the usual election frauds can be abolished, but the Police Department will try to prevent candidates and voters from shooting it out.

Mexico City will have a thoroughly dry election day, as orders have been issued that all saloons where liquor is sold must close from the night of July 3 until the morning of July 5. The penalty threatened for not closing is absolute loss of the license.

Reports from all parts of the republic indicate that the struggle between the various parties will be tense. Complaints are arriving daily from candidates to the effect that they have been threatened with death by their opponents and that the Governors of States are exerting pressure to enable their favorites to win. Four Governors have been reported to the Prosecutor charged with illegally influencing the elections and refusing to permit legal voting.

Secretary of Finance Albert Pani has proposed as an economy measure a cut in the number of Congressmen to 150. There are 300 at present.

Politicians do not believe that the idea of Pani will prevail. They say the Government needs the elements backing its policy at all times, and that it would be impossible if the number of Congressmen were reduced for the Government to count on a dependable majority.

SENTENCED FOR GIVING BOOK

Tea Room Owner Gets Indeterminate Term for Distributing Work.

Miss Evelyn Addams, 35 years old, of 38 Washington Square, proprietor of a tea room at 129 Macdougal Street, received an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary yesterday in Special Sessions on her conviction last week of distributing an objectionable book. She had been found guilty on the complaint of Policewoman Margaret Leonard that at the tea room on June 17 Miss Addams gave her a copy of a book of which the tea room proprietor was the author, explaining that ordinarily she received $5 for it. The police had received many complaints about objectionable persons visiting the tea room, the policewoman said.

Miss Addams told the Court that she did not consider the book immoral, and added that it related to her own experiences and that it was a scientific literary contribution. Only 200 copies of the book had been printed, she added. She denied that any of them had been sold. Investigation developed that that the woman was born in Poland, changing her name from Eve Czlotcheber to Addams when she came to America fourteen years ago. She attended Washington Irving High School in her girlhood.

"Faust" at Starlight Park Tonight.

The opera "Faust" will be presented tonight by the Lyric Grand Opera Company at Starlight Amusement Park with the following artists: Mmes. H. Hudon, C. Vasti, Anita Patti, Messrs. V. Carelli, G. Maero, N. Francona and Martin Horodas. Tomorrow evening a benefit performance of "Rigoletto" will be given with Mmes. Glads Mathew, M. Melis, C. Vasti, V. Glem, G. Quadro, Messrs. V. Carelli, G. Puliti, M. Horodas, N. Francona, A. Marti, T. Razzi and Vinvent Nola. On Monday evening, July 5, the double bill "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" will be repeated.

Maestro C. Bonsignore will conduct these performances.

An Acknowledgment.

The following additional contributions have been received by the NEW YORK TIMES for Adirondack Tuberculosis League: H. Elizabeth Strong, $10; H. B. Mason, $10; Charles C. Paige, $20.

EMILE COUE DEAD; A MENTAL HEALER

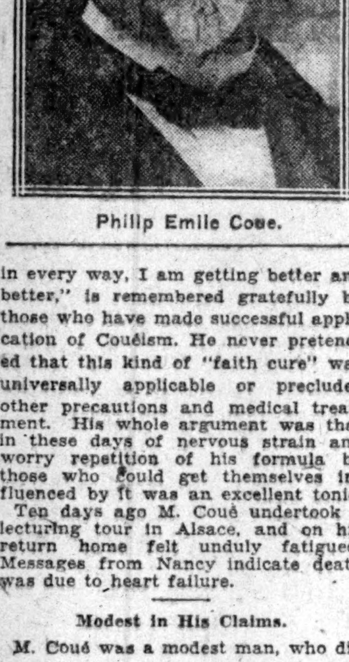
Many Made Well by Saying "Every Day, in Every Way, I'm Growing Better and Better."

HIS FAME INTERNATIONAL

Hypnotism Gave Idea of Curing Fancied Ailments—Ovations to Him in This Country.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—Philip Emile Coué of Nancy, noted healer by auto-suggestion, who toured America a few years ago, lecturing on his doctrine of psychological treatment, died today at his home.



Philip Emile Coue.

M. Coué's famous phrase "every day, in every way, I am getting better and better," is remembered gratefully by those who have made successful application of Couéism. He never pretended that this kind of "faith cure" was universally applicable or precluded other precautions and medical treatment. His whole argument was that in these days of nervous strain and worry repetition of his formula by those who could get themselves influenced by it was an excellent tonic.

Ten days ago M. Coué undertook a lecturing tour in Alsace, and on his return home felt unduly fatigued. Messages from Nancy indicate death was due to heart failure.

Modest in His Claims.

M. Coué was a modest man, who did not claim to perform miraculous cures, but said his method enabled persons to bring their wills to bear upon their bodily ills and exorcise the psychological causes of disease. He was particularly successful with people who stammered and with those who had had trouble with their legs and were convinced they could not walk.

He based his method upon two theories. The first was that mental ideas may become realities. For instance, the idea of insomnia. The second was that the imagination was man's strongest faculty and in a contest with the will the imagination always won. The more one tried to sleep the more hopeless was his failure, he said, and the way to sleep was to convince one's self by an appeal to the imagination that one could sleep.

Coué was well along in middle life before he began the practice of the method which was to bring him a good income and international fame. He was born seventy years ago in the little town of Troyes, France, son of a railroad worker. His family moved to Nogent-sur-Seine a few months later, and in the schools there Coué received his education until he was 15. Then an aunt at Troyes offered to put him in the Lycée there. Eighteen months later the boy had won the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Next he became a Bachelor of Science. After serving in the army for a year he was apprenticed to M. Delauney, a Troyes druggist, and gradually absorbed the work of three other employes. His father then obtained for him a tutorship in the College of St. Barbe, where he in time won a Government Fellowship. Later he became a pharmacist interne at the Necker Hospital and then the partner of a Troyes druggist named Chominot, upon whose death, four years later, Coué bought his share in the store. While running this store he married Lucie, daughter of a famous horticulturist, Le Moine.

Learned Hypnotism.

Many years later he became interested in the application of hypnotism to healing. He had seen the advertisement of a book gotten out by somebody in Rochester, N. Y., wrote for it, and began to practice. Soon he found he could hypnotize people easily, and it occurred to him that he could influence their minds to throw off suggestions which affected their health.

After Couéism had become a fad throughout France, M. Coué went to London and gave clinics. The late Earl Curzon and Lady Beatty were among those who admitted they had been made better by his ministrations. Society took to Coué and he became overnight a person of importance.

On his arrival here he was welcomed with columns of space. A book he had published was printed in installments, interviews telling of his career were written, and he felt it a duty to disclaim himself a sa miracle man.

FRECKLES TO AID CHARITY.

Boy Champion, With 2,821, Helps Drive for Children's Camp.

Last year's freckle champion, Peter Rice, 12 years old, who boasts 2,821 freckles, is trying to help the Charity Organization Society of 105 East Twenty-second Street to raise $5,000 to send hundreds of children under the care of the society away to Summer camps. He posed yesterday for a picture to go with the society's appeal.

"These kids especially ought to get to go to camp," he said yesterday. "Their parents are having lots of trouble, and they haven't any money to send their kids to camp with. Two weeks ain't long, but a guy can have a pile of fun even in two weeks."

Contributions for the Fresh Air Fund should be made to the Charity Organization Society and addressed to Peter Rice, Fresh Air Captain, at 105 East Twenty-second Street.

John J. Mitchell Recovering.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—John J. Mitchell, seventy-two-year-old President of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company, who underwent a major operation on Monday at St. Luke's Hospital, was said today by his physicians to be on the way to complete recovery.

JOHN E. RAMER, DIPLOMAT, DIES

While United States Minister to Nicaragua He Balked Revolution Against President Chamorro.

DENVER, Col., July 2 (AP).—John E. Ramer, for four years United States Minister to Nicaragua, died at his home here today from heart disease.

John E. Ramer, by taking vigorous action on behalf of the United States Government, halted a revolution against President Diego Manuel Chamorro at Managua, Nicaragua, May 21, 1922. A revolutionary force on that date seized the fort of La Loma, which commanded the city. The entire group of Government officials fled to the United States Marine camp for protection. Mr. Ramer notified the leader of the rebels that no gun fire which might endanger the lives of Americans would be permitted and that if the rebels persisted in their assault he would order the marines into action.

He then arranged a conference between the Government officials and the rebel leaders with the result that the fortress was evacuated to the United States troops to be turned over to the Nicaraguan officials.

ROTHSCHILD LOSES SEAT IN CHAMBER

Deputies Decide by Party Vote That 1,600,000 Francs Was Too Much to Spend.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—Holding that 1,600,000 francs was too much to spend in a local contest, the Chamber of Deputies today refused to validate the election of Baron Maurice de Rothschild as Deputy for the Hautes-Alpes Department.

It felt that more than a reasonable amount could be classed as bribery and corruption, and had been spent in his election two years ago.

During these two years since he was elected Rothschild has sat in the Chamber almost daily, but has never been able to vote.

Now he has lost his membership in that club until, as he promises to do, he is re-elected.

Today's debate was the climax of a long series of investigations, during which the Parliamentary Commission, after examining all evidence, declared it found Rothschild innocent in comparison with some others, and guilty only in that he was a richer man.

His fellow Deputy for that department, a Socialist, M. Cluzel, was among those who managed, according to the evidence, to get a finger in the general distribution of gifts, while local firemen got new uniforms and farmers received new live stock.

Rothschild, at the tribune in his defense this afternoon, did not argue that there had not been a great deal of generosity, and said it was no different from other cases.

Communists, however, led the opposition to him and he was unseated by 209 votes to 86.

TWO JURIES START M'PHERSON INQUIRY

Postal Officials Say Letter Stating Evangelist Was Alive Was Changed.

LOS ANGELES, July 2 (AP).—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, returned today from Douglas, Ariz., and Mrs. Kennedy announced that her daughter would appear voluntarily before the County Grand Jury to testify she was kidnapped at Ocean Park on May 18 by two men and a woman and held for ransom.

The Los Angeles pastor and her mother came from Douglas, where they went Wednesday for the announced purpose of attempting to locate the cabin where Mrs. McPherson says she was held by her abductors.

Promised Grand Jury investigation of the alleged kidnapping, one by a Federal Grand Jury and another by a county body, had been decided on.

Post Office inspectors revealed yesterday that a letter, carrying what was designed to be substantial proof that the evangelist was still alive, had been tampered with in an apparent attempt to cover up the fact that the communication was delivered before and not after thousands of dollars in gifts and pledges had been made at a memorial service for the missing religious leader. The Angelus Temple congregation still thought that their leader had been drowned.

Closely following the postal officials' revelation, the County Grand Jury began its inquiry and the foreman issued the following statement:

"The Grand Jury desires to be satisfied that the public may be given the facts to which they are entitled. The Grand Jury wants the most exhaustive investigation and a full report, which will be made when the investigation is completed."

While the County Grand Jury was starting its investigation, it was disclosed by J. Edwin Simpson, Deputy United States Attorney, that because the letter in question also contained a demand for $500,000 ransom for the return of the evangelist, the McPherson case also probably would come to the attention of the Federal Grand Jury.

"We have become deeply interested in this case," he said, "because it is apparent that a deliberate attempt was made to use the mails to defraud."

According to Post Office inspectors, the letter, addressed to Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, was delivered by special delivery Saturday, June 19, the day before the memorial service. It contained what was described as a lock of Mrs. McPherson's hair and answers in part to questions propounded by Mrs. Kennedy to test the authenticity of a claim that her daughter was held by kidnappers.

Edwin M. Ashcraft.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Edwin M. Ashcraft, veteran Chicago attorney who had practiced law here for forty years, died today following a short illness. Mr. Ashcraft, who was senior member of the firm of Ashcraft & Ashcraft, 134 South La Salle Street, was 77 years old.

He was born in Clarksburg, W. Va., and was admitted to the bar in 1873. He was a former President of the Chicago Bar Association and a member of the Illinois Bar Association.

Mr. Ashcraft was a big game hunter and five grizzlies and many other mounted animals that he bagged are on display at the Field Museum.

His wife, Mrs. Florence M. Ashcraft, and four children survive.

Mrs. Mary M. Pearsall.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 2 (AP).—Mrs. Mary M. Pearsall of Westfield, wife of Colonel Leigh M. Pearsall, member of the New York Stock Exchange, died tonight at Muhlenberg Hospital.

ALEXANDER DEL MAR, ECONOMIST, IS DEAD

Mining Engineer, 90, Organized the U. S. Bureau of Commerce in 1865.

WAS A FINANCIAL EDITOR

Author of "History of Precious Metals"—Gave Library of 15,000 Volumes to Bankers' Association.

Alexander Del Mar, 90 years old, mining engineer, economist and historian, died on Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. G. Lyne, Little Falls, N. J. Until recently he had lived at 262 West Ninety-fourth Street, New York City.

He was born in New York in 1836, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Del Mar. He studied at the Rev. Dr. Barry's Polytechnic School, Maurice's Military Academy, the Madrid School of Mines and New York University. Part of his early training he received in London under the guidance of his uncle, Manuel Del Mar, an author, who instilled in him his interest in history and political economy. At that time he planned his book, "History of the Precious Metals," which was not completed until twenty-four years later.

He had been editor of various financial magazines during the period from 1854 to 1865, when he was appointed organizer and director of the United States Bureau of Commerce, Navigation, Emigration and Statistics, which formed the nucleus for the present Department of Commerce.

He was one of the first to point out the cycle of business activity, which he traced in his "History of Money." He took part in the International Monetary Congress in Russia in 1872 at the invitation of the Czar.

HOLIDAY WILL LURE 2,000,000 FROM CITY

1,000 Extra Policemen Sent to Railroad Terminals and Ferries to Prevent Jams.

AUTO CONGESTION BEGINS

Many Extra Trains Carry Vanguard of Crowds to Resorts—Advice Is Given to Motorists.

One thousand policemen, called from clerical and other services, were ordered by Chief Inspector Lahey yesterday to report for duty at the Pennsylvania Station, the Grand Central Terminal and the city ferries to prevent jams and panics due to the huge crowds leaving the city on the three-day Fourth of July holiday.

Between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 are expected to leave the city through the Pennsylvania and Grand Central stations alone, and upward of 2,000,000 New Yorkers altogether are expected to leave for near-by shore and inland resorts. After receiving the estimates from railroad offices yesterday, Chief Inspector Lahey said it was expected that people would leave the city in far greater numbers on this holiday than ever before.

500 in Pickpocket Squad.

A special pickpocket squad of 500 detectives has been organized to guard the crowds at the terminals and at ferries and at Fourth of July celebrations. More than 1,500 rookies, now learning their trade at the Police Training School, will be put into service between now and Tuesday morning.

Automobile congestion at the ferries and on the roads leading out of the city was reported yesterday afternoon as tens of thousands of motorists, anticipating a rush that would threaten to block the roads and ferries today, sought to get an early start.

The Grand Central Terminal and the Pennsylvania Station were filled yesterday to a point where movement was difficult. All day long thousands and thousands moved into the stations and formed in lines for the trains. Many extra trains were already in service.

Approximately 700 extra trains have been scheduled for the holidays. The New York Central will send more than 130 trains out of New York. More than 150 will leave the Pennsylvania Station, exclusive of the 250 trains which will be sent out over the Long Island.

Lackawanna Expects Record.

The Lackawanna Railroad began yesterday running trains in three sections each. John J. Pierce, assistant manager of the Traffic Department, said that he expected the rush to set a record for this year.

The railroad has planned, he added, to start the three-section train service again Monday afternoon, when the throng will begin its return journey.

The number of holiday traffic accidents will depend on how carefully motorists follow ordinary rules of procedure, Henry D. Cocheu, director of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau at 40 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, said. He warned motorists to remember, especially in holiday traffic, to hold out their hands for turns or stops and keep in line.

"Experienced drivers will have their automobiles inspected and their brakes tested before they brave the stream of motors over the week-end," he said.

The holiday rush of autoists began at Peekskill early last evening, when a continuous stream of autos passed northward through the village. Many are crossing the Bear Mountain Bridge, and it is expected by the officials that tomorrow a new record will be set for cars crossing the span. No congestion is expected at this point, as many cars are being detoured south of there because of road construction.

HOUSE POSTPONES VOTE ON JUDGES' PAY RISE

Dec. 9 Set for Debate as Farm and Other Groups Oppose Action Now.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Despite strong support of Republican and Democratic leaders, the House by a vote of 149 to 115 decided today to postpone action until December on the pending bill providing for increases in the salaries of the Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and all other members of the Federal Judiciary.

Although a special rule was reported for consideration of the measure, farm bloc members and elements dissatisfied because of the failure of other legislation rallied in force and adopted a motion setting Dec. 9 as the date for debate and vote on the salary increase proposed. This temporary setback of the plan to increase the salaries of Judges was brought about in part by an unwillingness by the leaders to press the matter at this late day in the session owing to the large number of absentees and a fear that if a determined stand were made on the bill it might interfere with plans for adjournment and possibly lead to the defeat of numerous small measures awaiting action.

A motion by Representative Snell of New York that the House adopt the special rule on the Judges bill was defeated by a viva voce vote, whereupon Representative Williams of Illinois, Republican, took the floor in opposition to the measure. He declared that since Congress had failed to provide for farm relief and had overlooked bills affecting World War veterans, he could see no reason why the compensation of the Judges should be increased, particularly as, in his opinion, they were already being paid pretty fair salaries.

In view of the temper of the House as exhibited in the brief debate on the motion of Mr. Williams, friends of the bill did not attempt to force a roll call.

MRS. MANTON REVIVES SUIT.

Court Grants Plea to Reopen Divorce Action Dropped in February.

Supreme Court Justice Ford granted yesterday the application by Mrs. Mabel Manton to revive her divorce suit against William Kevitt Manton, actor, in which she named Marjorie Rambeau as corespondent. The Court found the suit had never been formally discontinued.

The case was tried before Justice Wasservogel in February. When the jury reached no verdict in seven hours the Court talked with the parties and their counsel and announced to the jury that the husband and wife had "agreed to adjust their differences" and to "discontinue this action and live together again." Not long afterward Mrs. Manton said she wasn't sure about a reconciliation.

Mrs. Manton now asserts she did not understand what she was doing when she consented to the withdrawal of the case.

LIVE FISH MONOPOLY IS BROKEN BY COURT

Group Did $2,000,000 Business Yearly by Controlling Tank Car Facilities.

A consent decree signed yesterday by Federal Judge A. N. Hand ended a monopoly in live fresh water fish that did an annual business in this city of $2,000,000. The order follows months of investigation by Assistant United States Attorney Alexander B. Royce. The combination, headed by Joseph Leibner of 50 Sheriff Street, was alleged to have controlled facilities that brought carp and other fish here in tank cars attached to the Twentieth Century Limited and other fast trains.

Not only did the monopoly control the tanks, but it was alleged by the Government that through common purchasing agents in the Western field it had gained such control over the industry that competition was stifled. The men charged with creating and operating the monopoly were Joseph Leibner, Marcus Goodwin, Max Epstein, Philip Green and Isidore Green, doing business as J. Leibner & Co., 50 Sheriff Street; Jacob Connor, doing business as the Greater New York Live Fish Company, 235 Rivington Street, and Max Wenig, doing business as the Wenig Live Fish Company, 36 Pitt Street.

In signing the order dissolving the trust, Judge Hand appointed Robert McMarsh as special master with orders to sell at public auction before Dec. 1 the interests of Leibner in two of the specially equipped cars for transporting fish alive. Mr. Royce said that this would give competitors an opportunity to bid for the cars and also that the Government expected the dissolution to result in lower live fish prices here.

The decree is most sweeping in character. It prohibits the defendants from continuing any agreement for the purchase or sale of fish from interfering with the dealers, from causing unfounded or malicious suits against competitors or others, from operating stores to injure the business of a competitor, from reducing the number of competitors by the offer of money and from making misleading statements to banks, railroad companies or others to injure or restrict competitors.

'GENERAL' A SUICIDE IN LONDON SUBURB

Bromley's Handsome Stranger Was Only a Lieutenant and Never Had the D. S. M.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—Residents of Bromley, a suburb of London, were shocked today to learn that a man whom it had regarded as one of its most distinguished citizens was a masquerader.

Following the discovery of his body yesterday at Keston, under circumstances pointing to suicide, inquiries revealed that William Stapleton Turner, who had posed for more than a year as a Brigadier General in the British Army and as the possessor of the Distinguished Service Medal, never ranked higher than a Lieutenant, had never won the D. S. M., and was a son of a Peckham tailor.

But despite the imposture Bromley people still have a kindly feeling for Turner. A man of great personal charm, handsome and always well groomed, he had made many friends.

Apparently he never sought to use his spurious rank to obtain money. While at Bromley he acted as Boy Scout Commissioner and as Secretary of the local war veterans' organization.

An urgent meeting of veterans, called for last night to consider suspicions regarding Turner's record, may have hastened his death. A few hours before the meeting he was found dead from a bullet wound. A pistol lay near by.

Another cause which might have induced suicide was a physician's verdict that he had only nine months to live. He suffered from ill health, presumably because of his war service.

Turner was a man of quiet habits. When not working for the benefit of the Boy Scouts or veterans he spent most of his time in his library of several hundred volumes.

FRENCH INVESTORS MAY SHARE PROFITS

Commission Advocates 50 Per Cent. for Them When Adopted by Employers.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—The Commercial and Industrial Commission of the Chamber of Deputies today finished its study of the bill for modernizing the patent legislation of France, which will be discussed at the earliest opportunity by the Chamber.

A feature of the proposed legislation is a recommendation that engineers or workmen employed by companies be allowed at least 50 per cent. of the profits resulting from the use of inventions they have made, with "the moral and material support of their employers."

This project is well in advance of the system said to be prevailing in America, where most of the large industrial companies require their employes to cede to them all rights of inventions made on the employer's time and with his materials.

On the other hand the commission did not think the time ripe to install a regular patent bureau, because of the expense, and will merely maintain a personnel for recording and granting patents. If inventors wish to have researches made to establish the originality of their claims to inventions they may be granted the right to present their claims to a Government-appointed committee, the expenses of which will be paid by the patent seekers, if the commission's bill is adopted without change.

The final decision on originality under the bill would be placed in the hands of the judicial authorities, instead of an administrative body, and the commission requires the Government to abandon the right to expropriate patents and inventions and to concede their manufacturing rights to industrial firms.

As the Government and the commission disagree on the text of the bill, it may take some time before it is passed and the various dispositions may be altered before it becomes a law.

From the Founder's Writings

This Fourth of July We Celebrate the 150th Birthday of America

All birthdays of individuals, enterprises, Churches and Masonic Lodges are well worth celebrating.

It is wise to think over the beginnings of life and the ways by which we have come to the new birthday.

A great sentiment pervaded the heart of the people of America 150 years ago. The outcome of it was that Liberty was the keynote, and Union was the watchword.

Dr. Benjamin Franklin was a great advocate of the Union. There was an old wood-cut used in one of the newspapers, of a snake divided into parts, with the initial letter on each Colony on a separate part, underneath which was placed the motto:

"Join or Die"

When the Union had taken place, a new device appeared in the newspapers, of a coiled snake, with its head erect, and under it the motto:

"Don't Tread on Me"

Both of these devices and mottoes at the time were inscribed on flags, which were the ensigns of war of the Provincial troops at the commencement of the Revolution.

The Declaration of Independence was a blaze of light out of the East that shone the world over. In a cheerless encampment, in the woods at Valley Forge and elsewhere, hundreds of bare feet left footprints of blood in their frozen paths, but the light in the sky made our brave soldiers and their great General oblivious to the poverty, distress and suffering for want of food and clothing.

The small musical bands of the soldiers continually played "God Save America," and sainted fathers of the Republic everywhere sang, "God Save America," as if it were a Hallelujah Chorus.

Neither pride nor presumption moved our forefathers. They were not thinking of force of arms nor politics, they were simply dreaming and praying. The God of the Nations has guided all the rest.

GOVERNOR DISSOLVES OTTAWA PARLIAMENT

Acts on the Recommendation of Meighen, Whose Ministry Loses Vote of Confidence.

WILD SCENE IN COMMONS

General Elections Will Be Held in September, With Byng the Target of Liberal Attack.

AUTONOMY ISSUE RAISED

Annexation to United States Is Expected to Figure in Battle on Canada's Status in Empire.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 2.—The Canadian Parliament was dissolved at 1 P. M. today. Premier Meighen will complete his Cabinet in about two weeks and announce a general election for early in September.

Dissolution was the result of a vote last night when the Government, on a non-confidence motion, was defeated by one vote, although the result was in reality a tie. An opponent of the Government, although paired, voted, but, under the rule of the House of Commons, the irregular vote could not be taken off the list.

The Government's defeat was not unexpected, but came much earlier than thought likely. On Monday, last, Mr. King, leader of the then Liberal Government, asked the Governor General for a dissolution of Parliament. This was refused and the Government resigned, leaving some incomplete legislation and only a quarter of the Supply bill passed for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Meighen, Conservative leader, a former Premier, was called upon to form a Government. He was requested to attempt to complete the legislative program and secure the whole Supply bill. To carry on he had to obtain a certain measure of support from the Progressives, or Farmers' Party.

Progressives Supported Meighen.

For a time it appeared he would be successful, as on three non-confidence votes he had majorities of twelve, ten and eight, respectively.

The last majority was on what was believed the most crucial test of the new Government. Mr. Meighen is a Protectionist and the Progressives are a low-tariff party, yet enough of them joined with him on a tariff resolution to save his Government. It was then thought the Government was safe for the remainder of the session, expected to last only a few days.

Mr. King and his Liberal followers then started to block proceedings, and finally attacked the Government on the ground that the Cabinet Ministers had been illegally put in office.

Mr. Meighen had formed a temporary Cabinet to carry on until the close of the session. He appointed seven acting Ministers, and to these was allotted temporarily the administration of the various branches of Government.

The acting Ministers were all members of the House of Commons, and, to prevent violation of the Independence of Parliament act, were serving without remuneration.

James A. Robb, former Finance Minister, last night moved a resolution attacking the validity of their appointment and the legality of their acting as Ministers and holding their seats in Parliament. All the Progressives but three joined the Liberals and carried this condemnation by one.

Wild Scenes Mark Close.

At once Sir Henry Drayton, who was leading the Government—for Mr. Meighen, until re-elected, could not sit in the Commons—adjourned the House, amid the wildest scene witnessed in many years.

The bitter fight was really over who should control the election machinery. Liberals contended that, since their request for a dissolution had been refused, Mr. Meighen was not entitled to any greater consideration.

The action of Governor General Byng in dissolving Parliament without giving assent to legislation adopted has wrought havoc with many enactments. Nearly ninety bills passed by both Houses have been scuttled because they did not receive the royal assent. Among these are forty-four divorce bills.

A bill providing for a scheme of long-term farm credits, another to revalue the farms of soldiers under the Soldiers' Settlement bill and equally important legislation have been rendered valueless.

As the Government did not secure the supply bill, the only expenditure can be for salaries and necessary works, and this can be secured by Governor General's warrants.

Leaders Issue Statements.

Both leaders today issued statements. Mr. Meighen said:

"The fact of this defeat, coupled with a consideration of the chaotic condition into which public affairs have been drifting and the too evident instability of the Government, necessitated, in my opinion, an early appeal to the electorate."

Mr. King, Liberal leader and former Premier, said:

"The issue which above all others is now before the people is whether or not Government in Canada is to be carried on in accordance with the expressed will of the people's representatives in Parliament under a system of responsible self-government."

The Liberals, in the forthcoming contest, will claim unwarranted interference by the Governor General. In Parliament already Mr. King has, by implication, indicated his resentment against Lord Byng, who leaves Canada within two months.

Conservatives will make capital out of the customs scandals in the Government of their predecessors. They will also emphasize greater tariff protection as a necessity.

When Parliament was dissolved today the strength of the parties was: Conservatives, 116; Liberals, 101; Progressives and Independents, 28.

Mr. Meighen's new Cabinet will be announced within two weeks.

Canada's Status Will Be Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, July 2, 1926.—Canada's status in the British Empire will be a main issue in the forthcoming Federal election, especially in the Canadian West and in the Province of Quebec.

Ex-Premier King is a great preacher of autonomy for Canada, and carries his point so far as to recall that it was his grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie, who led the rebellion in Ontario in 1837, when a republic was proclaimed and when Canadian rebels, under the Mackenzie guidance, attacked Canada from United States points.

Some liberal newspapers have already attacked Governor General Byng for refusing to grant the liberal request for dissolution and political opinion in Montreal today is that the whole constitutional point will be stressed by the Mackenzie King cohorts.

By so doing Mr. King hopes to gain support in the Canadian West, where there are thousands of Americans who are Canadian citizens through naturalization, but who are naturally not in as close touch with the links of empire as are native-born citizens.

Bitter Campaign Expected.

The Conservative cry in Quebec will be that autonomy for Canada, in the Mackenzie King sense, will mean annexation to the United States. More than any other class of people in Canada the French Canadians are against annexation.

Should the Liberals go very far in attacking Lord Byng and the British connection the probabilities are strong that there will not be wanting orators to declare that rather than see a weak independent Canada they would prefer to have Canada part of the United States, with the commercial benefits that may accrue from the connection.

The election campaign promises to be the most bitter in the political annals of Canada. Good opinion here is that the results will not clear the air, that the Conservatives at best can expect only a few additional seats in Quebec Province and they have nothing to hope for in the maritime provinces and Ontario since they now have everything there, and while they may gain a seat or two in British Columbia the Western provinces do not promise much better than now.

Judge, a Mason, Urges Limit For Crime by Order Men

ROCHESTER, July 2 (AP).—Members of fraternal orders pleading guilty to violations of the nation's laws should receive the extreme penalty because by the nature of their oaths they should know better, Judge Frederick L. Dutcher declared in County Court here today.

Judge Dutcher, formerly a high official in the Royal Arch Masons of the State, warned James C. D'Aprile, an attorney, that a plea of clemency for a client on the grounds that he "was a Mason and a good fellow" was a gross insult to the Court and should result in the extreme sentence.

"Any member of the Masons, the Knights of Columbus, Elks, Odd Fellows or any other fraternal organization should get the limit on any plea of guilty in Court because they, by the nature of their oaths, should know better than to violate the nation's laws," Judge Dutcher said.

"The Court will attempt to prevent your indiscretion from reacting against the interest of your client," he told D'Aprile, postponing sentence until tomorrow.

SEARCHERS FOR MEHL WILL DRAG SWAMP

Grounds Near Home Combed in Vain for Man Believed to Have Been Slain.

The house at 1,155 Clarkson Avenue, Brooklyn, where the Misses Grace and Ruth Mehl were attacked last Tuesday night, was searched yesterday and the extensive adjoining grounds carefully gone over by Brooklyn detectives looking for the body of John Mehl, brother of Miss Grace and father of Ruth, who has been missing from his home since April 29. The police believe John Mehl was murdered and his body hidden not far from his home.

Although the search was extended to sandpits in East Flatbush, Flatbush and near Canarsie, it was unsuccessful. Nevertheless, the police prepared to drag today a swampy inlet of Jamaica Bay known as Paerdegat Basin and Inspector John J. Sullivan declared:

"There is no doubt in my mind that John Mehl never left Brooklyn, and that his body is somewhere in the city now."

Meanwhile Samuel Serota, the ex-convict who was one of the men with whom Mehl went away, maintained a sulky silence despite the efforts of many detectives to "break" him. The police believe the motive back of the disappearance of Mehl and the attack on the two women was an attempt to get the Mehl property, valued at $500,000.

Detectives William Donnelly and Harry Beck, who went to Newark and other New Jersey cities in an attempt to check Serota's story that Mehl fled there after a fight with an Italian, also reported their trip as unsuccessful. The Mehl home will probably be closed today, as Miss Ruth Mehl is staying with friends and Miss Grace Mehl is still in Kings County Hospital.

RIFF CHIEF CONDEMNED TO MADAGASCAR EXILE

The Matin Hears Abd-el Krim Will Be Sent to Island Off East Africa.

PARIS, July 2 (AP).—Abd-el Krim, who recently submitted to the French after having carried on a determined warfare in Morocco as leader of the Riffians, is to be exiled to the Island of Madagascar, in the Indian Ocean off the east coast of Africa, according to the decision of the Franco-Spanish conference, the Matin has ascertained.

Abd-el Krim, the newspaper says, will be treated honorably, "but without favors or hardships." His caids and other members of his entourage will remain in Morocco under strict surveillance.

The Franco-Spanish frontier in the Riffian zone, the Matin understands, will be unchanged, except at certain strategic points. It is believed the Franco-Spanish administration zones will be distinct, instead of merged, as previously contemplated.

BYRD NEARLY TOOK TO FLIERS IN STOCKS

He Tells Brokers at Luncheon Only a Lack of Funds Kept Him From Entering Wall St.

J. P. MORGAN GREETS HIM

Asks About Financial Possibilities at Pole — Commander Urges Business to Aid Aviation.

The crowded inches of the Stock Exchange floor rather than the wide open spaces of the Arctic region narrowly escaped being the scene of Commander Richard E. Byrd's activities. Nothing but a shortage of funds prevented his being a stock broker, he said yesterday, addressing a luncheon group at the Stock Exchange Club, 11 Wall Street.

"Had I been as successful in raising funds to buy the seat on the Exchange that I sought a few years ago as I was in obtaining backing for the polar trip, Bennett and I would never have flown over the Pole," he said. "It is my opinion that life here on the Exchange is far more strenuous than flying over a thousand poles. We have been congratulated here on our achievement; now let me congratulate you men of Wall Street, for I consider every one of you an empire builder. No better patriotism than yours has ever been shown and you have repeated it time and again."

Autograph Seekers Waylay Him.

Commander Byrd was the guest of his cousin, H. L. Dangerfield Lewis of Richardson, Hill & Co., 120 Broadway, in a visit to the J. P. Morgan & Co. offices 23 Wall Street, to the vaults of the Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, and to the gallery of the Stock Exchange. His way was blocked by autograph seekers as he passed from one building to another, attired in his white Summer uniform, and when he appeared in the gallery of the Exchange dealers on the floor applauded and cheered.

In the party were Floyd W. Bennett, pilot of the Josephine Ford; Lieutenants Robert Oertel, Alton N. Parker and George O. Noville of the Arctic expedition.

Mr. Morgan greeted the visitors. He asked Commander Byrd whether the polar region was thickly populated, and if he thought the Morgan firm would have a chance to get hold of any of the available business.

"Well, Mr. Morgan, money doesn't mean a thing to the Eskimos," replied Commander Byrd, smiling. "You couldn't give them a $100 bill, but they would give anything for a pretty bead."

The party visited the Morgan vaults, escorted by officials of the firm. Byrd was allowed to manipulate the lever at the Bankers' Trust Company by which a twenty-four-ton emergency door was opened, that he might see how easily it was operated. The regular door weighs forty-four tons, and is opened by a lever which causes the floor to drop.

Pilot Bennett when told that the vault before him held $450,000,000 in securities stared at his informer and whistled softly.

Asks Aid for Flying.

Members of the Board of Governors of the Stock Exchange and about fifty brokers greeted Commander Byrd at the luncheon. In a brief talk he urged business men to give aviation the assistance it needs. He said that the great air era was "just around the corner," and that the greatest opportunity in that field was in the United States.

"The history of Arctic exploration proves that aviation has wonderful opportunities," he declared. "It took us a year and a half to reach the Pole by air and it took Peary twenty years to get there by dog sleds, and then his success was the result of a superhuman effort by a superhuman man. The Amundsen flight over the Pole to Alaska, which I consider the greatest non-stop flight in history, is another instance. Business need hesitate no longer in entering aviation. New York is getting too darned crowded anyway, and you will soon have to take to the air to do anything here."

Commander Byrd will be a holiday guest of Boston and be the guest at a demonstration in Baltimore, July 10.

FIVE IN AUTO HOLD-UP GET $7,000 PAYROLL

Rob Two Contractors in Car on Their Way With Wages for Bronx Workmen.

Julius Stone and John Wilkins, partners in a contracting business at 1,915 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, were robbed yesterday of a payroll amounting to $7,000, by five men, at 165th Street and Jerome Avenue. The contractors went to the Port Morris Bank, 138th Street and Willis Avenue, the Bronx, in a sedan, where they drew the money to pay off workmen on two buildings at 166th Street and Jerome Avenue.

Wilkins sat with Stone, holding the money wrapped in an envelope. A red touring car overtook them, forced the sedan to the curb, and four men jumped from the touring car to the sedan. Two of them with revolvers threatened to kill the contractors if they made any outcry, while the two others searched the car for the payroll. The fifth man sat at the wheel of the touring car. As one man seized the package of money he signaled to the others and all ran to their car and sped away on Jerome Avenue.

Stone went to a telephone and notified the police of the Highbridge Station, and a squad of patrolmen and detectives under command of Deputy Chief Inspector John O'Brien hurried to the scene.

After an investigation Deputy Chief Inspector O'Brien said: "This company usually pays off its help at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. For weeks past they have had police protection, but today on their own initiative they drew their money from the bank earlier than usual and made no application for protection. The robbery is a result of their own carelessness in the matter of requesting police aid."

Wilkins lives at 1,335 Herschell Street, the Bronx, and Stone at 2,081 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx.

Guardsmen Refuse to Join July 4 Parade; Would Ruin Holiday, New Jersey Men Say

Special to The New York Times.

DUMONT, N. J., July 2.—This little town is upset today by the refusal of Company C of the 104th Engineers of the New Jersey National Guard to march in the Fourth of July parade at Bergenfield on Monday morning. All but four members of the company refused to let their week-end be spoiled by giving up an hour of their time to march over a route about a quarter of a mile long. The townsfolk of Dumont and Bergenfield are divided on the subject, many of them being indignant, and others refusing to censure the civilian soldiers.

Inasmuch as every other organization in the community is to be represented, and the company had been assigned to the post of honor just behind the colors, forming the only really military element in the line, their absence is deplored by most of the leading citizens of the town. John Stoughton, Postmaster of Dumont, in charge of the arrangements for the parade, said:

"I think their action is decidedly un-American, and I am very sorry that they refused. I have not been notified officially of their action, and so don't want to say much about it, but I think it was their duty as citizens as well as members of the Guard to turn out."

The appeal for volunteers was made at drill last night by Lieutenant John R. Sharpe of Leonia, commander of the unit. When he asked that those present who wished to parade hold up their hands only four did so. No specific reasons were given for the refusal of the others, except that they had planned to go away over the week-end and that they did not want to spoil their short vacation by coming back on Monday morning.

The community will be represented by the Police and Fire Departments, the mail carriers, the Sons of Italy, the Holy Name Society, the Elks, Foresters of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and other organizations.

Mayor Charles A. Grabowski of Dumont expressed himself as disgusted at the attitude of the guardsmen, and said that it was not the fault of the officers as both he and Lieutenant Sharpe were heartily in favor of the unit taking part in the parade. He said it seemed to be a similar episode to that in Hackensack on Memorial Day when members of Company G of the National Guard refused to march but later changed their minds and took part in the parade.

FOUR MEN INDICTED IN COHN GEM FRAUD

Federal Grand Jury Connects Three Jewelers and Employe of Bank With Swindle.

PRINCIPAL NOW IN SING SING

Concealment of Assets Is Charged, With Manipulation of Funds by Fictitious Accounts.

Three jewelers and a man previously employed by a bank were indicted yesterday by a Federal Grand Jury in connection with the activities of Harry A. Cohn, accountant and salesman, who obtained diamonds worth $1,466,818 from jewelers in Maiden Lane on memorandum, went into bankruptcy last October and is now in Sing Sing.

The men indicted are Joseph Herman, Joseph Anzell and Louis Wachs, jewelers, and Henry Wollenweber, who was assistant cashier of the International Union Bank, 147 Fifth Avenue. The charge is conspiracy, with Cohn to conceal assets. Herman and Wachs surrendered and pleaded not guilty before Judge Bondy. Herman was held in $3,500 bail and Wachs in $1,000.

Cohn, it was brought out at his trial, operated in diamonds for nine months and three days, starting with nothing, getting diamonds worth $4,000 on credit, and then pyramiding his credit until he had obtained goods worth $1,466,818 and had made payments of only $339,590. All the property was obtained from F. B. Vollman & Co. and D. I. Rogow. Their losses forced them into bankruptcy.

It is alleged in the indictments that Herman, Anzell and Wachs were parties to a conspiracy antedating Cohn's bankruptcy. It is charged that the conspiracy was formed with the probable bankruptcy of Cohn in view and with the object of concealing assets. The three men are well known in the trade and often deal in large sums. Their indictment resulted from an investigation ordered by United States Attorney Buckner. The case was presented to the Grand Jury by his assistants, David P. Siegel and Frank A. Coleman.

Wollenweber, it is charged, was a part of the conspiracy, enabling Cohn to manipulate several accounts which he had in the International Union Bank under names other than his own.

It is alleged that Wollenweber, after the bank officials had refused to open an account for Cohn, suggested the use of other names. It is said Cohn sent men to open these accounts, got them to sign books of blank checks and thus used the bank in which he had been denied an account.

Wollenweber, it is said, received as high as $7,500 a month from Cohn. It also is alleged that he protected the checks with fictitious names and that when Cohn failed the accounts which he had in the International Union Bank were $20,000 short.

Wollenweber, Cohn, the three jewelers and Harry and Alexander Arnow, the last two of whom are in Sing Sing with Cohn, were all concerned in a systematic defrauding of Cohn's creditors, the indictments charge. In the Cohn case nearly $1,000,000 in jewelry and cash was recovered.

New York Firm to Build Yale Library

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 2.—Contract for the erection of the proposed John W. Sterling Memorial Library at Yale has been given to the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son of New York. A new recitation and lecture hall, to be named in honor of William L. Harkness of New York, and to cost $900,000, contributed by the Harkness family, will be built by Sherry & Treat of New Haven.

NOTORIOUS GUNMAN LED HOSPITAL RAID

"Bum" Rodgers, Quick Shooter and Jail-Breaker, Sought for Roosevelt Hold-Up.

FREED DESPITE BAD RECORD

Telephone Operator Gets Scores of Congratulatory Calls for Her Bravery.

John J. (Bum) Rodgers, who has attempted three times to kill detectives, was, according to the police, the leader of the robbers who held up the Roosevelt Hospital on Thursday and stole between $10,000 and $11,000.

Policemen who had congratulated Miss Edith M. Ware for her courage in telephoning twice for police help while the robbers were within a few feet of her, congratulated her again yesterday on being alive when it was learned that this notorious free-shooting gunman was the leader of the robbers. The policemen extended their congratulations also to Joseph E. Hudson, cashier of the Roosevelt Hospital and former Royal Welsh Fusilier, who defied the robbers by knocking the 250 pay envelopes all over the office.

Identify Rogues' Gallery Picture.

Two of the hospital employes who visited the Rogues' Gallery yesterday identified photographs of Rodgers as one of the hold-up men. Another of the hold-up men they identified as "Jim" Cunniff, wanted in Philadelphia for murder. Last year Rodgers and Cunniff made a sensational escape together from Welfare Island.

Since 1910 Rodgers has been arrested ten times for robbery or violating the Sullivan law. His prison sentences are said to aggregate more than a centenarian's lifetime, but he has had a charmed life in keeping out of prison, both through sensational getaways and through official lenience.

The last escape of Rodgers was last December. On the way to Sing Sing to spend twenty-two years, he escaped from a deputy sheriff on a New York Central train and ran to freedom at the 125th Street station. Almost exactly a year earlier he had escaped from Welfare Island. An investigation showed that, in spite of his notorious record, he had been laxly guarded and Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield asserted that "somebody's palm was crossed with silver." In 1918 Rodgers was sent to Sing Sing for fourteen years for robbery and felonious assault. In 1919 Governor Smith pardoned him. His police record goes back twenty-three years, when he was convicted of juvenile delinquency.

Many Congratulate Operator.

The courage shown by Miss Ware in attempting again and again to signal for help while the bandits were working in sight of her received general recognition. Half of the telephone calls to the hospital were from persons who wanted to congratulate her. She received letters and telegrams of congratulation and an abundance of candy and flowers. Public officials and bankers were among those who telephoned to her.

The man who got Miss Ware's message and relayed it to the police, it was learned yesterday, was J. B. Walker, a friend of a nurse at the Roosevelt Hospital. He was trying to telephone to her when he heard Miss Ware say: "Call the cops. They're holding up the Roosevelt." He passed on the information to Police Headquarters.

GARMENT PICKETING TO START TUESDAY

International Union President Says 1,800 Cloak and Suit Shops Are Idle.

FINDER SEES SHORT STRIKE

Head of Employers' Council Says No Attempt Is Being Made to Replace Workers.

Leaders in the strike of 40,000 workers in the cloak and suit industry spent yesterday registering the strikers for future strike service and perfecting plans for intensive picketing to begin Tuesday morning. This work has been undertaken by the Eastern organizing department of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. It is the intention of the union, it was said, to concentrate the pickets on the show rooms and stock rooms of the jobbers to prevent the possibility of work being sent to "secret" shops here or out of town.

Morris Sigman, President of the International union, said last night at the headquarters of the General Strike Committee, 130 East Twenty-fifth Street, that none of the 1,800 shops was operating and that all union cloak shops in New Jersey, Westchester County and on Long Island had stopped work simultaneously with the New York cloakmakers. This was confirmed by Jacob Halperin, Chairman of the Out-of-town Committee, who added that between 3,500 and 4,000 out-of-town workers were on strike.

"The second day of the strike brings further evidence of the unanimity with which the order was carried out," said Mr. Sigman. "In the most successful walk-out in the past, it has been necessary to send out committees to cover weak spots here and there. In this strike such a procedure was unnecessary."

Henry H. Finder, President of the Industrial Council of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., predicted yesterday that the strike would be short-lived.

"Our members have not yet taken any steps to obtain workers to replace the strikers," he said. "We are confident that our workers will return shortly, either as a result of intervention on the part of some official or semi-official body representing the people, or through a realization on the part of the workers that their own interests will be best served by cooperation with the inside shop manufacturers.

"We are not seeking to destroy the union. In fact, we would like to see the union organize the entire industry and impose its standards upon the irresponsible submanufacturers who supply the jobbers with their merchandise."

The first mass meeting of the strike was held yesterday in Arlington Hall, 23 St. Mark's Place. The attendance was so large that two overflow meetings had to be arranged in other halls in the building. The strikers were addressed by Louis Hyman, Chairman of the General Strike Committee; Vice President Julius Hochman of the International and David Dubinsky, manager of the cutters' organization.

TWENTY STRIKERS ARRESTED.

They Camped in Workroom Demanding Pay, Employer Says.

Eight women and twelve men garment workers were arrested late yesterday at the plant of the Advance Cloak and Suit Company, 361 West Thirty-sixth Street, charged with disorderly conduct.

The proprietor of the shop, Herman Zolan, telephoned to the West Thirtieth Street Station that the twenty employes were literally camped out in his workroom. They came Thursday afternoon, he said, demanding pay due for the week preceding the strike and he told them to get the money out of the $700 he had to post with the union as a guaranty that he would live up to his agreement.

The strikers refused to leave, he said. They were there when the placed closed for the day, and when business opened yesterday they were still in camp in the workroom.

$75,000 GEMS IN BAG LIE IN STATION 5 HOURS

Detective Recovers Jewels in Shop in the Pennsylvania After Woman Reports Loss.

After lying on the cigar counter of the Pennsylvania Drug Company shop in the upper arcade of the Pennsylvania station from 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon until after 6 o'clock last evening, a traveling case containing $75,000 worth of gems belonging to Mrs. E. F. Kellogg of 147 East Fiftieth Street was recovered by Detective James Sheehan of the West Thirtieth Street station.

Mrs. Kellogg did considerable shopping yesterday morning before taking an early afternoon train for Bayhead, N. J., where she will spend the week-end. When she notified the police late in the afternoon of her loss, she could only tell them that she had the traveling case when she left home and did not have it when she arrived at Bayhead.

Detective Sheehan sought the jewels in a number of shops before he found them intact in the drug store.

TEACHERS APPROVE STRIKE

American Federation in Sympathy With Garment Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

KATONAH, N. Y., July 2.—Resolutions of sympathy for members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, now on strike in New York, and of commendation of the union for its educational activities and "its fight for a decent standard of living" were adopted today by the American Federation of Teachers, which held the closing sessions of its tenth annual convention at Brookwood Labor College here.

Condemnation of military training in public schools and colleges was expressed in another resolution. The use of Government funds to provide such courses was also deplored.

American University at Sofia To Be Started in September

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 2 (AP).—Sofia will soon have an American University. Plans were completed this week by the trustees of the American Schools at Samokov, Bulgaria, for the erection of a series of college buildings in the suburbs of the capital.

The Bulgarian Government has made a gift to the Americans of a large plot of land as a site for the new university, which will be open to both sexes. It has also allotted $50,000 worth of timber with which to begin the work.

The university will cost $1,000,000. About one-fourth of this sum is already in hand. The balance the trustees hope to raise in the United States by voluntary contributions. Construction will begin in September and the first buildings will be ready within a year. Five years will be required for the construction of the university.

TWO BUFFALOS FIGHT IN THE BRONX ZOO

Bronx and Cheyenne Rip Down Fence and Then Battle for Leadership of Herd.

ONE ANIMAL IS DISABLED

Crowd of Motorists Yell as the Struggle Goes On—Animals Separated by Keepers.

Bronx, Cheyenne and Chief, three American buffaloes at the Bronx Zoological Garden, stood out above the herd. What they did the others did. Where they went the others trailed along. Bronx, because of his nineteen years, undertook to dominate Cheyenne and Chief, who are only fifteen. They rebelled and it became necessary to put Bronx in a corral by himself. Cheyenne and Chief were housed in an adjoining corral. A heavy wire mesh fence separated them until yesterday.

Motorists along the Boston Road stopped at Bronx Park South yesterday and gazed at the animals. Cheyenne must have sneered at Bronx, for in a moment both were attacking the wire fence, each from his own side. It seemed as though both agreed first to get the fence out of the way.

The fence broke. Cheyenne and Bronx, their heads low, started for each other. Motorists moved to places of safety to watch the struggle. The horns of the two animals locked, and then suddenly with a quick snap of his head Cheyenne ripped off the right horn of Bronx. The horn landed at the front feet of Chief, who in all his splendor had been sniffing the Summer and making no effort to get into the mix-up. He was either an impartial referee or was just holding himself in reserve should the worst befall his companion, Cheyenne.

Bronx, maddened with pain and the loss of one of his weapons, became more furious and again went after Cheyenne. But, with another quick jerk of his head, Cheyenne tore into the side of Bronx. The crowds were yelling. The animals were panting. Keeper Fred Taggert heard the noise and, seizing a crowbar, started for the buffalo pen.

Taggert waited his chance and entered the corral. Other keepers were rushing toward the pen. They knew that Bronx hailed himself as King of the Herd. They knew, too, that Cheyenne and Chief didn't want him as leader. So they provided themselves with suitable weapons. They separated the buffaloes. A veterinary attended Bronx and said he would not have to be put to death. Cheyenne and Chief were driven into the house.

Keeper Taggert said that it was the first buffalo fight in the Bronx Zoo in fifteen years. At that time Black Beauty and Apache fought it out to the death, with victory for Black Beauty.

ROB DEPEW BANK OF $15,000

Bandits Pass Police Chief, Wreck Gates, Abandon Car and Escape.

DEPEW, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Four armed men today held up the State Bank of Depew and escaped with $15,000. Employes offered no resistance and no shots were fired.

They entered while a fifth remained in their automobile with the motor running. The four cowed the employes with their revolvers and scooped up currency from the cash drawers.

Then they rushed from the bank, entered the waiting car and sped away toward Batavia.

When the car reached the crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad the gates were down, but they plunged through and wrecked them.

The men passed Chief of Police Phillip Mehl, fixing a punctured tire on his automobile by the roadside.

They abandoned the car, a stolen machine. Its windshield had been broken when the gates were crashed and there were bloodstains in the machine.

They ran into a saloon at Sycamore and Oberlin Streets and telephoned for a cab.

Good descriptions of the robbers were given the police by persons who witnessed the robbery and by the taxi driver.

Four years ago robbers held up the same bank and took $25,000.

MRS. HENDERSON ASKS BAIL

Woman Accused of Attempting Kidnapping Still in County Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

HUDSON, N. Y., July 2.—Application was made here today to Judge Cochrane, Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Third Department, by George C. Inman of this city, counsel for Mrs. Margaret Henderson, to fix bail for the latter, who is held in the Columbia County Jail here awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of attempting to kidnap her son, David Henderson, now the adopted child of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Harder of Claverack.

Justice Cochrane fixed bail at $2,000 and Mr. Inman said an attempt would be made tomorrow to secure it. Otherwise Mrs. Henderson will be compelled to remain in jail until Autumn, as the next Grand Jury in Columbia County will not convene until October.

G. F. BAKER GIVES CLERKS A YEAR'S PAY

Head of First National, Off for Europe, Distributes More Than $300,000.

OPTIMISTIC ON BUSINESS

'Should Continue Good for Some Time,' He Says—Scouts Rumor of Steel Stock Split-Up.

AT 86 HE SAILS ON VACATION

He Follows His Custom of Being Away When the News of His Benefaction Is Made Known.

George F. Baker, Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank, sailed for Europe yesterday on the Homeric after having given to each of 148 junior officers and clerks in his bank a check for a year's salary as a personal remembrance from him. Following his custom in previous benefactions, Mr. Baker arranged that he would be several miles out on the ocean before news of his action became public.

Mr. Baker's gift was a personal one and in no way an official bonus or distribution. The recipients were all members of the staff who had been with the bank two years or more. The total amount of the gift was not announced but was estimated at between $300,000 and $400,000. The average gift to junior officers was estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000 and to clerks between $1,500 and $2,000.

The checks sent by Mr. Baker to the members of his bank's organization were accompanied by a note in which he thanked them warmly for their contribution to the success of the bank. They were signed, "Affectionately, George F. Baker."

Business Is Good, He Says.

Just before sailing Mr. Baker gave out the second interview of his business career.

"I do not take any stock in the rumors that the shares of the Steel Corporation will be split and put on a $4 or $5 basis," he said. Commenting on business, he said:

"The business outlook speaks for itself. Business is good and should continue good for some time."

Francis L. Hine, Chairman of the First National's Executive Committee, sailed with Mr. Baker, who is going on a vacation trip.

The junior officers who shared in Mr. Baker's gift were S. L. Searles, W. F. Kearns, F. G. Walton, D. T. Waters and F. D. White, assistant cashiers; Stanley Hagerman, controller; Frank Rysavy, trust officer; A. C. Nagle, manager of the credit department, and L. F. Hooper, manager of the bond department.

This is believed to be the first time that a distribution of this nature, or at least in this amount, has been made in a Wall Street institution in the Summer. This is the second time Mr. Baker has distributed cash gifts to officers and employes of the bank. The first time was on March 27, 1910, on his seventieth birthday. The amount then distributed was not made public, but it was not as large as yesterday's distribution.

His Other Large Gifts.

Mr. Baker's manner of bestowing the checks reminded his associates of the methods he had followed in previous benefactions. When in June, 1924, he gave $5,000,000 to the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, he had already landed on the Continent. In June, 1922, he was in Italy when the amount of his several large donations to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Columbia University and New York Hospital became known. A gift of $2,000,000 to Cornell University was announced only several months after it was made.

Mr. Baker contributed $2,000,000 for Red Cross war work. His gift to the Metropolitan Museum was $1,000,000 and to the New York Hospital $750,000. To Columbia University he gave $700,000 for Baker Field. He gave $250,000 to the Museum of Natural History and $100,000 each to Teachers' College, Morgan Hall and Dartmouth College.

Mr. Baker is 86 years old and is frequently referred to as the "Dean of Wall Street." His public benefactions, which have totaled $15,000,000, are said to be the greatest made by any philanthropist while active in business. His fortune is estimated at $300,000,000. He began his career as a grocery boy at $2 a week in Troy, N. Y.

At the first of the year the personnel of the First National Bank received from a profit-sharing distribution amounts in the total of their year's salaries. This distribution was by the bank's earnings and was made by order of the directors.

RECORDS NOT RECONCILED.

Dr. Haviland to Leave Buschatzky Case to State Commission.

Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, new Superintendent of the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island, said last night he was convinced that the police records and those of the hospital were directly at variance as to the disappearance of Mrs. Frances Buschatzky, who escaped from the island and was drowned, but that he had not determined which set of records was the more reliable.

"I am not prepared to say the police made a mistake of twenty-four hours in recording the finding of the body on the morning of June 15, nor can I fairly say that all our people here made a mistake as to Mrs. Buschatzky on the afternoon of June 15," said Dr. Haviland.

"I shall send a report on the case to the State Hospital Commission and it will remain for the commission to determine whether anything further shall be done."

Dr. Haviland admitted that there hardly could be a motive for the police recording the finding of an unidentified body on the wrong date and that it was possible the undiscovered escape of a patient might furnish a motive for what appeared as a mistake in the hospital records. He contended, however, that it was scarcely probable so many persons at the hospital could have made the same mistake.

Approves Pan-Pacific Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—A Senate resolution to authorize a Pan-Pacific conference in Honolulu next Spring on education, rehabilitation, reclamation and recreation was passed today by the House.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Industrial Stocks Advance Again, Railways Little Changed—Money 4½, Franc Lower

The incidents which stood out conspicuously in yesterday's markets were the Government's cotton crop report, which was highly favorable, and the continued though gradual decline of the franc to another low-record price. Nothing occurred in the money market in the way either of tightening or relaxing rates; the probability is that the mid-year financial settlements had been so thoroughly arranged for in advance that, had it not been for the impending triple holiday, rates on the Stock Exchange would have relaxed considerably.

In the stock market, the industrial shares which have lately been moving upward were again advanced, practically canceling the previous day's decline. As a whole, the market was not active, and most of the day's changes were only fractional; but the stocks on which recent speculation has converged moved up 1 to 4 points. Thus the week ended cheerfully, so far as regarded the Stock Exchange. For the weakness of the franc there was no specific cause in the day's news; the decline apparently reflects nothing but complete perplexity as to what is to happen next in the French political situation. The statement of our foreign trade in May, classified by countries, shows the effect of that month's British general strike. Compared with April, our imports from England decreased $8,870,000 and our exports to England $15,124,000; showing, as did Great Britain's own foreign trade statement for the month, that the general strike cut into British imports more than exports.

Of the Department of Agriculture's cotton estimate, the first of the present season, it may be said that the percentage condition as assigned is slightly below the general run of trade expectations and the estimate of acreage planted much above them; with the result that the Government's "indicated yield" is not far from the average of private estimates. If the 15,635,000 bales foreshadowed by the department on the basis of general probabilities were actually to be harvested, the yield would be the fourth largest in our history, exceeded only by last year's 16,085,000, by the 16,134,000 of 1914 and by the 15,692,000 of 1911. This would be fully a million bales in excess of the probable total consumption from the crop of 1925; it would also come on top of an exceptionally large surplus carried over from last year's great crop at the end of the "cotton year."

A trying experience has taught that July "production estimates" should be considered with great reserve. Last year the Government named 14,339,000 bales as the indication in July, 13,566,000 in August and 15,603,000 in December, only to discover from the completed ginnings that the actual harvest had been 16,086,000. This series of conflicting guesses, which was equally exasperating to the cotton speculator, who repeatedly lost by backing the department's figures, and to the cotton grower, who never knew whether to sell or hold his cotton, was responsible for a curious innovation in yesterday's Government estimate. Having ventured the 15,635,000-bale "regular" prediction, the department calculates that, if the rest of the season were to be as bad as it was in the three years ending with 1923, the yield will be only 13,726,000, whereas if conditions are as good as they were in the last two years it will be 16,294,000. How much practical value such a triple estimate can possess is certainly open to doubt, but probably it will be useful in protecting the Bureau of Agricultural Economics from the criticism which was visited on it last Autumn. With or without the "alternative estimates," it would be safe to say that bad weather, with the weevil active on a very large acreage, is always apt to make as much as 2,500,000 bales difference in the yield when compared with results in a perfect growing season not disturbed by insect pests.

The weekly mercantile reviews agree in ascribing to the harvest prospects the better feeling in the field of general trade. One of them describes the present week as characterized by "the best retail buying since the year began"; all speak of "increased confidence regarding the future." But retail buying must have maintained a pretty high standard of activity throughout the season to have absorbed the unprecedented mass of goods distributed by the railways.

NEW DEAL OFFERED BY VAN SWERINGENS

Terms Materially Better for Holders of Hocking and C. & O. Stocks.

ACTION THIS MONTH IN VIEW

Promoters Hope to Submit Plan to Commerce Commission Before Its Adjournment.

With only the Père Marquette and the Hocking Valley Railroad boards left to ratify the modified Van Sweringen plan for consolidation of those roads and the Erie, Nickel Plate, Chesapeake & Ohio into a billion-dollar company, the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland hope to have their plan ready for submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission before adjournment of that body on Aug. 1.

Details of the plan, which have not yet been put into legal form, allow materially better terms for the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Père Marquette, it was learned yesterday, with little change for the Erie. The original plan gave 3 per cent. on the two classes of Erie preferred and 2.40 per cent. on the common through exchange for new Nickel Plate stock. The new plan is understood to allow 3 per cent. on all three classes of Erie stock—that is, two shares of Erie preferred for one share of Nickel Plate preferred and two shares of Erie common for one share of Nickel Plate common, both Nickel Plate shares being 6 per cent.

Holders of the Chesapeake & Ohio, who objected to the original plan, will receive a straight rental of 5 per cent., guaranteed by the new Nickel Plate Company, and a half share of new Nickel Plate common for each sare of C. & O. The old deposit agreement provided that 100 shares of C. & O. common were to receive 55 shares of new Nickel Plate preferred and 55 shares of new common. Hocking Valley common, it is said, will be treated in the same way.

To meet the objection of Professor Ripley on the issuance of non-voting stock, which many railroad men believe influenced the commission's rejection, all stock of the new company will have voting rights.

Terms for the Père Marquette are said to provide for the exchange of stock on a share for share basis, but no definite understanding will be possible until the directors of this railroad consider the Van Sweringen proposal at their meeting on next Wednesday at the office of the road at 120 Broadway.

RECEIVER FOR HAMILTON CO.

Lowell (Mass.) Textile Concern Had Shortage of $600,000.

BOSTON, July 2 (AP).—Charles F. Rowley, a Boston attorney, and Frederick A. Flather, Treasurer of the Boott Mills of Lowell, were appointed receivers for the Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Lowell today by Judge Bishop in Superior Court. Each was required to provide bond of $50,000. The company manufactures textiles, is capitalized for $1,800,000 and normally employs 1,500 workers.

A shortage of approximately $600,000 in the capital stock of the Hamilton company was discovered last Summer. Since then efforts to raise $1,500,000 for reorganization or to sell the plant have failed. Yesterday Judge Bishop heard a petition by "The Dumaines," a voluntary association that has recently financed the Hamilton company, for a receiver. "The Dumaines" is a creditor of the Hamilton company to the extent of $1,500,000.

Since the shortage was discovered in the firm's capital half a dozen officers and employes have been arrested.

CEMENT MERGER PENDING.

$40,000,000 Consolidation Expected to Be Closed Here Tuesday.

EASTON, Pa., July 2 (AP).—According to information received here today from New York, a $40,000,000 cement merger is about to be closed and final action may be taken on Tuesday at a meeting of cement representatives and bankers in New York.

Companies named in the merger are the Dexter Portland, Nazareth; Pennsylvania of Bath; Cayuga, near Ithaca, N. Y., owned by the same interests as the Pennsylvania company; Clinchfield of Kingsport, Tenn., and the Clinchfield No. 2 of Perry, Ga.

John A. Miller of Nazareth, President of the Dexter company, will head the consolidated company, it is said. He was in New York today.

The combined output of the company would be about 10,000,000 barrels a year. The Nazareth plants of the Dexter company were recently appraised at $8,000,000.

AGAIN URGES TAX CHANGES.

Bankers' Committee Reaffirms Stand for Repeal of Estates Levy.

Reaffirmation of a former decision that the Federal estate tax should be repealed at the next session of Congress was made yesterday by the Special Committee on Taxation of the Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association, when the committee met here in special session.

It was further recommended that laws of the various States imposing inheritance taxes on bank deposits, stocks and bonds owned by non-residents in the taxing States should be repealed.

The committee comprises Roy C. Osgood, Chicago; Raymond H. Berry, Detroit; Merrel P. Callaway, New York City; F. Winchester Denio, Boston; James Dunn Jr., Cleveland; Thomas B. Paton and Leroy A. Mershon.

COURT DENIES BOND REVIEW

Central and B. & A. Lose in Move Against Massachusetts Order.

BOSTON, July 2 (AP).—The Supreme Court dismissed today petitions of the Boston & Albany and New York Central Railroads to review an order of the State Department of Public Utilities relating to the issue by the New York Central of improvement bonds in the name of the Boston & Albany.

On June 13, 1923, the New York Central sought the department's approval of $3,000,000 B. & A. bonds, alleging the money was needed for permanent additions and improvements. The department authorized a $1,500,000 issue, making the reduction on the ground that the property of the B. & A. had depreciated since its lease by the New York Central in 1899.

$750,000 Tile Contract Placed.

A contract to supply and erect 12,000 tons of hollow tile for the new Van Sweringen Tower Building in Cleveland has been awarded to the National Fireproofing Company, it became known yesterday. The order amounts to $750,000.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Fresh Break in French and Belgian Carry Both to Record Lows—Italian Weak.

A successive plunge to history-making levels was made by the French and Belgian francs again yesterday. The Paris bill dropped 4 points to 2.63¾ cents, and the Brussels document 11½ points to 2.60 cents. These prices were improved upon at the close on short covering. Sterling, lire and other of the continentals were adversely affected by the weakness in the franc and all broke sharply.

Until midday, the franc managed to stay within striking distance of Thursday's final, as a fair amount of buying by commercials and bank purchases imparted a firm undertone. However, coincident with the passing of noon there came a flood of selling orders from abroad, which soon had new low levels established in each. Bankers were without news of a special character to account for the fresh decline, but pointed to the status of the Cabinet, which might stand or fall with the approval or rejection of the financial plans of M. Caillaux to be presented next week.

Italian lire were influenced lower on the uncertainty which faces the Government's plan for lengthening the work-day, and with little support in sight sagged 11 points to 3.45¾ cents. Talk of a Spanish revolt sent the pesetas down to 16.01 cents, a loss of 10 points. Holland and Swedish were heavy, but Danish and Norwegian firm. Sterling finished unchanged at $4.86¼, on a rally from $4.86. South Americans and Far Easterns were quiet and unchanged.

PARIS, July 2.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 1 franc lower at 45 francs 50 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan 30 centimes lower at 48 francs 50 centimes.

Exchange on London 2 francs 5 centimes higher at 181 francs 35 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 37 francs 89 centimes, against 36 francs 90 centimes yesterday.

General Electric Orders Larger.

New business aggregating $76,000,000 was booked in the second quarter by the General Electric Company, it was estimated yesterday. In the first quarter the new bookings were $86,434,000, while in the second quarter of last year they were $66,463,000.

RAIL FIREMEN ASK INCREASES IN WAGES

Advance of $1 to $1.25 a Day Sought in Petition to Eastern Roads.

WANT REPLY BY JULY 25

Demands Expected to Be Refused and the Matter Sent to New Mediation Board.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen has followed the conductors and trainmen in petitioning the eastern railroads for an advance in wages and a change in working conditions, it was learned yesterday.

The railroads are asked to reply by July 25 and to authorize a conference committee of managers to meet with a committee of Chairmen representing the firemen. It is generally conceded that the demands will be refused and that the matter will reach the new Board of Mediation.

The demands of the firemen follow:

"Except as otherwise provided herein, existing rates of pay for firemen, helpers, hostlers and outside hostler helpers shall be increased $1 per day.

"In freight service on steam, electric or other power weighing 250,000 pounds and over on drivers and mallet engines, existing rates of pay shall be increased $1.25 per day.

"Gradations of locomotives, according to weight on drivers, to be extended to 550,000 pounds and over in freight service, with an additional increase of 25 cents per day to be applied for each 50,000 pounds above 250,000 pounds on drivers.

"Rates applicable to mallet locomotives to be applied to three-cylinder locomotives in all classes of service, according to weight on drivers.

"It is understood that the weight of all other power-driven wheels will be added to the weight on drivers of locomotives that are equipped with boosters, and the weights produced by such increased weights shall fix the rates for the respective classes of service.

"In all passenger service the earnings from mileage, overtime or other rules applicable, for each day service performed, shall not be less than $6.25 for firemen.

"For local or way freight service, except where higher differentials exist, 40 cents per 1,000 miles or less for firemen shall be added to the through freight rates, according to class of engine; miles over 100 to be paid pro rata."

Regarding payment for overtime, the petition says:

"Firemen and helpers on short turnaround passenger runs, no single trip of which exceeds eighty miles, including suburban and branch line service, shall be paid overtime on the minute basis at pro rata rates for all time in excess of eight hours, computed continuously from the time first required to report for duty to the final release at the end of the last run. This rule applies regardless of the mileage made. For calculating overtime under this rule the management may designate the initial trip."

INTEREST IN BANKS ABROAD.

Jacoby Made Purchases to Aid Operations in European Utilities.

H. Murray Jacoby, head of Jacoby, Grace & Co., issued a statement yesterday saying that his recent purchases of several Central European banks was chiefly to facilitate operations in the European utility field.

Mr. Jacoby declared that in the last six years some American utility holding company stocks had increased 24,000 per cent. in value and that profits in utility investment outdistanced profits in real estate or other fields. He attributed the appreciation in domestic utility issues to better credit conditions, accelerated growth in electric consumption as a result of post-war building construction, to changed investing psychology and to the pyramiding feature peculiar to holding companies.

NEWCOMB D. & H. COUNSEL.

He Takes Judge Noyes's Place on Road—Has Much Work Ahead.

Harry Turner Newcomb, general solicitor of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad since 1921, has been appointed general counsel, effective July 1.

This action places Mr. Newcomb at the head of the road's legal staff at a time when very important projects are pending, including Leonor F. Loree's application to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to build a new Eastern trunk line, financed by the Harriman estate. Mr. Newcomb will assist Charles Evan Hughes in presenting the Loree-Harriman plan to the commission. His appointment fills the vacancy caused by the recent death of Judge Walter C. Noyes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Business will be practically suspended in the financial district today, all markets remaining closed until Tuesday for the triple holiday. The banks will be open today, as will their foreign exchange departments, but it is expected that business will be very light. The machinery of Wall Street was handled yesterday by a "skeleton staff," and before 5 o'clock practically all brokerage offices were closed. Many Stock Exchange firms let a goodly number of their employes go on Thursday night, to avoid the holiday traffic.

Closing the Market "at the Top."

It is usually the case when Wall Street is confronted with so extended a holiday, that especially heavy profit-taking develops in the final trading, particularly if the market has had a considerable advance. That, however, is just what did not occur yesterday. There was profit-taking, to be sure, and a great deal of it, but every pool stood behind its own stock and there seemed to be a willing buyer for every eager seller. There were periods of irregularity, notably at 10:30, at 12:15 and 2 o'clock, but these were seen by Wall Street as an attempt to turn the market about. Within half an hour of the close prices were practically at their best for the day and the market showed some sizable gains, especially in United States Steel common, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Nash Motors, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical and Republic Iron & Steel.

Listening for Special News.

Apparently the market has not yet reached the stage where it is willing to close its ears to news of the day. Two developments yesterday found immediate reflection in the stock market. One of them was in the case of the Erie shares, which climbed sharply on gossip about the terms which would be offered to the road's stockholders in the new Nickel Plate merger. The terms, it was predicted, would be more favorable than those last offered, and Erie directors were said to have approved them. Another happening of market consequence was, oddly enough, on the other side. Reports that the Interborough Rapid Transit workers would strike next Tuesday, unless demands for increased wages were granted, caused a decline in local tractions. Fifteen minutes before the close Interborough had dropped from 43 to 40 in a single run on the tape.

Cheerful Words for Business.

Whether or not all prognostications for the last half-year come true, it was regarded yesterday as a matter of importance to the financial district, at least, that persons holding hopeful views had so many powerful sympathizers. The veteran, George F. Baker, cheered the Street mightily with one of his infrequently expressed views of the future. It was optimistic in the extreme, even though his expressed disbelief in a "split-up of steel shares" did dampen the ardor of those who hope for such action. The statement of the National City Bank on business conditions, too, received a good deal of attention, especially its remark that those who had been pessimistic on business conditions had been wrong. Wall Street in its present mood is very glad to follow any optimistic banner, and after it had digested these cheerful statements it proceeded to bid up stocks.

Congress Adjourns.

The adjournment of Congress today leaves the Railroad Labor act the one piece of carrier legislation to have found its way through the mazes which handicap the progress of a bill. This law is believed generally to represent an important move in bridging the gulf which has existed between the railroads and their employes since immediately after the resumption of private control. The railroad loan bill, the Parker consolidation bill and other constructive efforts, however, have been left stranded until the short session of next December. At that time there is hope for the Parker bill, but the loan legislation is expected to remain on the shelf until Congress has done something for the farmers.

A "Surplus Market."

Wall Street has had its war bride markets, its stock dividend markets and its merger markets. Just now there is a more or less prevalent belief that it is entering what might be called a "surplus market"; that is, it has the idea firmly in mind that most of the big corporations which have built up great surpluses in cash, Treasury certificates and Liberty bonds have received a quiet hint that these should be distributed to stockholders before the tax assessor lays a heavy hand on them. It is admittedly a considerable distance from the strong box of the United States Steel Corporation, for instance, to the stockholders' bank account, but Wall Street, nevertheless, has been trying to discount something it hopes will happen in the not too far distant future. The particular stocks which were bought yesterday on this premise were Steel common, General Motors, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Tobacco and Allied Dye & Chemical.

Nickel Plate Merger Progress.

With preliminary action by the Erie and Chesapeake & Ohio out of the way and approval by the present Nickel Plate a foregone conclusion, the Van Sweringens have only the Pere Marquette and Hocking Valley to persuade before presenting their modified plan to the commission. Meanwhile they are believed to be checking up the personnel of the railroads involved with a view of selecting the best men to place on the new Nickel Plate staff. Several important changes are expected by railroad men before Summer ends. Apparently the Cleveland promoters feel more certain of success than they did prior to the filing of the original application, as they did little, if anything, at that time toward the selection of new officials.

The Crude Oil Situation.

The position of the petroleum market was illustrated by unofficial, but apparently trustworthy, estimates of crude oil production that have appeared lately in the industry. The total output of the United States in the first half year was placed at about 355,000,000 barrels, which represents a decrease of about 22,000,000 barrels from last year. It was calculated that production in the first half of 1926 was at the approximate rate of 710,000,000 barrels for the entire year. Oil men anticipate, however, that the second-half output will show a still larger decrease. Taking into account the rapid shrinkage in the yield of some of the older pools, there is believed to be a strong likelihood that the falling off in the year's output will amount to about 75,000,000 barrels.

General Motors Expanding.

The intensive prosecution by the General Motors Corporation of its expansion program, as indicated by the statement of President Alfred P. Sloan Jr., is being used to refute reports of possible curtailment of automobile production and slowing down of the demand for automotive products. General Motors is spending about $40,000,000 to enlarge its producing capacity. Virtually all divisions of the corporation will benefit from the outlay. It has been widely reported in the industry that General Motors was preparing for intensive competition and in this respect some of the other large manufacturers are apparently no less alert. However, the general opinion seems to be that recent instances of price-cutting did not indicate a general trend, but were more in the line of readjustments to meet particular situations.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1926.

In an active day, so far as demand went, there being heavy withdrawals due to the approaching holiday, Stock Exchange call money ruled at 4½ per cent. throughout, while a few trades were reported at 4¼ in the Street market. About $20,000,000 was recalled, which is considerably in excess of the routine, and only slightly below the heavy calling of early week. Time money was dull and unchanged. No 4¼ per cent. was in sight, but several transactions at 4⅜ and 4½ per cent. were made. Commercial paper and acceptances continued quiet and without variation in discount.

FOREIGN BONDS LEAD IN WEEK'S OFFERINGS

Provide $61,500,000 of Total of $106,252,000 Placed on the Market Here.

UTILITY ISSUES COME NEXT

Public Service Companies Bring Out $18,300,000—Offers Below Last Week's Aggregate.

Foreign issues led the bond offerings this week but the aggregate of all issues showed a decrease from last week. Offerings totaled $106,252,000, compared with $114,953,500 last week and $77,245,500 in the same week last year. Issues of German origin provided the largest individual totals and there were also two substantial Canadian offerings. The public utilities provided the second largest group of offerings.

By groups the offerings of this and last week compare as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Foreign	$61,500,000	$40,323,000
Public utility	18,300,000	31,385,000
Industrial	10,750,000	4,200,000
State and municipal	10,562,000	14,545,500
Farm loan	3,000,000	3,500,000
Railroad	2,140,000	21,000,000
Total	$106,252,000	$114,953,500

The largest issue was the $30,000,000 United Steel Works of Germany 6½ per cent. bonds brought out by a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co. at a price to yield more than 6.80 per cent. Next in size was the $15,000,000 of 6½ per cent. Saxon Public Works offering by the National City Company and Lee, Higginson & Co. Still another German issue was $3,000,000 of Roman Catholic Church 7 per cent. bonds.

The railroad group was represented by a single offering of $2,140,000 of 6 per cent. notes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford by Kidder, Peabody & Co., and Coffin & Burr.

A $6,000,000 offering of Public Service Company of Colorado 6 per cent. debentures headed the public utility offerings. This was followed by an issue of $5,500,000 of Southern Cities Utilities Company 6 per cent. bonds.

There were wide offerings under the State and municipal heading, but most of them were of small amounts.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering $1,350,000 of first mortgage serial coupon three-to-fifteen-year gold bonds, secured by the land and twelve-story Vancouver Georgia Hotel, Vancouver, B. C.

Prudden & Co. offer a new issue of $200,000, Sarasota County, Fla., School District No. 1, 5½ per cent. bonds, due July 1, 1930-1956, at prices to yield 5.25 per cent.

The second major financing by the Florida Power & Light Company will be carried out Tuesday, when $12,000,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds will be offered by Bonbright & Co., Harris, Forbes & Co.; J. G. White & Co., Old Colony Trust Company and Tucker, Anthony & Co. The yield will be about 5.35 per cent. The same syndicate brought out $30,000,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the utility in January at 93½, to yield about 5.45 per cent.

BRITISH LIVING COST SHOWS TRIFLING RISE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 2.—The changes in commodity prices in June were comparatively small, according to The Economist. Its index number shows a change of only six points, and in the upward direction, the total being 4035, compared with 4029 at the end of May. June, however, is the first month of 1926 in which the decline has been negligible. The net decline in six months amounts to 216 points.

The figures by groups of articles are:

	July 1 1926.	June 1 1926.	July 1 1925.
Cereals and meats	893.5	885.5	885.5
Other food products	682.5	681	704.5
Textiles	963.5	978.5	1,234
Minerals	735	718.5	736
Miscellaneous	760.5	765.5	791
Percentage of change	183.4	183.1	197.8

"Other food products" include tea, sugar, &c., and "miscellaneous" includes rubber, timber and oils.

The following table shows The London Economist's index number of average prices for other recent months and for July 1 of previous years:

U. G. I. PICKS A. W. THOMPSON

Philadelphia Company Head Succeeds S. T. Bodine as President.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP).—Arthur W. Thompson of Pittsburgh was elected President of the United Gas Improvement Company today, succeeding Samuel T. Bodine, who becomes Chairman of the Board of Directors. Both elections become effective Sept. 1.

Mr. Thompson is President of the Philadelphia Company. Among the other companies with which he is associated are the Duquesne Light Company, Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Equitable Gas Company.

Mr. Bodine has been President of the U. G. I. since 1912, having risen from a clerical position. Mr. Thompson started as a rodman on a railroad.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Following receipt of word today that he had been elected President of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, Arthur W. Thompson immediately made public his resignation as head of the Philadelphia company, which maintains headquarters here. It is understood that he will receive a substantial increase in salary over the $100,000 a year he received here. Mr. Thompson said he would retain his place in the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

BANK CLEARINGS OFF 6 PER CENT. IN WEEK

$5,840,000,000 Reported Here Was 8.5 Per Cent. Below Last Year.

TOTAL WAS $9,364,156,000

Only Six Cities on the List Had Gains—Boston Was 33.6 Per Cent. Ahead.

Bank clearings this week in twenty-three leading cities fell below those of the corresponding week of last year, the aggregate being $9,364,156,000, against $9,995,697,000, a decrease of 6.1 per cent. This drop was attributed to the fact that the total for the week ended July 21, 1925, included operations for the first two days of July, when payments through the banks were unusually heavy. During the current week clearings for only one day of July are included.

New York City reported clearings of $5,840,000,000 for the week, a decrease of 8.5 per cent. The total at outside centres, $3,524,156,000, was 2.4 per cent. smaller than that reported last year. Most outside cities reported decreases, but gains were registered at Boston, Buffalo, Kansas City, Dallas, Los Angeles and Seattle.

GASOLINE OUTPUT A RECORD

Production in May Reached Billion Gallon Mark for First Time.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Gasoline production reached the billion gallon mark for the first time in the history of the industry during May, when the output totaled 1,019,375,000 gallons, the Bureau of Mines reported today.

This figure broke the new record established in April. Exports in May were maintained at the high level set in the preceding month. Stocks on hand May 31 totaled 1,802,101,000 gallons and domestic demand was 988,677,000 gallons, an increase in daily average over the preceding month of 15 per cent.

North American Company Expands.

The North American Company has acquired the stock of five public utilities operating in Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. The amount paid is understood to have been upward of $500,000. Properties acquired are the Powers Spalding Light, the Dickinson County Public Service, the Aurora Electric Light-Power, the Amasas Lighting and the Alpha Lighting Company.

OUTLOOK FOR TRADE IS CONSIDERED GOOD

Warmer Weather, Vacation Needs and Better Crop Reports Have Spurred Retailing.

STEEL BUSINESS GROWS

Dun's Thinks Pessimism of Early Months Has Gone—Wholesale Trade Quiet, Bradstreet's Says.

As the second half of the year gets under way an observation of conditions at present shows that on almost all sides there are expressions of satisfaction with the current trend of trade and industry, and the prospect for the remainder of 1926 is distinctly encouraging. Warmer weather, vacation needs, and better crop reports have resulted in a noteworthy expansion of retail trade, while the wholesale and jobbing trades are of the fill-in variety.

Industry is variable at present, due to slowing up in some branches on account of Summer closures.

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says:

"The most conspicuous phase has been the progressive growth of business in the iron and steel industries at a time when a let-down would be natural, and the output of steel in the last six months exceeded all precedent. A better feeling has developed lately in the leather and footwear trades. Many wholesale quotations remain at relatively low levels, and narrow profit margins on various individual transactions have been a cause for complaint, yet it is significant that the mid-year dividend payments set a new record.

"Expectations of commercial expansion have not in all cases been realized this year thus far, but the pessimism that was shown in some quarters during early months has been largely dispelled by the comparative stability of general conditions, despite the handicap of a late Spring. One of the encouraging factors now is the betterment in the crop outlook. Each week of late has been featured by an unusually heavy volume of freight traffic, and some other statistical comparisons also are favorable, with a decided reduction in the liabilities of failures in the first half of this year."

Bradstreet's says:

"Better reports from most crops, but particularly Winter wheat, corn and cotton; heavy marketing of Winter wheat, with flour milling more active; warmer weather and vacation needs purchasing have all combined to help retail trade, the net result being one of the best weeks in retail buying since the year began. Southern crop reports are good, and the Southwest harvested one of the largest Winter-wheat crops on record. Wholesale and jobbing trade has naturally tended to quiet down as the inventory period approached; fill-in orders constitute the chief business, and future buying is rather restricted.

"Among the industries, relatively most quiet is found in the textiles, and particularly cotton goods, which have witnessed something like the old-time Summer shutdowns over the mid-year period. In the automobile industry the early Summer weeks have seen a slowing down of activity, with fewer men reported at work at the leading manufacturing centre than a year ago."

Buys Philippine Radio Company.

The Radio Corporation of America has purchased the Radio Corporation of the Philippines, a local organization having concessions for ship-to-shore messages and broadcasting.

A. M. BYERS STOCK INCREASE

Retirement of Bonds to Be Proposed to Stockholders on Sept. 7.

Rights to subscribe to additional preferred or common stock will soon be offered to stockholders of the A. M. Byers Company, it was announced yesterday. The proceeds of the projected offer, the amount of which has not as yet been determined, will be used to retire the first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds of the company at 103 and interest. About $2,500,000 will be needed, supplementing cash on hand. There are now $3,800,000 of these bonds outstanding.

A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for Sept. 7 to ratify a proposed increase in the authorized preferred stock from $4,500,000 to $7,000,000, and in the common stock from 150,000 to 200,000 no par shares. Of the common, 10,000 shares are to be reserved for employes.

Exchange Rules on Yellow Truck.

Transactions in Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Company Class B stock shall be ex-rights on July 9, according to a ruling by the Stock Exchange Committee on Securities. Transactions in rights must be settled July 27, it was also ruled.

STRENGTH HOLDS UP IN UNLISTED STOCKS

Such Irregularity as Appeared in List Laid to Pre-Holiday Profit-Taking.

JOHNS-MANVILLE UP AGAIN

Several Leading Industrial and Bank Securities End Day at Higher Prices.

A strong undertone again characterized the market for unlisted securities yesterday and there were several outstanding features in all of the groups, although there was some measure of irregularity and profit-taking, especially in the shares which have had a big run-up during the last week. Most declines were said to be due to pre-holiday selling.

Among the industrial issues which went higher were Johns-Manville, which closed with an advance of 11 points, and Southern Baking, which gained 5 points in the late trading. Other points of strength in the industrial list were Aluminum Company common, American Sales Book, Bucyrus preferred, Curtis Publishing common, National Fuel Gas, Rolls-Royce preferred, Shaffer Oil preferred and Superheater, all of which moved up 1 point.

Moderate recessions occurred in Aeolian-Weber preferred and common, International Silver common, McCall, Standard Screw and United Milk Products common. Ziely Process regained an early loss and advanced 2 points net on the day.

Strength was evenly distributed in the bank stock list, reflecting publication of the June 30 statement. Seaboard National and Farmers Loan and Trust each gained 5 points. Three points were gained by Irving-Columbia and 2 points by the Manufacturers Trust shares. Guaranty Trust shares were off 5 points on the day. The shares of the American Surety and of the Lawyers Mortgage were in demand and gained 10 points each.

TO OPEN STAMFORD FERRY.

Mack Marine Corporation Starts Service From Oyster Bay Today.

The Mack Marine Corporation has been organized to operate a ferry service between Stamford, Conn., and Oyster Bay, L. I., according to C. Lester Horn of Riverside, Conn., and 60 Broadway, who has financed the new service privately. Captain Leon R. Swift is president of the corporation and C. C. Kelley, secretary and treasurer.

Service on the first line between Stamford and Oyster Bay will begin this morning. Heretofore the only ferry service between New England and Long Island has been the line between Greenwich and Bayville.

The new line makes double-deck provision for 45 cars and 1,000 passengers, and runs from the Canal Street doc at Stamford to the Oystermen's dock at Oyster Bay. Sailing hours from Stamford will be 7 A. M., 9:30 A. M., 12 noon, 2:30 P. M., 5 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. From Oyster Bay the sailing time will be 8 A. M., 10:30 A. M., 1 P. M., 3:30 P. M., 6 P. M. and 9:30 P. M. Special trips will be made and freight carried by arrangement.

Wall St. Boys Hold Pre-Fourth Celebration at Subtreasury

Heavy firing in the vicinity of the Subtreasury interrupted the orderly routine of business in Wall Street yesterday and caused momentary thoughts of a hold-up. Policemen made a few attempts to halt the disturbance, but owing to the numbers engaged they made little headway. Anyway their hearts did not seem to be in the work.

Telegraph boys, carriers for news services and other youthful messengers on errands requiring haste found time to explode firecrackers of various kinds in numerous informal pre-Fourth celebrations. One of the most effective displays was provided by a celebrator who set off a string of firecrackers near that entrance of the Subtreasury through which bullion shipments usually are carried.

The pyrotechnics chosen for the demonstrations varied from the "big boy" type of firecrackers to those which emit showers of sparks when ignited.

DECREASED TRADE WITH EUROPE DURING MAY

Our Exports to That Continent $29,945,000 Below 1925, Imports Down $2,749,000.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—Europe and North America took most of this country's $356,621,029 merchandise exports during May, while Asia supplied almost one-third of the import total of $321,028,662, the Commerce Department today announced.

Exports to the United Kingdom total $55,499,776, against $62,805,950, while imports from that country were $24,400,968, against $31,676,362. Exports to Germany were $21,202,271, against $28,726,631, and imports were $14,412,886, against $9,521,700.

WATER COMPANY IS SOLD.

Community of New York Buys Washington (Pa.) Utility.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2.—The Citizens' Water Company, operating here since 1874, announced today that it had sold its entire plant and equipment to the Community Water Service Company of New York, the transfer being effective at once. The stock of the local concern, which supplies water to Washington and surrounding districts, was sold at par, totaling $500,000, while the Community Water Service Company assumed payment of outstandnig bonds in the sum of $1,000,000.

The Citizens' Water Company owns a watershed of 1,013 acres four miles from Washington, four reservoirs, filtration and sedimentation plants and about fifty miles of water mains. The company is to be refinanced at once, it was announced.

Match Co. Plans Stock Increase.

Stockholders of the International Match Corporation will met Aug. 3 at Wilmington, Del., to vote on a proposal to increase the authorized capital from 2,350,000 to 2,800,000 shares. The increase, if approved, will be in the participating preferred issue, which will be increased from 900,000 to 1,350,000 shares.

LARGE COTTON CROP IS AGAIN INDICATED

Government's Prediction 15,635,000 Bales, Against Harvest of 16,085,905 in 1925.

Estimate of 16,294,000 Bales if Last Year's Conditions Repeated, 13,726,000 if Conditions Adverse.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—A cotton crop of 15,635,000 equivalent 500-pound bales this year is indicated by a condition of 75.4 per cent. of a normal June 25 on the 48,898,000 acres then in cultivation, the Department of Agriculture today announced.

If developments during the remainder of the season are as unfavorable as during 1921, 1922 and 1923 a total production of about 13,726,000 bales might be expected, the department announced, but if as favorable as during 1924 and 1925 about 16,294,000 bales might be expected.

Production last year was 16,085,905 bales and the June 25 condition was 75.9 per cent. of a normal, while the average annual production during the last ten years was 11,704,242 bales and the average June 25 condition for the ten years was 73.5 per cent.

The area in cultivation on June 25 was 1.7 per cent. more than in 1925; 14.7 per cent. more than in 1924, and 25.3 per cent. more than the average of the five years 1921-25. If the per cent. of cotton area abandoned during this season should be equal to the average of the last ten years the area which would remain to be harvested this year would be 47,153,000 acres. Upon that acreage the crop indicated from the June 25 condition would approximate a yield of 158.5 pounds of lint cotton per acre.

Condition of the crop on June 25 by States with comparisons follows:

Lower California is not included in United States totals. The acreage in other States is made up of 6,000 in Illinois, 2,000 in Kansas, and 42,000 in Kentucky. The average in Arizona of prime Egyptian long staple cotton is estimated at 30,000 acres.

The Government's estimate of the size of the crop, based on the condition as of June, 1925, together with the actual harvest in previous years, compares as follows, in 500-pound bales:

Year.	July Estimate	Actual Harvest
1926	15,635,000	....

CURB MAKES NEW RECORDS.

Trading of 65,115,000 Shares Reported for Half Year.

A recapitulation of transactions of the New York Curb Exchange shows a total trading during the first half of the year of 65,115,000 shares, the heaviest on record. Dealings were largely in representative industrials, public utilities, Standard Oils and independent oils, whereas in former years the volume was in turnovers in low-priced mining issues. Most of these have been stricken from the list.

The daily average of trading since Jan. 1 was 362,500 shares, the heaviest month's trading being 15,203,700 shares in January and the smallest 7,165,400 shares in May. The most active market was the 1,200,300 shares of March 3 and the smallest 212,100 on April 20. The heaviest single hour was 525,000 shares on March 2, between 2 and 3 o'clock. During the six months there were forty-five days when transactions were more than 500,000 shares, and on two days transactions exceeded 1,000,000 shares. Bonds dealt in since Jan. 1 totaled $225,000,000. This also set a new high record.

New Traffic Lamp Developed.

Development of a new incandescent lamp, especially designed for traffic signals, was announced yesterday by the General Electric Company. The new lamp will burn 50 per cent. longer than the types now in use, it is said. It will have a better candle-power maintenance, as it is a gas-filled lamp, whereas those now in service are of the vacuum type.

MARX WITRDRAWS BILL ON EX-RULERS

Chancellor, Opposed by Two Big Parties, Drops Measure Rather Than Resign.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 2.—Chancellor Wilhelm Marx this afternoon avoided a threatened Cabinet crisis and a Reichstag dissolution by the simple method of withdrawing the Government's bill for settling the claims of Germany's former ruling houses during its third reading.

After the Socialists' decision of last night that they were unable to support the measure, and the Nationalists' proclamation today that they are taking a like stand, there seemed no other course for the Marx Cabinet to follow, except presenting its resignation to the Reich's President, Marshal von Hindenburg.

However, President von Hindenburg sent the Chancellor a letter this morning asking him not to take this action, saying neither the Government's resignation nor a Reichstag dissolution would help matters in the least.

During the debate on the third reading the Chancellor took the floor instead of a Communist speaker and announced the Government's decision to withdraw the compromise bill.

For more than a minute there was complete silence, none of the Deputies expecting the move. Laughter then broke out in the extreme political wings, and it was several minutes before the Chancellor was able to continue.

He stated that the Government had decided to resign if either of the large parties—that is, the Socialists or Nationalists—failed to support its compromise bill. However, since both of these parties were opposing it, and owing to President von Hindenburg's letter, they had decided to withdraw the bill instead.

The Reichstag then hurriedly passed the third reading of the "Sperrgesetz" (bar law), which prevents the courts rendering decisions on the claims of the ex-rulers. This bill passed some time ago, but was held up awaiting a decision by the popular referendum or Reichstag action, but its validity expired yesterday.

Today's law is valid until the end of the present year. Both Nationalists and Socialists supported it.

Thus the question as to what belongs to the Hohenzollerns and other ex-reigning families and what is State property is still unsettled, and after more than six months the argument is no closer to a finish.

Weeks have been devoted by the Reichstag to this discussion alone. Germany's first referendum was held on the question, but all to no avail. Only three States—Prussia, Gotha and Mecklenburg-Strelitz—have not reached a settlement with their former Princes.

Though the deposed rulers cannot appeal to the courts for the present, there is nothing to prevent them reaching an agreement with the various State Governments. It is known that the Hohenzollerns favor this method of procedure for their claims against the Prussian State, but they also have other claims for losses of properties in Silesia and Posen, which now belong to Poland, and for other properties in Italy.

For compensation for these foreign properties they have made claims the same as other private citizens.

REPORT ON COTTON CAUSES BIG SALES

News of Increased Acreage Sends All New Crop Deliveries to Record Lows.

Although the first Government cotton report of the season showed a slightly lower condition figure than had been generally anticipated, the increase in acreage over last year's record total indicated a yield of 15,635,000 bales, which was fully up to popular expectations. As a result, heavy selling followed the showing, causing a loss of about one-quarter of a cent and establishing new low records for all new crop deliveries. With a three-day holiday ahead, the market met resistance on the decline and ended at a loss of 21 to a gain of 2 points for the day.

Favorable weather throughout the South, where sixteen stations in Arkansas reported maximum temperatures of 100 degrees or over, aided the decline. Pressure extended from July to May, and it was not until December touched 16 cents that large supporting orders in both the January and May positions arrested the movement. Covering operations the last hour under the lead of active support in May developed a recovery of $1 a bale and left distant positions virtually unchanged on the day.

The reference to insects in the supplementary description of the crop accompanying yesterday's report attracted considerable attention. While the number of weevils present seems to be less than last year, according to the department, except in Texas and Louisiana, the rather wide infestation of the crop by the hopper flea, combined with the lateness of the season in most States, leaves the crop in an unfavorable position should the number of weevil increase materially later in the season.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Office for "Unlisted" Dealers.

The Unlisted Securities Dealers Association, formed to promote harmony among dealers in "over-the-counter" stocks, announces that beginning next Tuesday it will open an office at 56 Pine Street to collect quotations of unlisted stocks and news concerning them. The office will be under the direction of John A. Baldwin and Charles W. Lowell.

OPPOSE COST NOW AS RAIL VALUATION

Counsel of Federal and State Commissions Back Up the I. C. C. Basis.

FAVOR INVESTMENT BASIS

Point Is Raised When All Lines Intervene in a Proposal for St. Louis Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Opponents of a policy which would have the Interstate Commerce Commission determine the valuation of railroads for rate making on the basis of reproduction costs, made the principal arguments today when the commission continued its hearings on the report of Examiner Kelley, who has proposed a short-cut method to arrive immediately at the value of the St. Louis & O'Fallon and the Manufacturers Railway, two little carriers owned by the Adolphus Busch estate.

The hearings were closed this afternoon and counsel were given ten days to file briefs.

The Kelley report, which has not yet been accepted by the commission, recommends a determination of valuation for recapture purposes, by adding to the tentative value of carriers fixed by the commission subsequent additions to the capital account of the properties, but this is being opposed by representatives of large railroad interests on the ground that Supreme Court decisions compel the commission to give consideration to reproduction costs in arriving at valuation.

Will Go Up to Supreme Court.

The arguments of opponents and proponents of the Kelley method and questions put to counsel for both sides by members of the commission, indicated much uncertainty as to just what course the commission must follow under the terms of the Transportation act of 1920, in assessing valuation, and the opinion was pretty general tonight that the whole matter must go to the United States Supreme Court for a decision covering all of the controversial points of law involved.

Fred G. Dorety, general counsel of the Bureau of Valuations of the commission, who advocated adoption of the Kelley report, contended that the law gave the commission the right to select the process of fixing a valuation which was fair and just to all concerned, and that it would be a distortion of the Transportation act to figure valuation on the basis of reproduction cost alone, when the law stated that the commission simply must give due regard to all elements involved.

Those who advocated valuation for rate making and recapture on the basis of reproduction costs, he felt, had not given full consideration to the great values involved. To follow out such a course with all of the railroads, he said, would be to create a valuation of about $35,000,000,000, a "fantastic figure" which would not be accepted by the public mind.

Woodlock Stands by Principle.

He also quoted Commissioner Woodlock as expressing the opinion before a Congressional committee that this was not the time finally to value the railroads, and the Commissioner interrupted him to remark that he had not advocated abandonment of the reproduction cost principle.

Mr. Dorety said that the vastness of the sum, in connection with reproduction cost valuation of the railroads, apparently had not been appreciated by the courts in the consideration of public utility cases in which they had rendered decisions.

To adopt reproduction cost valuation, said Mr. Dorety, would mean adding to the present tentative valuation of the carriers almost another $15,000,000,000, giving a total valuation of about $35,000,000,000. If the commission were to set up rates giving a fair return on this valuation, he added, it would mean additional revenue of $862,500,000 a year to the carriers which the public must pay.

Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the National Council on Valuation of American Railroads, of which Senator Norris of Nebraska is Chairman, argued in support of features of the Kelley report which provided for valuation on the basis of investment rather than reproduction costs.

"A valuation of public utility properties on any other basis than that of prudent investment is contrary to the public policy defined by Congress and established in the Constitution of the United States," he said.

States Oppose Reproduction Cost Basis.

John C. Benton, representing the State Utilities Commissions, argued that valuation on the reproduction cost basis was impractical and that it had been demonstrated as such by the attitude of most of the big railroads in not seeking a fair return on such a basis because they knew that it would create a valuation greater than the traffic would bear.

He expressed the opinion, however, that if the Kelley report was adopted by the commission it would be rejected by the courts, as it did not take into consideration reproduction costs, and the Transportation act provided that all elements, including reproduction costs, must be considered.

When the national conference on American railroads was organized in 1923, under the leadership of the late Senator La Follette, there was much clamor raised by its members for a slashing reduction of the tentative valuation of the railroads by the commission at about $20,000,000,000, and the fact that this line of attack was not a part of arguments made today was a matter of interest.

PROFIT-TAKING FAILS TO BREAK CURB PRICES

Market Readily Absorbs Offers of Pre-Holiday Sellers and Holds Its Strength.

Stocks displayed a firm undertone on the Curb Exchange yesterday, and by so doing surprised a great many traders. Professionals attempted many times to bring about a reaction on pre-holiday profit-taking, but offerings were readily absorbed and at no time did the market lose its equilibrium.

As had been the case during the last several sessions, specialty movements were the more pronounced and substantial gains were registered by many. Johns-Manville again carried off major honors with an abrupt rise of 16 points, to 165, a new high record, and an advance of 25 points in two days, or since the report gained circulation that the stock might be split up.

Steadiness prevailed in the baking group, in which Purity Baking rose 2 points, to 43, a new top level, and public utilities ruled moderately active and firm, with American Light, United Gas and Improvement and Mohawk Valley in the vanguard. Standard Oils enjoyed a fair trade, although prices marked time. Hazeltine brightened the radio department by ruling exceptionally strong in reflection of the favorable court decisions relative to the company's patents.

In the domestic bond section, Florida Power 5s were most active at fractionally higher levels. Foreign obligations held their own, with interest largely centred in Thyssen Iron and Steel 7s, which ran up to 100⅝.

Patterson Gets $1,000,000 Policy.

An insurance policy for $1,000,000 has been purchased by Frederick B. Patterson, President of the National Cash Register Company, it was learned yesterday. This policy increases Mr. Patterson's total insurance to $1,800,000 and makes him the heaviest insured American citizen of his age, which is 34.

American Linseed Shifts Personnel.

Directors of the American Linseed Company voted yesterday to consolidate the duties of certain executives and to create the new office of Executive Vice President, to which Arthur Roeder, formerly President of the United States Radium Company was elected. B. H. Thurman was elected Vice President in charge of manufacturing and research; Jay Gould, Vice President in charge of sales and advertising, and H. U. Brandeth, Vice President in charge of Pacific Coast activities. The purchasing activities were consolidated under Albert Weischedel.

Surplus Freight Cars Increase.

A total of 270,162 surplus freight cars were maintained by Class I railroads in good condition and immediately available for service, according to June 22 reports filed with the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. Of these 76,594 were coal cars, 148,775 were box cars, 23,447 were stock cars and 14,068 were refrigerator cars. The total is an increase of 1,384 cars over the June 15 report.

Curb Admits New Shares.

The Curb Exchange has admitted to unlisted trading privileges 49,920 shares of $50 common stock of the Rockland Light and Power Company, 500,000 $25 capital shares of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, 509,820 par capital shares of the United Illuminating Company and 450,000 no par common shares of the Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating Corporation. The Exchange withdrew unlisted trading privileges from 150,000 common shares of the American Gas Company.

PRESSURE FORCES WHEAT INTO DECLINE

250,000 BUSHELS IN EXPORT

Kansas City and St. Louis Only Exchanges Open Today—Corn and Oats Higher.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—The wheat market showed an uneasy undertone but stubborn resistance to pressure and closing trades were at losses of only ½@1 cent in the face of fair selling by some of the leading buyers of yesterday. General evening up was under way, with good support in the July and September around $1.34 from houses that usually act for a leading local professional.

There were 175,000 bushels of old wheat sold in storage here today, with No. 2 red 1 cent and No. 2 hard 5 cents over the July, and it is understood that holdings in the East have also been sold. This was responsible for considerable changing over from July to September by shorts and the July closed ⅛ cent over the deferred delivery, against ¾ cent under at the finish on Wednesday.

Increased pressure to sell cash wheat was reported in the July with sales made at 3 cents over Chicago September.

Minneapolis was 1⅛ cents higher, on buying by mills which were removing hedges against flour sales. Winnipeg gained ⅞ cent.

Export demand was slow, with sales finally estimated at 250,000 bushels.

A majority of the local traders left tonight for the country and will not return until Monday night. Kansas City and St. Louis will be the only American exchanges open tomorrow and all will be closed Monday. Liverpool and Winnipeg will be open both days.

Messages from the Northwest indicate that the crop is steadily going backward this side of the international line, and estimates as to the yield are being reduced, one estimate being for 60,000,000 for North Dakota. On the other hand returns from Kansas and Oklahoma suggested that the crop has been under rather than over-estimated and Kansas is estimated to show around 150,000,000 bushels ultimately.

Even with that to come here from Kansas City, less than 1,000,000 bushels has been booked to arrive so far, a small total in view of the open interest and no old wheat available.

Primary arrivals today were 1,780,000 bushels; week ago, 1,211,000; last year, 1,019,000. Shipments were 647,000 bushels; week ago, 653,000; last year, 556,000 bushels.

Outside interest in corn and oats was light, with corn ⅛ to ⅝ and oats ⅛ to ½ cents higher; the bulk of the trade was in changing over from the July to the September. Private reports from Ohio indicated that the surplus in that State had been sold.

Primary arrivals of corn today were 479,000 bushels; week ago, 397,000; last year, 279,000, and shipments, 482,000 bushels; week ago, 371,000, last year 331,000.

Rye closed ⅜ to ⅝ lower with a light trade.

DEMAND FOR WOOL LIGHTER.

Prices, However, Continue to Be Well Held.

BOSTON, July 2.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The demand for wool has slackened somewhat this week, following three weeks of fairly keen business, during which prices have been moved up somewhat and by their advance have tended to halt business. The mills, too, are taking inventory and with the garment workers' strike in New York to consider have been disposed to wait a little for further buying. The week closes with prices firm at the advance.

"The new clip is being rapidly cleared, especially in the Far West, growers appearing disposed to unload at the new and slightly higher prices of the past fortnight.

"The foreign markets are firm, especially on fine wools, the last Australian sale of the season at Brisbane closing with prices well maintained. London is expected to rule steady on [illegible] consequence of Continental competition.

"Interest is being focused in the market on the opening of light-weight men's wear staples by the American Woolen Company, scheduled for July 7, the early opening arguing [illegible] in the outlook."

Wall St. Athletes to Compete.

Athletes in the financial district have been invited to participate in the annual water sports carnival of the Gipsy Trail Camp and Country Club on Gipsy Lake Monday afternoon. Many members of Wall Street houses are in the club. Daniel P. Higgins, Staten Island yachtsman, will be in charge of the carnival.

RUBBER IS STRONGER; ALL POSITIONS HIGHER

50-Point Gain in September and October Due to Reports of Restricted Shipments.

Crude rubber futures regained strength yesterday, the list showing gains of 10 to 50 points. Sales amounted to 104 lots.

September and October were the strongest positions, each scoring the maximum gain of 50 points. The strength in these deliveries followed the report that shipments from Singapore would be restricted in August, which would bring receipts in September and October below the usual amount.

The range of prices for the active deliveries yesterday was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Thursday Close.
July, new	41.50	41.10	41.30	41.00
July, old	41.30	41.20	41.30	40.90
September	41.90	41.30	41.80	41.30
October	42.40	42.00	42.30	41.80
December, new	42.80	42.50	*42.90	42.50
December, old	42.50	42.50	*42.60	42.50

*Nominal.

Other months closed: August, new-old, 41.40; September, 41.40; October, 42; November, new-old, 42.60; January, new-old, 43.20; February, 43.20; March, 43.20; April, 43.50; May, 44; June, 44. Spots, smoked ribbed sheets, were quoted at 42 cents.

There was also a firm undertone to prices in the outside market, with a good size turnover in September and October shipments, in keeping with the trend on the Exchange. The range of prices for the leading grades, spot and futures, follows:

	Spot.	July-Sept.	Oct.-Dec.
Ribbed smoked sheets	.42½	.40½	.41½
First latex crepe	.43½	.41½	.42¼
Amber No. 3	.39½	.37½	.38½
Clean thin brown crepe	.39¼	.37½	.38½
Para upriver	.36½	.34½	.35½

Tire reclaimed, 12c; shoe, 11c; tube, 22c.

DRY GOODS BEHIND YEAR AGO

But Current Wholesale Trade Exceeds That of Week Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was somewhat less than the same week a year ago, but maintained approximately the same volume as last week.

"Road sales failed to reach the total record of a year ago for the corresponding period.

"There were more customers in market than during the corresponding week in 1925.

"Collections were not quite as good as last year for the same period."

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Hog Market Finishes Lower—Lambs Higher, Beef in Good Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The hog market was steady early, with shippers and yard traders the best buyers, but the finish was easy, with prices 10 to 25 cents lower. A top of $15 was made early, equaling the best figure of the season, while the day's average was 10 cents lower, at $13.60. The bulk of the 200@225-pound averages sold at $14.25@$14.75, with 240@275-pound averages at $14@$14.25, heavy butchers selling largely at $13.65@$13.90 and packing sows at $11.50@$12.50.

Packers bought 13,800 and shippers 4,000, with 6,000 left over. Receipts were 14,000, with 5,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Fat lambs were strong to 15 cents higher, with a top of $15 on natives and $15.10 on Westerns, and the bulk of natives at $14.75@$15. Sheep were strong, with the bulk of the sales at $5@$6.50. Receipts were 7,000.

Cattle were steady to strong early, with low grades easier at the last. Best earlys sold at $10.15@$10.40 and heavy steers at $10.35. The bulk of beef steers brought $9@$10. Receipts were 3,000.

Receivers for Day-Elder Motors.

Equity receivers for the Day-Elder Motors Corporation of Irvington, N. J., were appointed yesterday by Federal Judge Runyon in Newark. They are T. McC. Marsh, Secretary of the company, and P. R. Van Duyne. The applying petition was filed by the Timken-Detroit Axle Company, which claimed $3,837. Liabilities were not scheduled. Assets were listed at about $340,000.

Munsingwear Reports Gain.

For the six months ended May 31 Munsingwear, Inc., and subsidiaries report a net income of $299,140, equivalent to $1.49 a share, on 200,000 shares of no par stock. This compared with 84 cents a share in the 1925 period. Officers of the company said business was now of a highly seasonal character and the high point would be reached in the second half year.

SEEK SISTER-IN-LAW OF COL. ARTHUR WOODS

Former New York Woman, Wife of Harvard Professor, Vanished From Coast Craft.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 2.—Search of the coastwise steamship lanes between New York and Portland is being continued by vessels of the Coast Guard fleet in the hope that some trace will be found of the body of Mrs. James H. Woods, wife of Professor Woods of Harvard, missing since a week ago today.

Her husband is a brother of Colonel Arthur Woods, former Police Commissioner of New York and former Assistant Secretary of War, who married a granddaughter of the late J. P. Morgan. Another brother is Joseph H. Woods of this city.

Mrs. Woods, before her marriage on July 17, 1907, was Gertrude Baldwin. She was a native of New York City.

The request for aid from the Government ships was made by Professor Woods to officials of the Eastern Steamship Line when his wife was reported missing from the Calvin Austin, on which she had booked passage from Portland, Me., to New York that day.

Vice President Andrew B. Sides of the steamship company said this evening that passage for Mrs. Woods was booked and that she sailed, so far as officials of the company can learn.

Mr. Sides said it had been reported by officers of the vessel that on arrival at the New York pier Mrs. Woods's stateroom was empty, and that she was not seen leaving the ship. Her ticket and luggage were found in the stateroom.

The request for aid from the Coast Guard was forwarded by the steamship company to the Eastern Division and Captain P. H. Uberroth, Commander, instructed all vessels in the service to watch carefully the course followed by the Calvin Austin in hope that the body would be found. Woods declined to comment on his wife's disappearance today.

Professor Woods is a graduate of Harvard and the Cambridge Theological School. He attended the Universities of Berlin, Strasbourg and Oxford. He is a student of religion and philosophy and has studied extensively in the Far East.

In 1916 Mrs. Woods accompanied her husband to France, where he lectured at several universities as exchange professor from Harvard.

Mercantile Marine Report.

The pamphlet report of the International Mercantile Marine Company was made public yesterday. The figures do not vary from the preliminary statement already published. Operation resulted in a gross profit of $4,116,015, but after depreciation of $5,656,105 was deducted the net result was a deficit of $1,540,090 compared to one of $1,079,304 for 1924.

Decrees Tax on Greek Bachelors.

ATHENS, July 2 (AP).—It is going to cost money for men to remain unmarried in Greece henceforth under the Pangalos régime. A decree issued today imposes a tax of 2,000 drachmas (about $24) on bachelors over 24 and 1,000 on those over 40.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Cash Grains Easier—Natural Reaction to Sharp Rally in Early Week.

Small losses were registered in the cash grains as a natural reaction to the vigorous upswing which these staples enjoyed since heaviness at midweek. Butter, lard and cotton also gave up ground. Groceries, other provisions, metals and textiles were firm.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

4 FLORIDA BANKS FORCED TO CLOSE

All Are in Suburbs of Miami, Two Shutting Down After Runs Start on Them.

ALL HOPE TO REORGANIZE

Miami Clearing House Head Blames Outside Loans and Control for Difficulties.

MIAMI, July 2 (AP).—Three suburban banks, State institutions, suspended operation, a financial institution at Dania closed its doors, and a Hollywood bank weathered a heavy withdrawal of funds today.

The Bank of Coconut Grove and the Bank of Buena Vista failed to open for business and the Bank of Little River closed after an hour's run.

The Bank of Dania, a short distance from Miami, suffered a similar withdrawal of funds and ceased operations just before noon.

At the same time the Bank of Hollywood, also a short distance north of this city, in Broward County, withstood a brief run.

The Bank of Buena Vista and the Bank of Coconut Grove, allied institutions, made the following separate announcements:

"The bank has decided to suspend operations for the present and will, therefore, not open for business today. It is actuated in this course by a desire to conserve its resources and to protect its depositors to the fullest extent. Local citizens are now working on a plan and will announce the details in a few days to organize a locally controlled institution for speedy liquidation and to relieve the situation."

The Bank of Buena Vista opened on Oct. 19, 1920, with a capital stock of $15,000, which had been raised $50,000. The officers include J. R. Anthony of Jacksonville, President, and John L. Grife, Vice President.

Local officials declined to announce present deposits for either institution.

The Bank of Coconut Grove opened in March, 1920, with $15,000 capital. On March 10 the bank announced a capitalization of $30,000 and deposits totaling $1,605,977. J. R. Anthony headed the Board of Directors, with A. W. Sanders as President.

The Bank of Little River, through President B. C. Teed, announced:

"In the circumstances we feel it advisable and desirable to suspend operations for the present. The bank is sound and in good shape. We have in excess of $200,000 in cash in our vaults and a reserve greater than 40 per cent. I do not think the depositors will lose a dollar." He intimated his intention of effecting an early reorganization.

President I. T. Parker of the Bank of Dania announced immediately after closing that a readjustment would be made to enable the bank to reopen soon and meet all obligations.

The run on the Bank of Hollywood was precipitated after the news came of the other closings, but was met through the receipt of funds from Miami banks.

President George Romfph of the Miami Clearing House Association, in commenting on the suspensions, declared that outside control and loans on outside paper were solely responsible.

FASCISTI DENY CURB ON FOREIGN NEWS

Under-Secretary Declares Correspondents Are Free to Write as They See Fit.

ROME, July 2 (AP).—Foreign newspaper correspondents in Italy are free to communicate news abroad as they see fit, declared Signor Grandi, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs. He denied that the Fascist Government was exerting a strict censorship on news for foreign countries.

Signor Grandi's declaration was made to a correspondent of The Associated Press on behalf of the Government. The Under-Secretary did not deny charges made by the Opposition that there was strict surveillance over the activities and dispatches of foreign correspondents by the local authorities. Dispatches were carefully read, which sometimes caused lengthy delay in their transmission. He maintained, however, that they were not refused transmission. The surveillance was necessary because it was too soon to relinquish all measures of protection and control after the activities of internal enemies of the Fascist régime.

"The idea that foreign correspondents in Italy are not free to express their opinion openly and to communicate news as they see fit," declared Signor Grandi, "has been spread abroad maliciously. None of the many prejudicial reports current abroad about Italy is falser than this one."

As proof of his statement, the Under-Secretary said that it was only necessary to read in foreign newspapers hostile comments concerning Italy and its Government sent direct from their correspondents in Rome. Both friendly and unfriendly correspondents, he added, had free access to the Italian information service.

Italy's authors must be instruments for her "spiritual imperialism," declared Premier Mussolini last night in inaugurating the new headquarters of the Italian Authors' Society.

"Italian writers, creators at home and abroad," Signor Mussolini said, "must be the carriers of the new type of Italian civilization. They must carry out what can be described as spiritual imperialism by means of the theatre, books and lectures."

Quake Adds to Therapeutic Attractions at Helwan.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, July 2.—The recent earthquake produced another spring at Helwan. Soon after the shock the fissure appeared within a dozen feet of the front door of a thermal establishment and a jet of hot water gushed out.

The Government ordered an investigation, and the analysis shows that the new spring is sulphuric, and is even stronger than other similar ones which give Helwan its hydro-therapeutic reputation.

Stabler Re-enters State Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Jordan Herbert Stabler of Baltimore has been appointed Chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs in the State Department to succeed Francis White, whose term of office has expired. Mr. Stabler held this post in 1917 when he resigned to join the All America Cable Company. Recently he served as Secretary General of the Plebiscitary Commission in Arica, and of which Major Gen. William Lassiter was Chairman and is at present in Panama.

SAYS JAPAN IS ARMING AGAINST US AND EUROPE

French Writer, Home From Far East, Is Convinced That Big War Is Threatened.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—Pierre Benoit, author of "Atlantis" and other successful books, who has just returned to Paris from the Far East, says he is convinced that Japan is destined to play the same part in the Orient as Prussia has among the German peoples and Turkey among the peoples of Islam—that she is steadily preparing for war against the United States and Europe which will enable her to unify the Buddhist peoples.

"Her eighty million inhabitants have no room on her islands," says M. Benoit, in an interview today. "She obviously aims to seize Hawaii and Manila and also to colonize China.

"In order to defeat America, Japan is building a fleet of formidable power. Nobody knows what is going on in the interior of the sea which forms the naval arsenal of Japan.

"I saw near our ship a submarine one hundred meters long, of which the construction is probably not allowed for in the Washington agreements."

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

More Declines Than Advances, but Most Were Not Important.

Although both the declines and advances shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodities this week were fewer than those of last week the excess of the former over the latter was slightly larger than it was then. Thirty-nine of the sixty-three revisions indicated this week were declines, while last week, in seventy-five changes, forty-four were downward. In the foodstuffs there were nearly two declines to every advance.

The following table gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They were corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.

†Nominal.

Fifteen of the week's twenty-three changes in the foodstuffs were downward. In the local market for provisions the fancy grade of Minnesota family flour did not change, but declines of 15 cents a barrel were seen in Spring patent and Winter soft straight flours. Middle Western lard and bacon were cheaper, but hams advanced. At Chicago live sheep and beef were higher, while short ribs, mess pork and live hogs declined.

None of the changes in the dairy products was very important. Fancy near-by eggs went up a cent a dozen, while a decline of that amount took place in fresh-gathered "firsts." A fractional decline in extra creamery butter contrasted with a rise of a quarter of a cent a pound in fresh special cheese.

The only change in the listed fresh or dried fruits was a very sharp rise in fancy apples. Only two changes, both declines, were seen in the vegetables. They were a drop of $1.25 a barrel in cabbage and one of 75 cents a barrel in potatoes.

The only changes in the beverages were declines, they showing in No. 7 Rio and No. 4 Santos coffees. Fine granulated sugar was higher, and with the rise came one in 96-degree centrifugal raw sugar. Lower prices for Zanzibar cloves and nutmegs contrasted with a rise in white Singapore pepper.

The advances in the grains this week were shown by corn, rye and malting barley. The declines took place in wheat and oats. Straw was higher. Only three changes were seen in hides. They were advances in No. 1 buff and No. 1 extreme stock and in Chicago city calfskins. No changes in leathers were shown. Tallow was higher.

Listed building materials and lumber were again without change either way, while in the metals only declines in No. 2X and gray forge pig irons and in electrolytic copper were seen.

Seven of the ten revisions in drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were declines. Features were lacking in these changes. A further rise in resin and another decline in turpentine marked the week in the naval stores.

Miscellaneous changes for the week included advances in hemp and a decline in Japanese raw silk. They also included declines in Eastern crude rubber and wool.

The week in the textiles brought a firmer tone to burlaps that was reflected in higher prices. It also brought a sentimentally stronger tone to cotton goods, in which no changes of importance were indicated.

BUSINESS NOTES.

J. V. O'Donnell is now general representative for John Traina, 224 West Thirty-fifth Street, maker of frocks and gowns. For the past four years he was with I. Heller & Co., stout dress specialists, and prior to that, with Wightman & Co., which firm retired from the trade.

Max Cohen will represent the Marvlo Mills, 54 to 56 White Street, on the Pacific Coast. He will handle that firm's line of novelty cotton fabrics, in conjunction with the household linens of Brown & Kruger, Inc., 275 Church Street.

The line of sports coats made by the Titus Manufacturing Company of Portland, Ore., is now being shown for the first time in the East. The Eastern representatives are Kaner Bros. & Mintz, sweaters and sports wear, 303 Fifth Avenue.

Lee Hamburger and K. Murray have been added to the sales staff of Ted Edelman, Inc., coat manufacturer, 134 West Thirty-seventh Street. Mr. Hamburger was formerly Middle West representative for Samuel Brimberg, and more recently for H. Davis & Son. Mr. Murray was also formerly associated with Samuel Brimberg, calling on resident buyers.

M. Lowenstein & Sons, Inc., converters and manufacturers of cotton goods, 40 to 46 West Twenty-third Street, will hold their annual clearance sale beginning next Wednesday morning. At the sale, which will continue through July 13, will be offered first quality cotton wash goods, rayon fabrics, staples, silk and cotton weaves, clothing and cloak linings, shirtings and curtain goods.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4 per cent. for the best names. Thursday—4 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

New Patterns in Silk Prints.

In the new printed silks offered for midsummer the leading patterns are black and white effects. The designs are being mainly applied to the sheerer crêpes, notably chiffons, chiffon-georgettes and georgettes in the 40-inch widths. To some extent also the new effects are featured on 40-inch crêpes de chine and radium fabrics. In the main, according to the Master Silk Printer, the designs run to small flowers, berry treatments and geometrics, although bold effects, particularly large florals, are also given attention. The opinion is expressed that the black and white trend may also be a feature of the Spring, 1927, lines of printed silks.

Fur-Trimmed Sports Coats Sell.

Fur-trimmed sports or travel coats remain fairly active items in the coat trade. Many of the retailers are using the garments to spur the immediate turnover of the coat department by taking advantage of the tourist trade and the greatly increased demand for fur-trimmed sports garments. The same type of coats will also prove suitable for the early Fall, so that retailers who are placing business now feel safe in carrying the garments if need be until the Fall. All-over and ombre plaid effects are stressed in the patterns of many of the coats.

⁂

Active Call for Beach Togs.

A fairly active reorder business in women's bathing suits is coming from retailers. Warm weather prevailing in many sections of the country during the last week or so has made heavy inroads on retail stocks which were none too large. The one-piece athletic type or the garment with modified skirt in novelty patterned worsteds or combinations of worsteds and rayon have sold well. A nice demand is also reported for bright-colored, rubberized silk costumes with cape and bandanna to match.

⁂

Undergarments That Are Wanted.

Princess slips continue to be most active items in women's undergarments. Buyers have been in the market for this merchandise together with other items for sales purposes. The best selling slips at present are ones of lustrous satin, radium or crêpe de chine in both tailored and lace trimmed styles. Pajama and chemises are also moving actively, as is voile underwear in pastel shades. Lines of glove silk underwear for Fall are being prepared and will shortly be opened.

⁂

Ruffle Curtains Lead Draperies.

Reports from wholesalers of draperies indicate that ruffle curtains of all kinds continue in active demand. Plain rayon curtains, with or without valances, are especially wanted, from all accounts. Cretonnes are reported again to be coming to the front, buyers showing particular favor to large floral patterns in highly colored designs. Orders from men now on the road have increased considerably of late over those taken during recent weeks, some of the cretonnes having been sold for deliveries quite a way ahead. Orders for terry cloths and curtains specifying future deliveries have also been taken.

⁂

Coal Trade in Good Shape.

If the second quarter of the coal year, upon which trade is now entering, proves as productive of business for the anthracite operators as the first quarter, they will have little to complain of. Saward's Journal will say today that the tonnage mined during April, May and June approximated, if it did not actually exceed, the heaviest production on record for those three months. In at least six of the thirteen weeks the output exceeded 2,000,000 net tons, and the rest of the time it fell short of that mark by only a narrow margin. About the only way in which the bituminous trade shows any departure from normal midsummer conditions is that offshore shipments are on a scale that has been equaled on only a few occasions in the past.

⁂

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

Lower prices for several standard constructions of printcloths were accepted in the local gray goods market yesterday. For spot lots of 39-inch 68-72s sellers took 7⅞ cents, and they also sold spot and July 38½-inch 64-60s at 7 cents. For spot 38½-inch 60-48s buyers paid 5⅞ cents. Sheetings were not very active, but among the sales were 36-inch 56-60, four-yard goods at 8¾ cents. July-August deliveries of 36-inch 6.15-yard sheetings were sold at 5¾ cents. Fine-yarn cloths put in a quiet day, as did most of the coarse-yarn fabrics. Some buying of 37½-inch 4.37-yard sateens, in the East, was done at 11½ cents.

⁂

Rug Demand Is Unsettled.

With the mill inventory season at hand, not a great deal of business is now being done by first hands in the carpet and rug end of the floor covering field. The jobbers, on the other hand, report a good business in Fall lines with retailers outside of the metropolitan district. Some mills have lately been putting special prices on certain lines, which were said yesterday to be snapped up by large retailers for August sales. Whether these reductions were on discontinued patterns, or whether they were the result of a desire to dispose of stock accumulations prior to inventorying, could not be learned yesterday. Among the goods reduced were wiltons and certain grades of velvets. The cuts in the wiltons were said to be quite sharp, but whether they will stay in effect will not be apparent for a week or ten days.

⁂

Doll Shortage Is Threatened.

A shortage of American-made dolls is threatened by conditions now existing in the industry, according to a statement issued yesterday by the trade association known as the American Doll Manufacturers. "Owing to the enforced idleness in most of the factories," the statement says, "a large number of skilled and semi-skilled workers have been forced into other lines, and the manufacturers anticipate a real shortage in this class of labor if business comes in with the late rush that the present lack of orders indicates as probable. The manufacturers are convinced that the 1926 demand for dolls will equal, if not exceed, that of last year, but they have grave fears of their ability to handle in two or three months the volume normally distributed in seven or eight." Prompt buying by jobbers and retailers was said to be the only way to insure proper deliveries.

BUSINESS RECORDS

FAILURES FOR THE WEEK.

BRADSTREET'S reports 327 failures for the week in the United States, as compared with 370 for the previous week and 342, 363, 268, 309 for the corresponding weeks 1925 to 1922. The New England States had 39; Middle, 85; Western, 62; Northwestern, 33; Southern, 77; Far Western, 31. Canada had 25, against 22. In the United States about 75.5 per cent. of the concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less and 18 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000.

FIDELITY MUTUAL CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANY of Newark—George B. Astley appointed.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 2.—Herbert J. Koehler, receiver for the defunct firm of J. R. Tucker, Inc., of this city, today filed an application with Vice Chancellor Leaming to have declared null and void a real estate transaction made by Tucker last May 18. The deal involved property valued at $70,000. The plaintiff alleges that property in a suburb of Camden, owned by Tucker, was sold to William McLoughlin of Atlantic City for $1 as a substitute for a debt of $70,000. Koehler maintains that since Tucker was in the midst of a bankruptcy proceeding he had no right to sell any of his assets.

OTHER DISTRICTS.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 2.—The Outing Shoe Company of Worcester filed a petition in bankruptcy. Its schedules disclose liabilities of $152,197, of which $139,110 is unsecured to about 125 creditors, the largest being the American Felt Company of this city for $37,247, First National Bank of this city, $14,520; Mechanics National Bank, Worcester, $16,646, and Merchants National Bank, Worcester, $18,816. The balance is represented in taxes due.

Assets are $38,739, of which amount $19,174 is represented in bills and promissory notes and $11,256 in deposits in bank and elsewhere.

URGE JEWS TO AID CONGRESS LIBRARY

Celler and Jacobstein Tell of Needs of Its Department of Semitic Literature.

SEEK TO RAISE $150,000

Funds Would Be Used in Addition to the Regular Government Appropriations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A plea to the Jews of the United States to raise $150,000 to enlarge the Semitic Division of the Library of Congress, established in 1913 at the time Jacob Schiff made his first contribution of over 10,000 books of Hebraic literature, was made today in a joint statement issued by Representatives Celler and Jacobstein of New York.

The two members named announced that the Library's Department of Semitic and Oriental Literature, containing books in Hebrew, Arabic, Aramaic and cognate languages, as well as Yiddish and Judaic, was in need of funds to supplement governmental appropriations to increase the collections and also for the establishment of a Chair of Semitics.

Under Dr. Israel Schapiro, chief of the division since its inception, this department, Messrs. Jacobstein and Celler stated, had been considerably extended and now contained over 25,000 volumes in the Hebrew language alone, covering modern and ancient Hebraic literature.

"The full development of the collection and the service essential to interpret it, so that Hebraic and Semitic history, institutions and literature may receive proper importance in the Library of Congress, cannot be achieved through Government funds alone.

"What is needed is an endowment the income of which will be applicable to the purchase of material, as Mr. Pennell's bequest will be applicable to the purchase of prints, and an endowment for the expert service, including an honorarium for the chief of the Semitic Division, as Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge has provided an honorarium for the chief of the Music Division. The act creating the Trust Fund Board specifically permits such honoraria and invites endowments for them.

"The sums needed are $100,000 as endowment for purchase and $50,000 as endowment for the chair. The Government will do its (major) part in providing for the accommodation of the collections, the ordinary acquisitions and the subordinate service.

"It is suggested that for the present at least $150,000 be raised by willing and enlightened Jews to be presented to the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board, the interest of which shall be used to augment the present number of Hebraic and Judaica possessed by the Library, and to acquire rare and unique items of Semitica that may present themselves, and to endow a chair for Semitics so as to ensure permanently a scholarly conduct of the division."

EXPOSES DERVISHES' TRICKS

Parisian Shows That Pain Immunity Is Only Will Power.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 2.—In the presence of a gathering of well known Paris physicians and journalists Paul Heuze, who for several years has been specializing in exposing mediums, fakers and others whose performances deceive credulous people, gave an astonishing demonstration which proved that there is nothing "supernatural" about certain well-known tricks.

Immunity from pain and the faculty to endure what for ordinary humans would be torture is generally put forward as evidence either of natural disposition or a peculiar physical state engendered through religious ferver. M. Heuze showed to the satisfaction of his audience that anybody possessing sufficient will power would be able to perform similar tricks.

Without any previous preparation he pierced his cheeks and throat with a number of long, sharp, steel needles, the operation being just as bloodless as when performed by dervishes and other fakers. M. Heuze lay barebacked and barelegged upon a board studded with sharp nails. He remained reclining several minutes and when he arose the nails had not pierced the skin, the latter showing only a fine dent marking each point, also one or two scratches made in lying down or getting up.

M. Heuze had made only a single previous rehearsal before experimenting publicly.

PLANS CAMP FOR CRIPPLES.

Rotary Club Gets Land From Long Island Park Commission.

The Long Island State Park Commission has set aside several acres of land on Fire Island for the use of the Rotary Club of New York in building a camp for crippled boys, it was announced at the headquarters of the Rotary Club in the Hotel McAlpin yesterday. Approximately $30,000 is to be expended immediately on the camp.

Several hundred Rotarians will devote part of their time to giving the boys' vocational advice and training. A library will be maintained in addition to the other comforts of the camp.

The club has been cooperating with the New York State Association for Crippled Children in this work. Raymond J. Knoeppel, President of the association, in referring to the Rotary camp, said: "When it is contemplated that 90 per cent. of these children can be made almost well, and a great many of them 100 per cent. perfect, it will be understood that this is not only a work of humanity, but the solution of a great economic problem—the rehabilitation of 30,000 people who might otherwise become charges of the State."

Claflins to Stay on Their Block.

In order to remain on the block, the major portion of which it has occupied for more than fifty years, the Claflin Corporation has entered into a lease with the new owners of the Claflin block for a large amount of space on the Thomas Street and West Broadway sides of the property. The dry goods merchants will occupy the portion of the property just leased during the construction of the new building, where they may have space with entrances on Worth Street.

West 27th Street Investment.

The four-story business building located at 52 West Twenty-seventh Street, key to the corner of Sixth Avenue, was sold by the Amead Realty Corporation. The purchaser, Frank Traendly, wholesale florist, will hold the property for investment. Kaufman & Kellogg were associate brokers with Ames & Co.

This site is only 210 feet east of Castle Hill Avenue and adjoins three homes recently built by Castle Hill Estate, Inc.

Six lots on the north side of Virgil Avenue were purchased by the Kasmitkern Realty Corporation. This firm plans to improve these lots with private one-family dwellings. A two-lot plot with a frontage of fifty feet on the south side of Lafayette Avenue was purchased by R. J. Beiersdorfer.

LEHIGH ADDS TO SITE.

Railroad Buys Property Adjoining Harlem Terminal.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has enlarged its terminal on the Harlem River front in the Bronx by a large purchase of land adjoining its terminal from the Jordan L. Mott heirs. The purchase, which was made by the Pioneer Real Estate Company, holding concern for the railroad, involves a tract fronting about 350 feet on the Harlem River, extending south from 144th Street, and running across Exterior Street to Gerard Avenue, a distance of between 550 and 600 feet.

The property, which has been in the possession of the Mott family for a number of years, has been held in the name of the Mott Haven Company. It has a frontage of 207.3 feet on Gerard Avenue and runs 184 feet along 144th Street, across Exterior Street taking in the roadbed of the latter thoroughfare. Recently the railroad purchased the property of Church E. Gates & Co. on Exterior Street, lying to the north. With the latest acquisition the railroad controls practically all of the Harlem River frontage from 149th Street down to a point where 143d Street would be if continued.

Operators From Bay Shore and Other Long Island Towns Organize.

Special to The New York Times.

BAY SHORE, L. I., July 2.—A new chapter of the Long Island Real Estate Board was organized here last night at a dinner held in the Cortland House, attended by real estate operators from Islip, Bay Shore, East Islip, Central Islip, Sayville and Ronkonkoma. The speakers were J. Wilson Baycon, President of the Long Island Real Estate Board and O. J. Hartwig, its executive secretary.

The purpose of the new chapter will be to restrict real estate operations to licensed dealers, thereby curtailing the sales of "get-rich-quick" brokers.

It was announced that another meeting of the board would be held in the same place on July 15 with representatives from all towns on Long Island.

COMMERCIAL LEASES.

Firms Rent Space in West Side Buildings.

The third floor at 39-41 West Thirty-second Street was leased to Wilmot Milbury, knit goods; part of floor at 6-8 West Twenty-second Street to Max Green, hemstitching; showroom in the Flatiron Building, 949 Broadway, to John B. Weber, carpets; 220 Fifth Avenue to Arnold Schwartz and Inter-Ocean Import Corporation, novelties, and 621 Broadway to Benjamin Fink, dry goods jobber. Spear & Co., were the brokers in these leases.

Cross & Brown Company leased space in the Brokaw Building, 1,457 Broadway, to Fels & Sachs, Inc., as offices.

The Haggstrom - Callen Company leased for Howard Payson Wilds as attorney the one-story and basement at 16 La Salle Street to K. C. Nadler, roofing supplies.

Third Avenue Flats Sold.

The Hesu Realty Corporation, I. Heller, President, sold two five-story buildings on a plot 54 by 100 feet, containing eighteen families and two large stores at 4,036 and 4,038 Third Avenue. The property rents for $9,000. Jacob Kohn and Ida Afromowitz were the buyers. This is the first conveyance since 1909. De Prospo & Benjamin were the brokers.

$400,000 Loan Placed.

Robert A. Martin Company, Inc., has placed for Chicopee Realty Corporation (a subsidiary of the American Bosch Magneto Corporation) a first mortgage loan of $400,000 at 5½ per cent. and 5 per cent. interest on the eleven-story and basement store and office building, 17 to 23 West Sixtieth Street, on a plot 75 by 100 feet.

CHESTER DANE BUYS BIG COUNTRY ESTATE

Member of Pease & Elliman to Occupy Benkard Property in Bedford Hills.

OTHER SUBURBAN DEALS

Active Trading in New Jersey, Long Island and Staten Island Properties.

Chester L. Dane, Vice President of Pease & Elliman, Inc., has bought through the country department of Pease & Elliman, Inc., the property belonging to H. H. Benkard at Bedford Hills, formerly the country place owned by Mrs. Marie Wheeler.

It consists of twenty-five acres, with a house of early American architecture, together with superintendent's cottage, stable, garage and greenhouse. Broad Brook flows through the land, and in the immediate vicinity are the estates of General Palmer Pierce, Harold T. White and John Handy. Mr. Dane will make alterations to the property and occupy it as his Summer home.

Prince & Ripley have sold for the Hastings Highlands Company, Inc., three building plots in the Riverview Manor section of Dobbs Ferry to O. C. Webster.

The Milligan estate has sold its holdings in Deal, N. J., through the office of David S. Meyer, Inc., to Joseph Treppel. The property comprises a tract of six acres improved with a large residence, garage with living quarters, stable and other outbuildings. The property fronts about 220 feet on Lincoln Avenue and runs through a depth of 1,000 feet to Lawrence Avenue, where it has a frontage of about 400 feet. The same brokers also sold for John H. Stamler a plot 200 by 150 feet on Marine Place, Deal, to the same buyer.

Karl H. Sourell sold to Alexander Grodnick his residence in the Journal Square section of Jersey City at the northwest corner of Summit and Van Reipen Avenues, a frame dwelling on a plot fronting 25 feet on Summit Avenue by 100 feet on Van Reipen Avenue. J. I. Kislak, Inc., negotiated the sale.

Martha L. Landes sold through H. Frankfort & Son, Inc., to A. H. Klubach a brick veneer dwelling and garage on the east side of Clinton Avenue, Cedarhurst. The new owner will occupy the entire year.

The Thomas A. McMahon Realty Corporation sold for the Hewlett Bay Corporation at Hewlett the following plots: To Mrs. Francis Newkirk, three plots on Knoll Street; to Miss Marion Schultz, three plots, and to Samuel Reno three plots on the same street.

Domar Developers sold to Eugene Walsh three lots at Domar Canal, Oceanside; to Richard G. Tietze six lots and to Mrs. Jessie H. Dawson an additional home site on Oceanside Road.

Michael F. McDermott has resold the property which he recently purchased at the southeast corner of Grand Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, Jackson Heights, a plot 42 by 200 by irregular, to a syndicate of New York operators who control the adjoining property. The Hub Realty Company acted as brokers in the sale and resale.

The Herald Agency sold a subdivision of Oakwood Heights, S. I., consisting of approximately 300 lots, to the Opportunity Land Owners, Inc. This property was purchased from the Nora & Norta Construction Company. The same agency also sold a large tract with 1,000 feet road frontage on Richmond Hill Road and Richmond Avenue for S. Carlin and M. Croak.

PRIVATE HOUSE SALES.

James J. Riordan Buys West Twelfth Street Residence.

Jerome H. Frank, operator, has purchased the brownstone private dwelling at 282 West 127th Street, on a plot 16 by 100 feet. A resale of the premises is now pending.

Pepe & Brother sold for Mrs. Henry Gourd her four-story and basement private residence at 21 West Twelfth Street, on a lot 25 by 106 feet. The purchaser is James J. Riordan. Mr. Riordan expects to occupy the residence after extensive alterations have been made.

Philip M. Plant, whose residence is at 1,051 Fifth Avenue, has purchased from S. C. Welsh Jr. the four-story dwelling at 3 West Eighty-sixth Street, on a lot 16 by 88 feet. The house is separated from his Fifth Avenue residence by a five-story dwelling at No. 1.

Henrietta Goodridge owns and occupies 34 East Sixty-third Street, a five-story structure, and has purchased the adjoining four-story dwelling at 36, 20 by 100.5 feet, from Mary C. Hubbard. The purchaser now controls 38 feet.

Purchase has been made by the Association of the Graduates of Columbia Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi of the four-story dwelling at 526 West 144th Street, 25 by 100.11, from Bertha M. Bentley.

Malverne Manor Sale Today.

James R. Murphy will open a Summer auction campaign on Long Island today with a sale of 300 residence lots comprising Malverne Manor, in Nassau County, just north of Lynbrook and between the two main highways to Hempstead. On three sides of the property to be sold extensive home developments are in the making. The lots which Mr. Murphy will sell are on Wicks Lane, Rider Avenue, Cambridge Street, and other streets between Hempstead Avenue and Ocean Avenue, a new 50-foot concrete boulevard. The sale will be held on the premises at 2 P. M.

Theatre for Greenwich Avenue.

Jacob Levy, Joseph L. Buttenwieser, Elias Littman and Gabriel Silverman, trustees of the estate of Morris Littman, have sold to a builder 127 Greenwich Avenue and 4 Horatio Street. The buyer contemplates erecting a motion picture theatre. The property has been in the Littman family for almost sixty years and has been held at $100,000. Henry W. Unger represented the seller.

Greenwich (Conn.) Estate Sold.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 2.—The property of the Luther M. Werner estate on North Street has been sold to Walter J. M. Donovan. The property consists of a large Colonial residence and outbuildings and twelve acres of land. The transaction was closed through the Thomas N. Cooke Agency.

Those Crowded Trains to the Country

Children crying, possibly the wife a trifle peevish, you ready to fight, and everybody steaming.

Or you driving the Rolls or the Lizzie down a dusty crowded road. Beginners bumping your fenders, road hogs cutting in, no place to stop, no place to go, everywhere crowded.

What a happy holiday!

Why not live in the country and be there on the holiday? Too expensive, you say, too far to travel every day. Nonsense.

Come live on a Hill in sight of the water, at

CASTLE HILL ESTATE

Overlooking Westchester Bay

In the East Bronx, not far from the Lexington Avenue Subway, where you can walk, or take the Castle Hill Ave. bus, if you don't like walking.

Just think of being right there every day in a lovely rural setting with the cool southwest water breezes blowing through the windows, and only a step down to the little park at the Point, with dandy picnicking places on the parts of our own property until they are developed; such as the shady hill top where the old mansion stood, with its entrancing views, and the woods west of Olmstead Ave., and the rocky mount looking far to the west.

Too expensive? $1,000 for good lots; $1,100 for better lots; $1,250 for very fine lots; $3,150 for Castle Hill Ave. lots.

Wander all over that region and see whether you can find anything equal at twice the price.

With all our developed lots, we give graded streets, sewers and beautiful views and breezes without extra charge.

Take Lexington Ave. Subway (Pelham Bay Division) to Castle Hill Ave. Station and go south to property; or take 180th St. crosstown trolley to Castle Hill Ave. and go south to property.

"AL" GRAHAM WILL SEE YOU.

Say, boys, I can't be as good as all that. I've been taking on a lot of men this week for Pine Terrace, though I hear on all sides that good men are hard to get. I'll have to admit that Pine Terrace and Chatham Associates, Inc., are the kind of propositions that help a man considerably.

I'm not going to talk to you about Pine Terrace. You've read some of our advertising. You be the judge. Come out and see it. Yes, at our expense. Lots as low as $300. Figure out your own earnings on a liberal commission.

The men who own Chatham Associates, Inc., also own the property they are developing. There is $7,000,000 worth of it. Pine Terrace is only the first of their operations. I have told you before. They have the resources, the vision and the right conception of a square deal to investor and salesman. I know all this. You are going to sense all this the moment you step into our offices. You are going to get the impression that everything is up and up, and it is all there for you.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The Commission announces examinations for this position, applications to close July 10, and examinations set for places scattered all over the country.

SPECIAL AGENT, INTELLIGENCE UNIT, at $2,400-$2,700-$3,000, for vacancies in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, and in positions requiring similar qualifications. Employes are also allowed actual necessary traveling expenses. The duties of the position will cover a wide range of investigating work in connection with two distinct subjects: First, serious infraction of disciplinary rules or regulations of the service, which may be of such a nature as to require special attention or which may indicate probable criminality; and second, charges indicating serious violation of internal revenue laws.

And for these positions, applications to close July 13:

ASSOCIATE NATURAL GAS ENGINEER, at $3,000, for vacancy in the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce, for duty at Fort Worth, Texas, and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications, for duty in Washington, D. C., or in the field. Duties are under general administrative direction, to make studies of and prepare reports on the structure, underground conditions, gas resources and operating methods in natural gas fields; to furnish for executive action reports on projects for the construction of plants, pipe lines and compressor stations; and to make engineering studies relating to the transportation and measurement of natural gas.

ECONOMIST (TAXATION), ASSOCIATE and ASSISTANT, at respectively $3,800, $3,000 and $2,400 a year, for vacancies in the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, for duty in Washington, D. C., or in the field, and in positions requiring similar qualifications. The duties of Taxation Economists will be to carry out, under general administration supervision, individually or with associates or assistants, major investigations in the taxation of forests as related to other forms of taxation and in other phases of forest economics.

The duties of Associate Taxation Economists will be to carry out, individually or with a small number of associates or assistants, under general supervision, but with latitude for the exercise of independent judgment, responsible investigations in the taxation of forests as related to other forms of taxation, and in other phases of forest economics.

The duties of Assistant Taxation Economists will be to carry out, under immediate or general supervision, individually or with a small number of associates or assistants, investigations in the taxation of forests as related to other forms of taxation, and in other phases of forest economics.

SENIOR MEDICAL TECHNICIAN (PATHOLOGY), at $1,860, for a vacancy in the Surgeon General's Office, War Department, Washington, D. C., and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications. Duties are under direction to dissect, prepare, describe and classify histological and pathological specimens and arrange such materials for sectioning, study, and display; to do research work in technical methods; to perform related duties as assigned, including assisting in autopsies.

Nye Victory in North Dakota Grows.

FARGO, N. D., July 2 (AP).—Further returns tonight emphasized the victory won by North Dakota Non-Partisan Leaguers in the primary election Wednesday for the Republican Senatorial and gubernatorial nominations. The independent forces apparently have control of the Legislature. The latest figures on the long term Senatorial nomination gave to Senator Gerald P. Nye 69,573, with 1,609 of 2,167 precincts reported. L. B. Hanna had 58,222 and C. P. Stone, wet candidate, 9,180. Figures on the short term Senatorial election, with 1,122 precincts reported, were Nye, 42,996; Hanna, 38,826; Stone, 9,356.

POULTRY INDUSTRY NAMES A DIRECTOR

Major L'Esperance Accepts Dealers' Offer in Move to End Grafting.

RESULTS FOLLOW QUICKLY

Health Commissioner Gets New Fraud Evidence Which He Links With Milk Scandal.

Major David A. L'Esperance, former special assistant to the United States Attorney General, in charge of the enforcement of the Sherman act in the Southern District of New York, will have general supervision of the poultry industry here. Announcement to that effect was made yesterday by Major L'Esperance.

The post was offered by a group said to represent 80 per cent. of the reputable poultry dealers in this city, and accepted by Major L'Esperance on the condition that the dealers would cooperate with Dr. Louis I. Harris, Commissioner of Health, in his campaign to punish grafters. The decision brought quick results, for several poultry dealers visited the Health Department yesterday afternoon and made what Dr. Harris termed "startling disclosures."

"I have the most direct testimony from the poultry dealers themselves which indicates that there has been a ring operating in the business even more powerful than the organization with which Harry Danziger surrounded himself to collect graft from milk men," Dr. Harris said last night.

"This ring was in the closest touch with at least two of the central figures in the milk scandal, and worked in vollusion with employes of the Health Department who were concerned in the collection of graft from milk dealers. These two men conducted negotiations of an illicit character totaling millions of dollars."

Dr. Harris said he could not be more specific regarding the amount of money extorted from the poultry dealers until his investigation had progressed further, but that the total was "enormous."

Dr. Harris said he had gone over the list of the Public Service Reserve Corps, which was organized by Dr. Frank J. Monaghan when he was Commissioner of Health, as an adjunct to the Health Department, and done away with by Dr. Harris within a month after he assumed office. "I have studied the names of the 506 persons who attended the dinner given by the corps at the Hotel Commodore April 29, 1925," he said, "and although an appreciable number were reputable and estimable people, I nevertheless found the names of 170 men thus far identified with the sinister records of graft in connection with the adulteration of milk, the blending of cocoanut oil with cream, and the scandals which had to do with the butter and egg market.

"Members of the Reserve Corps were furnished with identification cards, and these cards gave them authority to make inspections and assist Health Department officials in making raids and serving summonses. Although the reserve corps was organized by Dr. Monaghan, the active work was done by his secretary, Thomas J. Clougher. I have reason to believe that the list of those at the Hotel Commodore dinner who were concerned in the illicit graft activities will exceed 170 when I complete my investigation. Eighteen tables were filled with guests who paid $10 a plate. The 'fixers' and 'shakedown men' were there in force. I said at the time I abolished the reserve corps—and with less knowledge than I have today—that food dealers, some of whom had bad records, should not be placed in a position to render 'voluntary aid' to the Health Department."

Major L'Esperance said he would try to place the live poultry industry on a "decent basis." He explained that more than 1,000,000 live fowl come into the city each week, and that the annual volume of business amounts to $80,000,000. He had in mind, he said, the formation of a Live Poultry Chamber of Commerce, where all problems could be "discussed in the open."

The Committee on Legislation of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation is considering an analysis of the milk situation which has been presented to Governor Smith by Berne A. Pyrke, State Commissioner of Farms and Markets. It was made at the request of George B. Graves, Secretary to the Governor.

"The more efficient production of milk is a problem for the industry and not for legislation," Commissioner Pyrke said. "In my opinion there is absolutely no reason to believe that legislation on the subject would be helpful, and there is very serious ground for the fear that it might prove harmful, if not catastrophic."

SCHOOLBOY ORATOR SPEAKS IN WALL ST.

Laurence Braunstein Defends the Patriotism of Youth at Security League Meeting.

Laurence Braunstein, 15-year-old east side high school boy, spoke for the patriotism of the rising generation at an Independence Week meeting on the steps of the Subtreasury Building, under the auspices of the National Security League, at noon yesterday.

Julius Hyman, director of the speakers bureau of the league, was Chairman of the meeting, and spoke on the Declaration of Independence. William D. Bosler, former Assistant District Attorney, spoke on Thomas Jefferson. "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America" were sung by the audience.

The speakers talked from the pedestal of the statue of George Washington, with a dozen Boy Scouts from the Brooklyn Edison Company troop standing behind them. To close the ceremonies, the Boy Scouts saluted the flag while they recited the pledge of allegiance.

Mr. Hyman, in his address, referred to the attempt to ban the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" at a patriotic celebration at the New York Port Society, and added that he wondered what those supporting the ban would think of the indictment of George III in the Declaration of Independence.

Braunstein, who is a senior in the Seward Park High School, on Essex Street, spoke on the theme, "A Schoolboy Answers a Soapbox Orator." He pictured a street speaker urging on his audience the benefits of the present Russian Government.

"Had you spoken against the old Russian monarchy with such freedom," he answered the hypothetical speaker, "you would have been shot at sunrise; and had you so spoken against the present Russian Government, which you praise so highly, you would not have been shot at sunrise; they would not have waited that long.

"This whole American civilization, and all the institutions which have grown up under it in 150 years you would throw on the scrap heap. But my generation, the younger generation, know better than that. We shall cherish it, and hope to hand it on to the succeeding generation even better and more beautiful than we received it."

CALLS GAS IN WAR POOR DEATHDEALER

Useful to Germans Merely to Spread Panic, Dr. Haber, Their Chief Expert, Says.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 2.—Gas as a weapon in warfare has a very limited sphere of action and is not effective, according to Dr. Fritz Haber, Germany's foremost chemical engineer, who was chief adviser in gas service during the World War. He believes that gas is effective only as a means of breaking down the morale of troops or civilians, but that this panic-creating effect is due only to its novelty, and that in time its effect on soldiers would not be greater than the noise of gunfire. The idea that all forms of organic life in large cities can be wiped out in the space of a few minutes or hours by the use of some mysterious form of poisonous gas, Dr. Haber characterizes as the purest fantasy and far beyond the realm of present possibilities, so far as its use is now known.

"When reed grass is merely moved by breezes one can pack up one's gas equipment and go home," he says. "Many other weather conditions also render it useless."

The German chemical industry is opposed to every attempt to develop gas as a weapon, either offensive or defensive, Dr. Haber asserts.

"Germany, through its use of gas in the World War," he says, "incurred the world's hate and nurtured the growth of competition with the German chemical industry to the extent that it is ready to cry quits. Again, very few lives were lost through gas, although its effect on morale was considerable, but that only because it was a new sensation, and the mystery of death seemed lurking everywhere. Death heralded by whistling shells exploding with a thunderous crash and with flying splinters of jagged steel armies have known for decades. Its advent in the form of silent, invisible gas was new, and therefore had a psychological effect."

Dr. Haber believes airplanes carrying high explosive bombs will kill greater numbers and wreak more havoc than could be effected with any gas now known. He says the progress in the development of gas is very slow now, although rapid when it was first attempted and until a certain point was reached.

Another reason why gas is not effective is the growing efficiency of airplanes, which tend to reduce the concentration of troops on the front lines, since the entire country, including women and children in the back areas, is also subject to the dangers of war.

There are no secrets in gas warfare, according to Dr. Haber, who cites the last war, saying that as fast as a new gas was concocted the enemy learned its composition, since sooner or later a dud shell would give all the information to the opponent.

To believe that Germany would be best equipped for war through development of the chemical industry is a great mistake, concludes Dr. Haber, who says that gas never can replace iron ore as a war agent and that since the loss of Lorraine the Reich no longer numbers this mineral among its resources.

BRONX BOY'S SLAYER DEMENTED, IS BELIEF

Man Who Shot James Oddo Near His Home Still Unidentified—Chum Discharged.

The slaying of James Oddo, 16 years old, of 1,071 White Plains Avenue, the Bronx, who was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant at White Plains and Gleason Avenues, near his home, last Wednesday night, is believed by the police to have been the work of a demented man.

Oddo, with his chum, James De Feo, 20 years old, of 1,047 White Plains Avenue, was returning from a garage after putting away an automobile belonging to Mrs. William Fredrichsen, a neighbor, of 1,067 White Plains Avenue, when the shooting occurred. Mrs. Fredrichsen's husband is out of the city and as she is unable to drive the car, Oddo and De Feo frequently took her and her children out in the evening.

De Feo told the police that while he and Oddo were walking in White Plains Avenue a man suddenly approached from behind, and exclaiming to Oddo, "I'm going to shoot you," drew a pistol and fired. Oddo fell with a bullet through the head.

De Feo was questioned at length by the police regarding the shooting, but was discharged yesterday by District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx, who said that he was satisfied that De Feo had told everything he knew about the affair.

LAWYER, SANE, FREE, HUNTS FOR FAMILY

Former Railroad Counsel, Back From Trip, Finds Wife and Children Gone.

THEN HE IS JAILED AS INSANE

James M. Sheean's Commitment Is Laid to Family Quarrel—Father-in-Law Involved.

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., July 2.—After spending a night in the county jail here where he was confined on commitment papers alleging mental unsoundness, James M. Sheean of Evanston, Ill., formerly Vice President and general counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, was released today by Vice Chancellor Robert Ingersoll, who ruled that the commitment was illegal after a hearing in Atlantic City. Mr. Sheean's attorney attributed the commitment to a family quarrel in which he said George W. Holman, father-in-law of his client and former Assemblyman, was involved.

Mr. Sheean, who was retired two years ago by the Chicago & Northwestern, went to New York a fortnight ago and spent two days there on business. He visited the offices of his former employers and attended to some other matters. He then returned to the Ocean House here, which is owned by Mr. Holman and where he had been stopping with his family.

Found Family Gone.

On his arrival Mr. Sheean found that his wife, Mrs. Emily Sheean, and his two children, Emily, 12 years old, and James, 7, had disappeared with his mother-in-law. He asked Mr. Holman where they were, but evidently could obtain no satisfactory information. He then moved out of the hotel and has been staying at the Marion Inn, across the street, since.

Yesterday the commitment papers were served on Mr. Sheean and he was taken to the county jail. However, he had already retained Howard Stewart, former partner of Vice Chancellor Barry, as counsel. The papers were signed by County Judge Ralph Slaughter, and the physicians who testified to Mr. Sheean's condition were Dr. Robert Beurman of Lakewood and Dr. Henry H. Davis of Toms River.

At the hearing in Atlantic City today Mr. Stewart testified that last night the Warden at the jail had referred him to Sheriff Grant, who was quoted as saying that Mr. Sheean was obviously sane. Neither Dr. Davis nor Dr. Beurman made a personal examination of Mr. Sheean, Mr. Stewart said.

Offers Reward for Information.

Meanwhile Mr. Sheean has no idea where his wife and children are. He has offered a reward for information concerning them and enlisted the aid of the local police, the State authorities and the New York City police. Mr. Holman refused to discuss the case over the telephone. He denied knowledge of Mrs. Sheean's whereabouts.

Mr. Stewart said tonight that he would bring suit against Mr. Holman and the two physicians who signed the papers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheean have been married fourteen years, and prior to their coming to Toms River had never had any domestic difficulties, it was said. Mr. Sheean is reported to have had a large practice in Chicago, where he was a member of the firm of Calhoun, Lyford & Sheean. He has represented Armour & Co. and other large corporations.

LISBON, Portugal, July 2 (AP).—The State budget, submitted to the Ministerial Council today, shows a Government deficit of 276,000 contos (about $12,500,000).

MOVE TO RESTRAIN M'LAUGHLIN AND HARRIS

Chiropractors and Naturopaths Want Commissioners to Let Them Practice in Peace.

Complaint in an action against Police Commissioner McLaughlin and Health Commissioner Harris brought by the Chiropractic Naturopathic Association, of 360 West Fifty-eighth Street, was filed yesterday in the United States District Court. A temporary injunction is sought restraining the defendants from interfering with association members "in their professional business." Upon final hearing the petition asks a permanent injunction restraining all officials in the State from interfering with the business of chiropractors, naturopaths and all other drugless healers.

The complaint alleges that numerous arrests were made by the Police and Health Commissioners, who charged the members were practicing medicine without a license. It is further stated that the laws under which the arrests were made do not apply to chiropractors or naturopaths, and that there are in fact no laws at present which regulate these two methods of healing.

Referring to the Webb-Loomis and Lattin Medical Practice acts, the plaintiff alleges that just prior to the passage of this legislation, the defendants caused policewomen to visit chiropractors in New York, posing as prospective patients in order to get evidence.

Characterizing the new Medical Practice acts as "a menace and a nuisance," the complaint alleges that the arrests following the visits of the policewomen were made for political purposes to prejudice the public against chiropractic and naturopathic practitioners, and that after the passage of the bills the cases were dropped. The complaint also asks that the Court declare the Webb-Loomis and Lattin acts unconstitutional.

An Opportunity for Public Service

THE seal of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company founded in 1830, now the Trust Department of this Company, bore the words

"Protection for Widows, Children and Old Age".

Since its beginning our Trust Department has afforded protection to many beneficiaries under private trusts, and has in addition administered many trusts for charitable, philanthropic and religious purposes.

By our recent qualification to act under the Uniform Trust for Public Uses we have greatly enlarged our opportunity for public service. This new form of Trust effectively insures the carrying out of the intentions of the founder of a fund for public, charitable or religious purposes, and guarantees the indefinite continuance of the usefulness of the fund in spite of changed conditions in the future.

If you contemplate establishing a fund for philanthropic purposes either now or by will, send for our booklet The Uniform Trust for Public Uses, and request your lawyer to use this form of Trust in drawing the necessary papers.

EXTRA POWER IN THE PINCHES

The free-for-all of modern driving requires "extra power in the pinches"

THE "great open spaces" are melting away before the advance of the country's army of twenty million cars. And there's scarcely a cross-road town that doesn't have its traffic-jams. Scarcely a good road that isn't lined with hurrying cars.

No wonder driving-emergencies come thick and fast. No wonder safe driving today demands a new kind of power—live, instant, "extra power in the pinches".

For three years Tide Water technologists have been working in laboratories and on the road to develop an improved gasoline to meet the special needs of modern driving. And now in Tydol, they have achieved such a gasoline. Tests prove that Tydol gives greater "availability of power" than other gasolines.

Test this improved gasoline yourself. Watch its lightning pickup. Feel the instant rush of extra power when you need it.

Tydol will give you a new thrill in driving, a new sense of security in the emergencies when you need added power and need it in a hurry.

And Tydol which costs no more than ordinary gasolines gives you the increased mileage for which it has long been famous.

At the black and orange Tydol pump—extra power!
